It's the sounds that make this a school, a party, and a fitness club. For 182 days, each student wakes up to the buzz of their alarm clock, hears the shhhh of the shower, then the hummm of the hair dryer before closing the door of the car with a thump, vrooming to 29230 Wolf Road in order to hear the ring of the first bell at 7:45 am. The day begins with the zip of the backpack and the clang of the locker closing, the stomp of feet on the main stairs and the occasional squeak when it rains or snows. The chairs scrape the floor as each student gets comfortable with their feet on the basket under the chair in front of them. The crackle is heard as the public announcement system is turned on and then the all too well known beep to start the day and ending with a familiar "Have a Rocket day!" The squeak of a dry erase marker on the new white boards make it certain that school has officially begun.

With a school of merely 800 students, it's amazing how many outstanding athletes Bay has enrolled. However, the hard work put in has a lot to do with their success. Year-round, the soccer players dribble with a thump and football player grunt with every weight that they lift. The basketball players shoot around with a swish. The scrape and the whirr can be heard as the hockey players practice on their in-line skates. Cross country can be heard in the halls through the winter with a clump and golfers practice their swing with a swoosh. Baseball practices in the gym on Bay High shakes off Y2K For the new year, everything in the school was unplugged. The school system, along with the rest of the world was prepared for some sort of disaster to take place. Fortunately, the year started with a bang. Back to school on January 3, 2000. No glitches whatsoever.

The entire fall sports athletes and parents giggled as Mr. Liptrap, Bay's athletic director, came out dressed in drag at the fall sports awards. He was pretending to be the All-American soccer player, Judi Aschenbrener by donning a wig and her uniform. His bold actions made the traditionally very dull banquet very amusing.

It's the sound heard in the band hallway after Matt Williams and other orchestra members visit the Lance machine.

Most items in the Lance machine are sold for 50¢ or 60¢. Combos, pretzels, and other "food" items are commonly less expensive than the more desired sweets such as Rolo's, Starbursts, and Skittles. Dunking sticks, one of the most popular Lance items because they are both sweet and substantial, are sold for the economical price of 50¢.

Its the sound of Mr. Kaiser blowing his whistle to start the first conditioning of the summer. However, the 'toots' don't stop there. All through the fall each coach signaled the start and stop of each drill, when to get water, and to end practice. During winter, the 'toots' from Mr. McFarland's whistle are heard on Tuesdays and Thursdays to run plyometrics.

The library is supposed to quiet but when a group of high school students gather it rarely is. During QRP, students get passes to library so that they can see their friends that are normally in other rooms. The librarians are constantly saying.

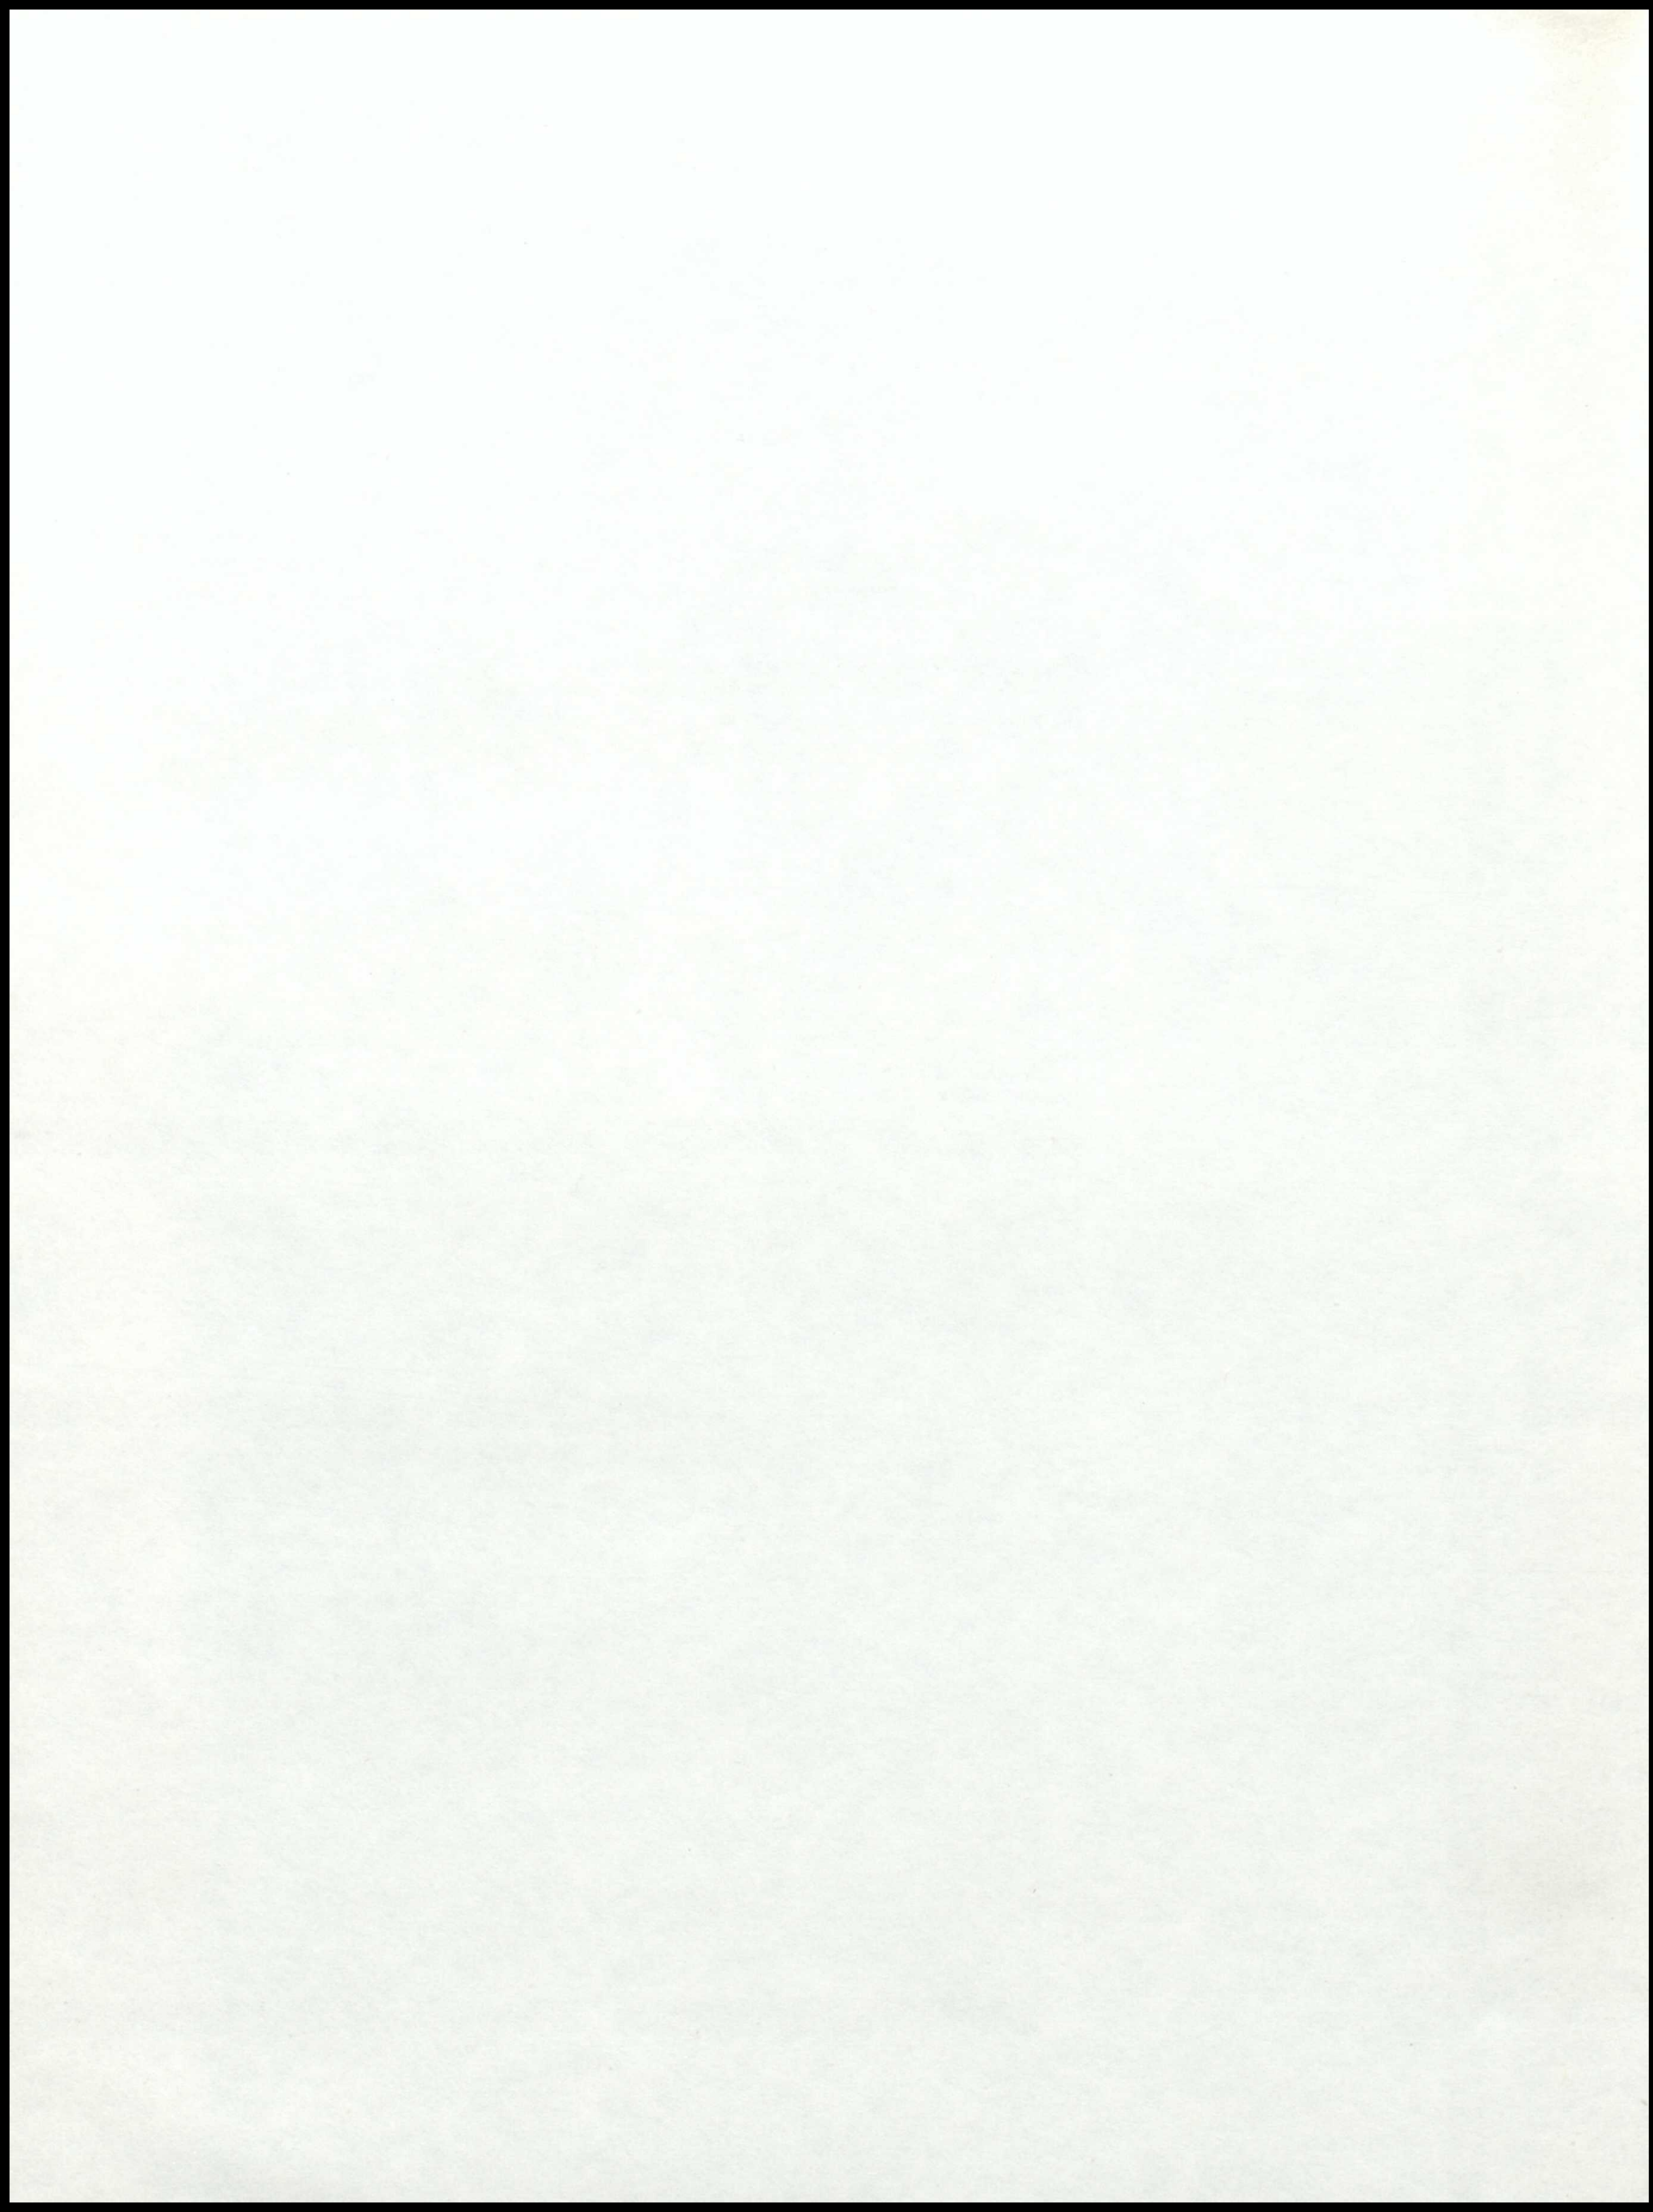

It's the sound heard as Jeremy Martin makes his three pointers. "It takes a lot of hard work and extra time to accomplish the sound of a nice sounding shot. I am usually practicing before school, after school and after practice too. Nothing compares to the feeling of a sweet swish and the crowds reaction afterwards." Jeremy was the teams leading scorer.

It's Bob Bordine sweating at the line preparing for a basketball free throw. "There is nothing you can do about it. The harder you work, the more you sweat. I think I sweat a medium amount, still dripping, but not as much as Pete McGrew" says ATHLETE BOB BORDINE.

Julie, an avid band member, was chosen to help out because of her consistency and dedication throughout marching band season. She enjoyed helping out the choir because it gave her a solo opportunity to show off her percussion skills.

Pound it Out. During a football game, junior Alan Maier, senior Joe Cervay, senior Brian Pritchard, and junior Drew Johnston pep up the crowd from the track. "The drum line rocks! We have such a great time playing at the football games. We really get the fans going," said Joe.

How Much Time Do You Spend ONLINE?

I go online a lot. I probably spend about 20 hours a week or more online. Most of the time is spent downloading songs from the internet. The rest of the time I talk to my friends or I e-mail my sister in Spain.
-Bridget Kelly, 12

I only go online about two hours a week. The only reason I use my computer is to do homework and to type papers. I never have any time to go online because I am too busy with school, sports, and stuff.
Doug Ulmenstine, 10

Back to the Basics. In basic computer application class, taught by Barb Hufford, junior Jackie Pugliese works on a typing exercise. "This class is really helpful because I learned the basics of using computers. I also learned how to write resumes which will help me in the future applying for jobs," said Jackie.

Add it Up. In FST, junior Edmund Leece calculates an answer to a math problem. "I really don't like math, so most of the time when we are supposed to be paying attention and graphing data, I play calculator games. I almost failed the class because I never do any work," said Edmund.

Kitchen Klatter. On February 17, "Blues in the Schools" program, sponsored by Cuyahoga County Public Library, presented the music of the legendary blues musician Robert Johnson in the auditorium. Members of the band included Kevin Richards, Bob Frank, Ray De Forest, and Erik Diaz. When asked what he thought of the performance, junior Alex Leslie replied, "It rocked! I really enjoyed it. I think that this was the first time that some people have heard this kind of music and they were really affected by it. Because of the assembly, many students have a better appreciation for blues music. It was also really cool that Robert Lockwood Jr. came up and played a song."

Good Point. During Literature of the Western World in the library, seniors Jon Witmer and Phil Hanna research information for a paper. "I'm afraid of talking computers though, because I'm afraid they might give me sass if I spell a word wrong," said Jon.

Students applying for National Honor Society membership had to have a cumulative GPA of 3.6 or higher and demonstrate examples of leadership, service and character. Morning, noon, & night, there were always opportunities for quiet moments

Doing it the Write Way. Every Tuesday and Thursday, students are given forty-five minutes to break away from the usual block, in a study hall known as Quality Resource Period (QRP). Students are allowed to go to other teachers for help, study in their own ORP, or get a pass to the LIC. Sophmores Lauren Shaw and Jacqui Tont spend their nice time in the library. "The LIC is a nice place to get things done, mostly because the librarians don't let us actually work," said Lauren. Jacqui added, "I come to the library every chance I get...I am not one for noise, and this place is just plain relaxing."

Fill Her Up. Homecoming is a time to dance until you are out of breath, but the Student Council members and friends who help to decorate, save their breath for the evening festivities by using a helium tank. Junior Lauren Heim said, "The end of the day, my fingers were raw." Other helpers, Senior Mike Harvey, and Juniors Sarah Lavish, Katy Paulus, and Maren Lunoe all agree that decorating was hard work, but it was definitely worth the effort.

-S. Groff

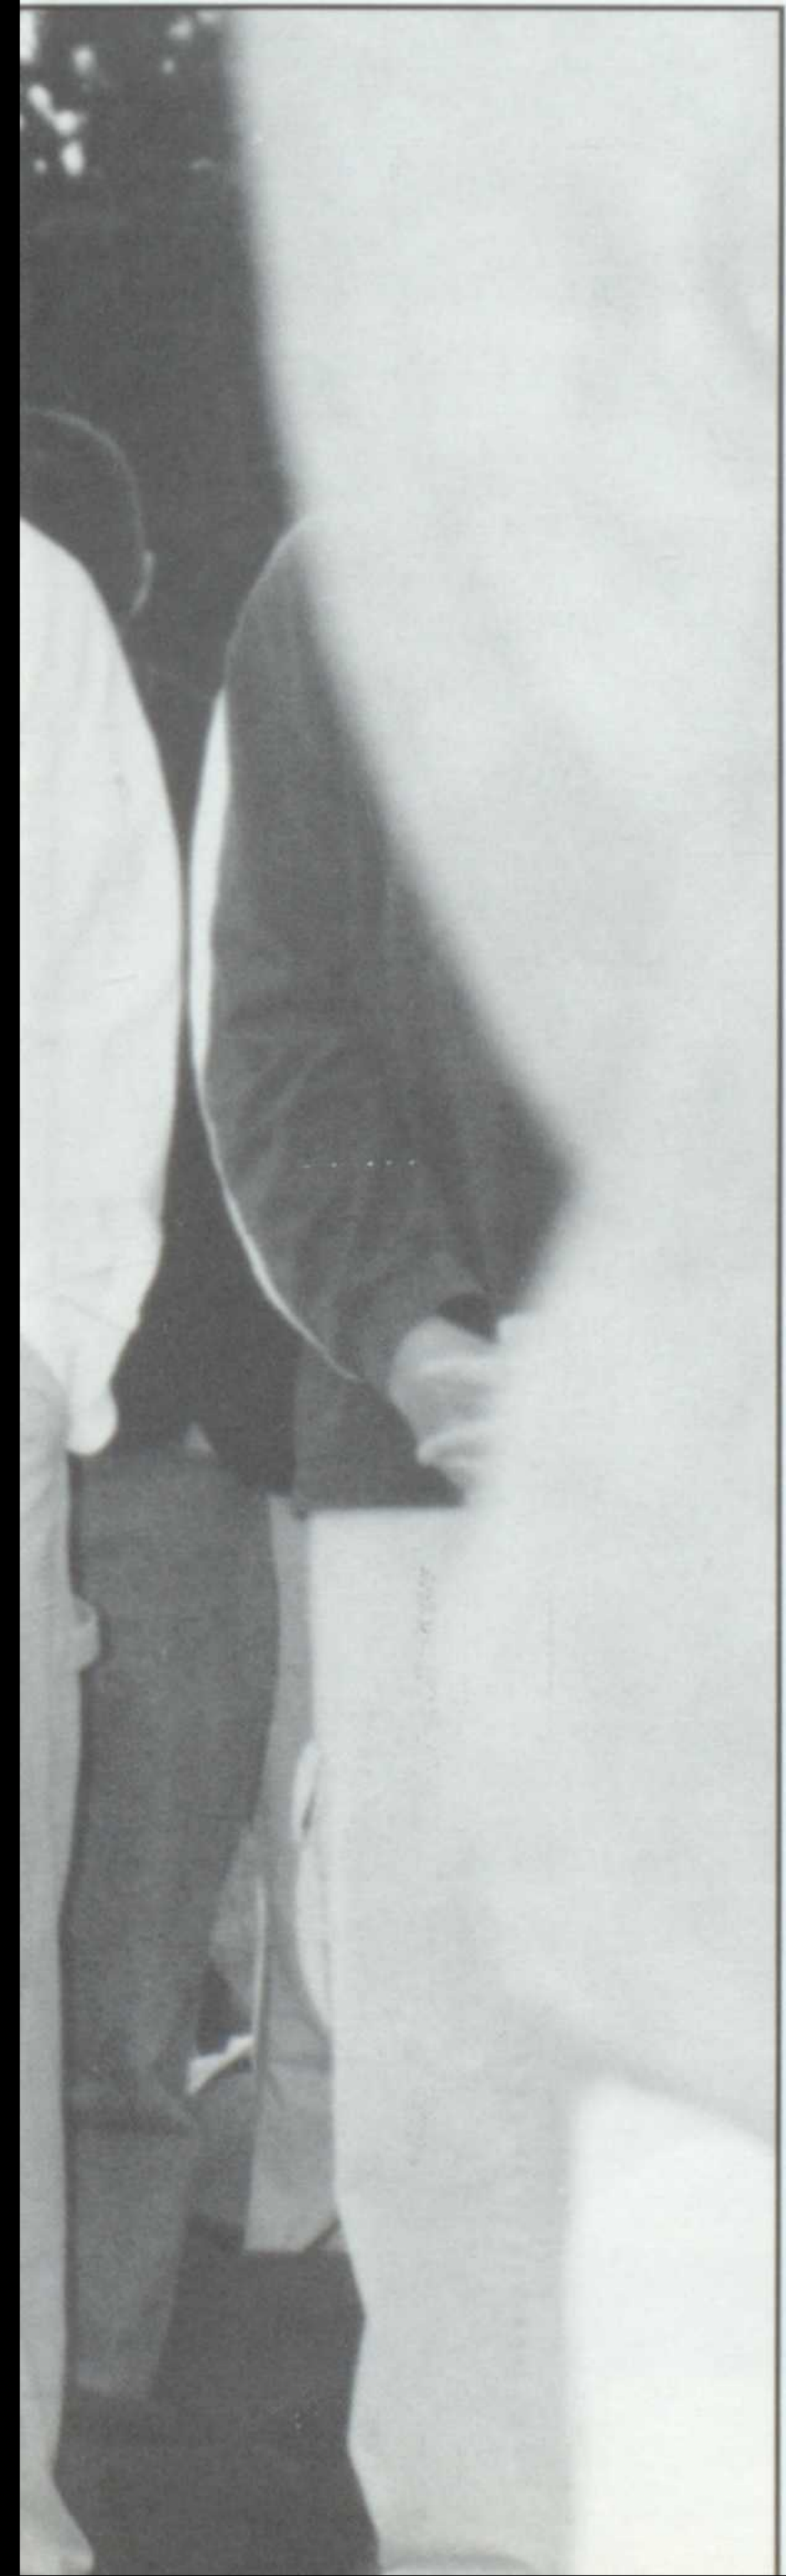

Put on Your Thinking Caps. As a reward for their efforts in the food drive the night before, seniors Kristen Manrodt and Paul Curtiss are permitted to wear hats during the school day. Working together in the LIC, with their hats on caused them to stand out in the crowd. "The librarians kept giving us the evil eye, I am not sure if they knew why we were wearing them. Maybe they thought that we were just being unruly," said Kristen.

Say a Little Prayer. Senior Kyle DeWees lowers his head in thought. Wednesday September 15th, at seven in the morning, 60 devoted students surrounded the flag pole in a nationwide attempt to pray for their schools, family, and community. "I thought it was inspiring to imagine students all over the country devoting their time to something that really matters," he said. The event was coined as Meet Me at the Pole. Many hoped the tradition would continue.

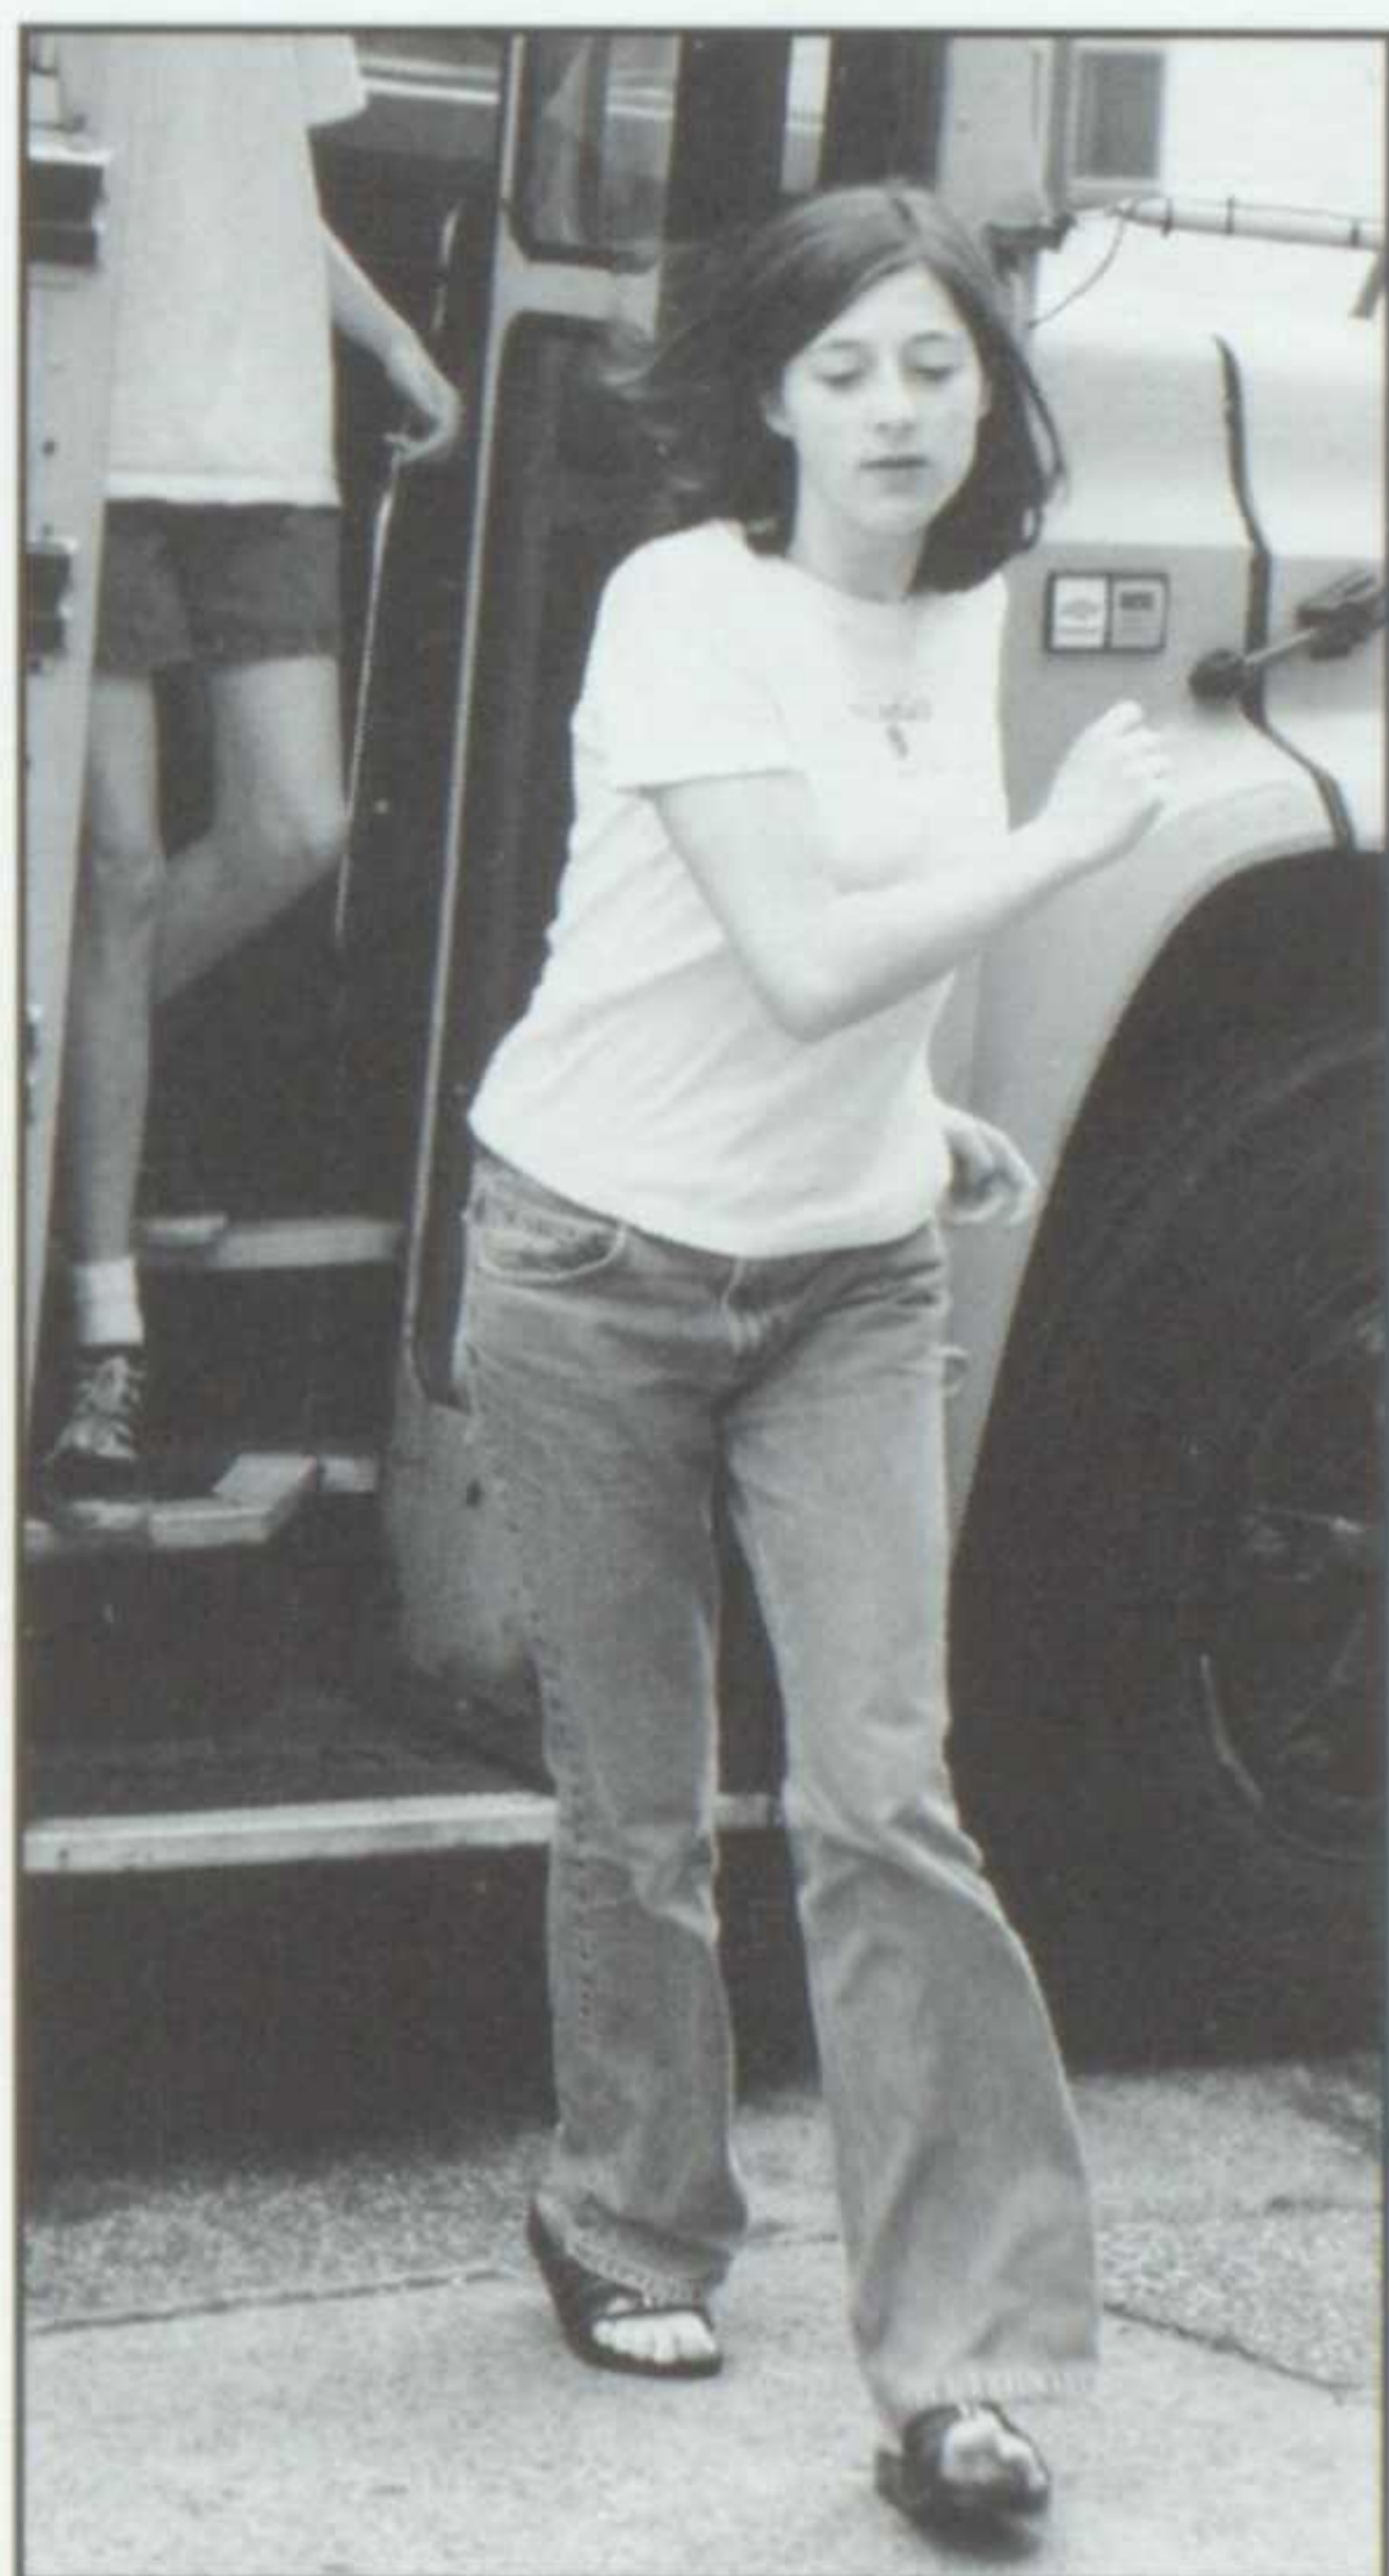

-B. Reilly

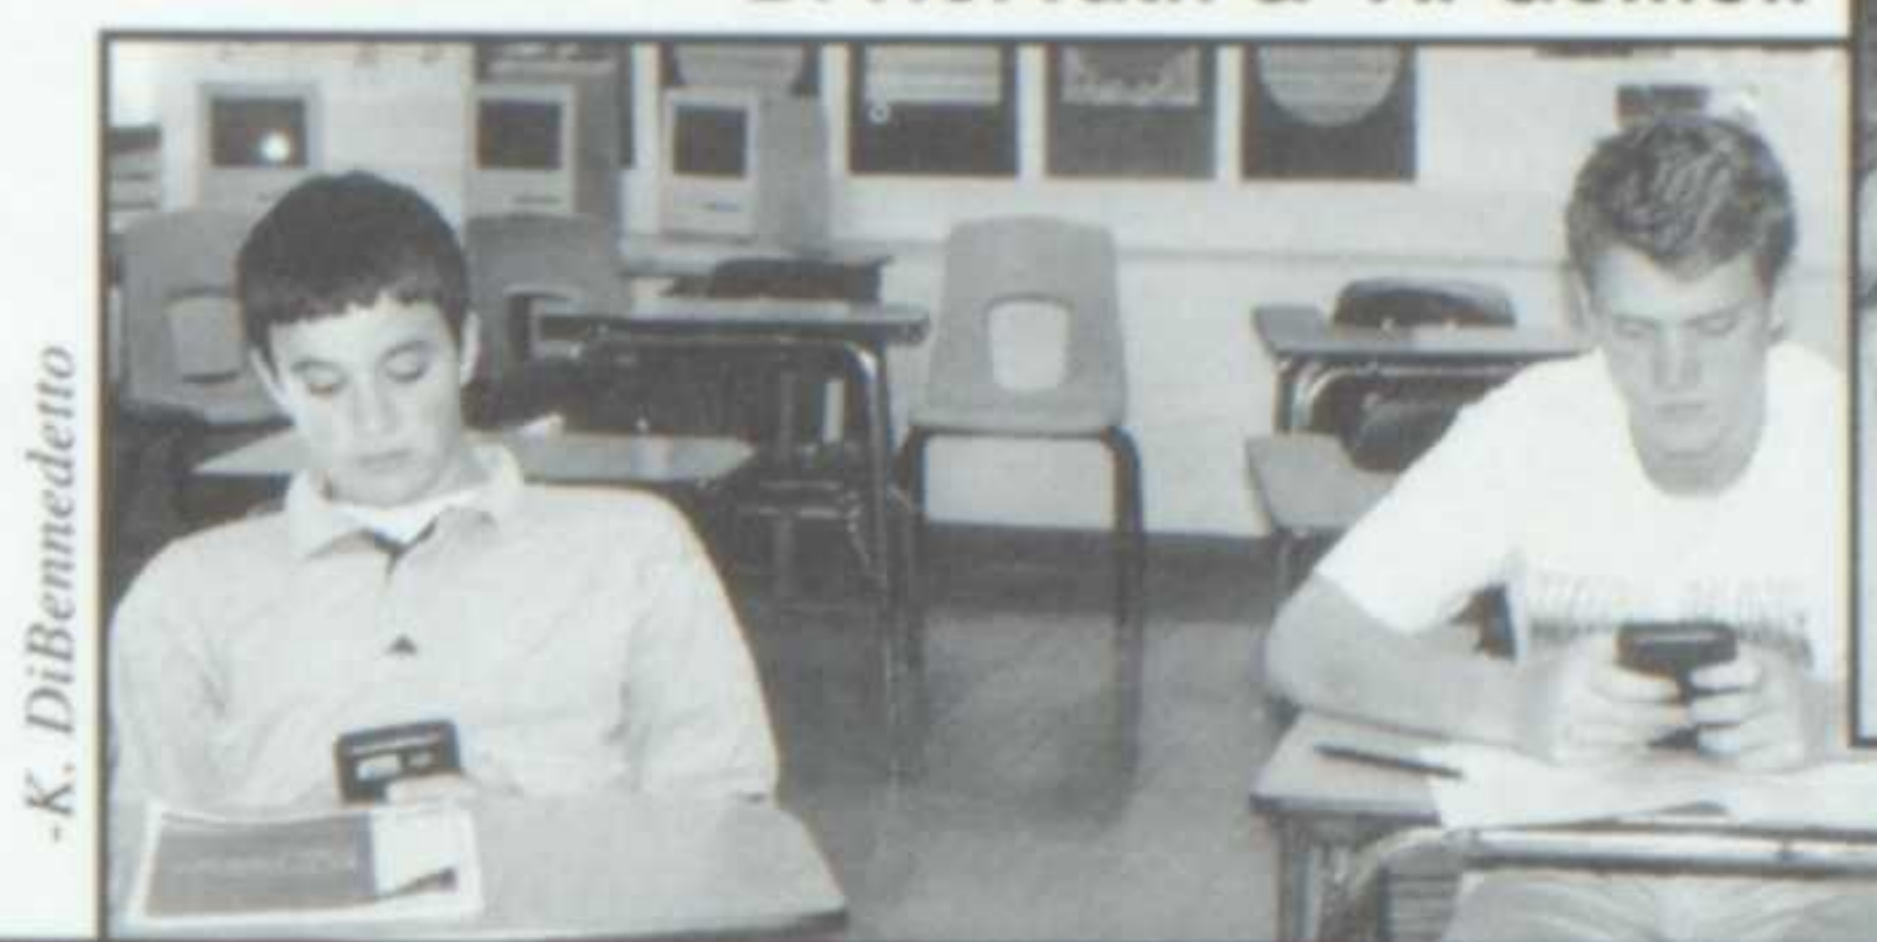

Lazy Days. While most students chose to study during Quality Resource Period every Tuesday and Thursday, Senior Bridget Kelly elects to catch up on much-needed sleep. "After pulling all-nighters and basically crawling to school in the morning, an occasional siesta is just what I need. Teachers don't seem to be in mind, as long as I don't snore," commented Bridget.

Another One Rides the Bus. As the airbrakes are applied and the bus halts to a stop in the parking lot, sophomore Sarah Chait wastes no time exiting the vehicle. "We were back late from a field trip that day and I didn't want to be late for my next class." With longer periods, there were more opportunities to go on field trips during classes.

Puzzling Silence. Some students elected to complete assignments, while others such as Imogen Price and John Komperda, and study hall monitor, Mrs. Liptrap did the crossword puzzle during their quiet time. "Everyday in studyhall we would do the daily puzzle. It was fun and a nice break from our busy schedules," said John. Although studyhalls were rare on the block, students found games to be an educational, entertaining way to spend their time.

Quiet Questioning. O.W.E. seniors, Suellen Lovett, Holly Sherman, and Joe Tomsak, ponder their midterm exams in silence. "O.W.E was a cool class. It taught me about life-- stuff I'll really use," said, Suellen. O.W.E gave students the chance to experience vocational work study while still attending the high school. TIMELINE

Although this is in no way a complete timeline of the local, state, national & world events, it is an attempt to capture what was heard and discussed in the halls and classrooms here. Although everyone at the high school called Bay "The Bubble," in reality, the world touched us and we touched the world. Everyone was affected by Charles Schulz' final Sunday comic strip which ran the day after his death. On the other hand, the world was intrigued by the third Sam Sheppard trial that focused on the infamous 1954 Bay Village murder. This time Sheppard's son, Sam Reese, tried to clear his father's name. Read on to learn what interests us.

First lady Hillary Clinton issued a statement saying she is "seriously considering" running for Senate from New York. Hillary would be up against the present Mayor of New York City, Rudolph Giuliani. According to recent polls, she would defeat him 52% to 43%.

"I guess it's okay that Hillary Clinton wants to run for senate," said Freshman Jamie Gomoll. "To be honest, she'll probably get a lot of sympathy after what Bill did!"

• AFTER A PUBLICIZED AFFAIR WITH MONICA LEWINSKY, A YOUNG WHITE HOUSE INTERN, THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES BROUGHT TWO ARTICLES OF IMPEACHMENT AGAINST PRESIDENT BILL CLINTON. ALTHOUGH CHARGED WITH PERJURY AND OBSTRUCTION OF JUSTICE, CLINTON WAS ACQUITTED OF THE CHARGES BY THE U.S. SENATE.

JAMES CAHOON, FORMER SUPERINTENDENT OF BLACK RIVER, BECAME THE PRINCIPAL FOR THE 1999-2000 ACADEMIC SCHOOL YEAR.

With a school of merely 800 students, it's amazing how many outstanding athletes Bay had enrolled. For fall sports alone, Bay High had four teams get state recognition. For cross country, seven boys, qualified to run as a team in the state meet. Out of sixteen teams, the Bay boys placed ninth. Next, the girls golfer, Helene Thoman qualified to play in the state tournament held at the Scarlet Course at Ohio State. She finished strong with eighth place out of 85 girls. In tennis, the freshman phenom Lara Maurer represented Bay at the state tournament, finishing 8th out of 16 girls. Finally, in November, the girls soccer team came back with the State Championship trophy for the first time in the history of the school. In addition, Judi Aschenbrener and Dave Long were recognized as first team All-State athletes for soccer and football respectively and Eric Hagggett received All-State honorable mention for football as well.

With the first publicized school shooting on October 1, 1997 in Pearl, Mississippi, the nation turned its attention to safety in schools. Many figured it could never happen to their school and even after similar incidents in Paducah, Kentucky on December 1, 1997, Jonesboro, Arkansas on March 24, 1998, and Springfield Oregon on May 21, 1998, they still did not hit close to home for most Americans. The outlook changed on April 20, 1999 with the unfortunate incident at Columbine High School in Littleton, Colorado. This was a day few Americans will ever forget. Two students, Dylan Klebold and Eric Harris killed fourteen students and one teacher before taking their own lives. Supposedly, the two were members of the Trenchcoat Mafia and had plans to acquire fame through terrorist activities on the internet. Littleton is an affluent community that never suspected such a thing could happen to their school. As a result, school security was heightened throughout the United States. Even Bay took action to prevent violence in the school, including banning of backpacks and required visitor sign-in.

Keepin' Track. At a fall pep assembly, senior Amanda Saccany keeps score for the competing fall sports teams and the band. For this assembly, each group sent two captains to represent them in a trivia competition. "Spirit Club is really fun. Every Thursday we stay after school for a few hours to make wallies and posters and to plan pep assemblies or other activities. It's really a great group of people, so it never feels like a lot of work," said Amanda. Amanda was spirit club president.

Hanging Out. While enjoying the football game, Brett Peeples, Bryan Eaton and Debbie Varga relax over the edge of the bleachers. As school spirit increased this year, attendance at the football games became greater each week. "I love to go to the games to cheer on our team," said Brett. "I liked the football games because I got to hang out with my friends. I also enjoyed watching my brother, Nate, play. It was especially funny when he got hit," added Bryan. Most students spent their Friday nights at the game watching our team give it their all. "The best part of going to the games was hanging out with my friends. We had a really good time," said Debbie.

"We are an incarnation of a band that formed during our sophomore year," said senior Evan Wilhelms, "It is difficult to take a band somewhere when the only venues available, such as the High School Rock Off, attract bands that are only making music for their own pleasure."

"I know our song title sounds a little sketchy, what with our band name and all," said junior Alex Leslie, "but we really do get a lot of requests for it when we play at our church on the first Sunday night of every month." Fear the Flame had eight members.

"We formed about six months ago," said freshman Brandon Pettito. "We practice a couple of times a week in John's basement. The best part of being in a band is spending time with my friends and making music. I especially love when we write our own songs."

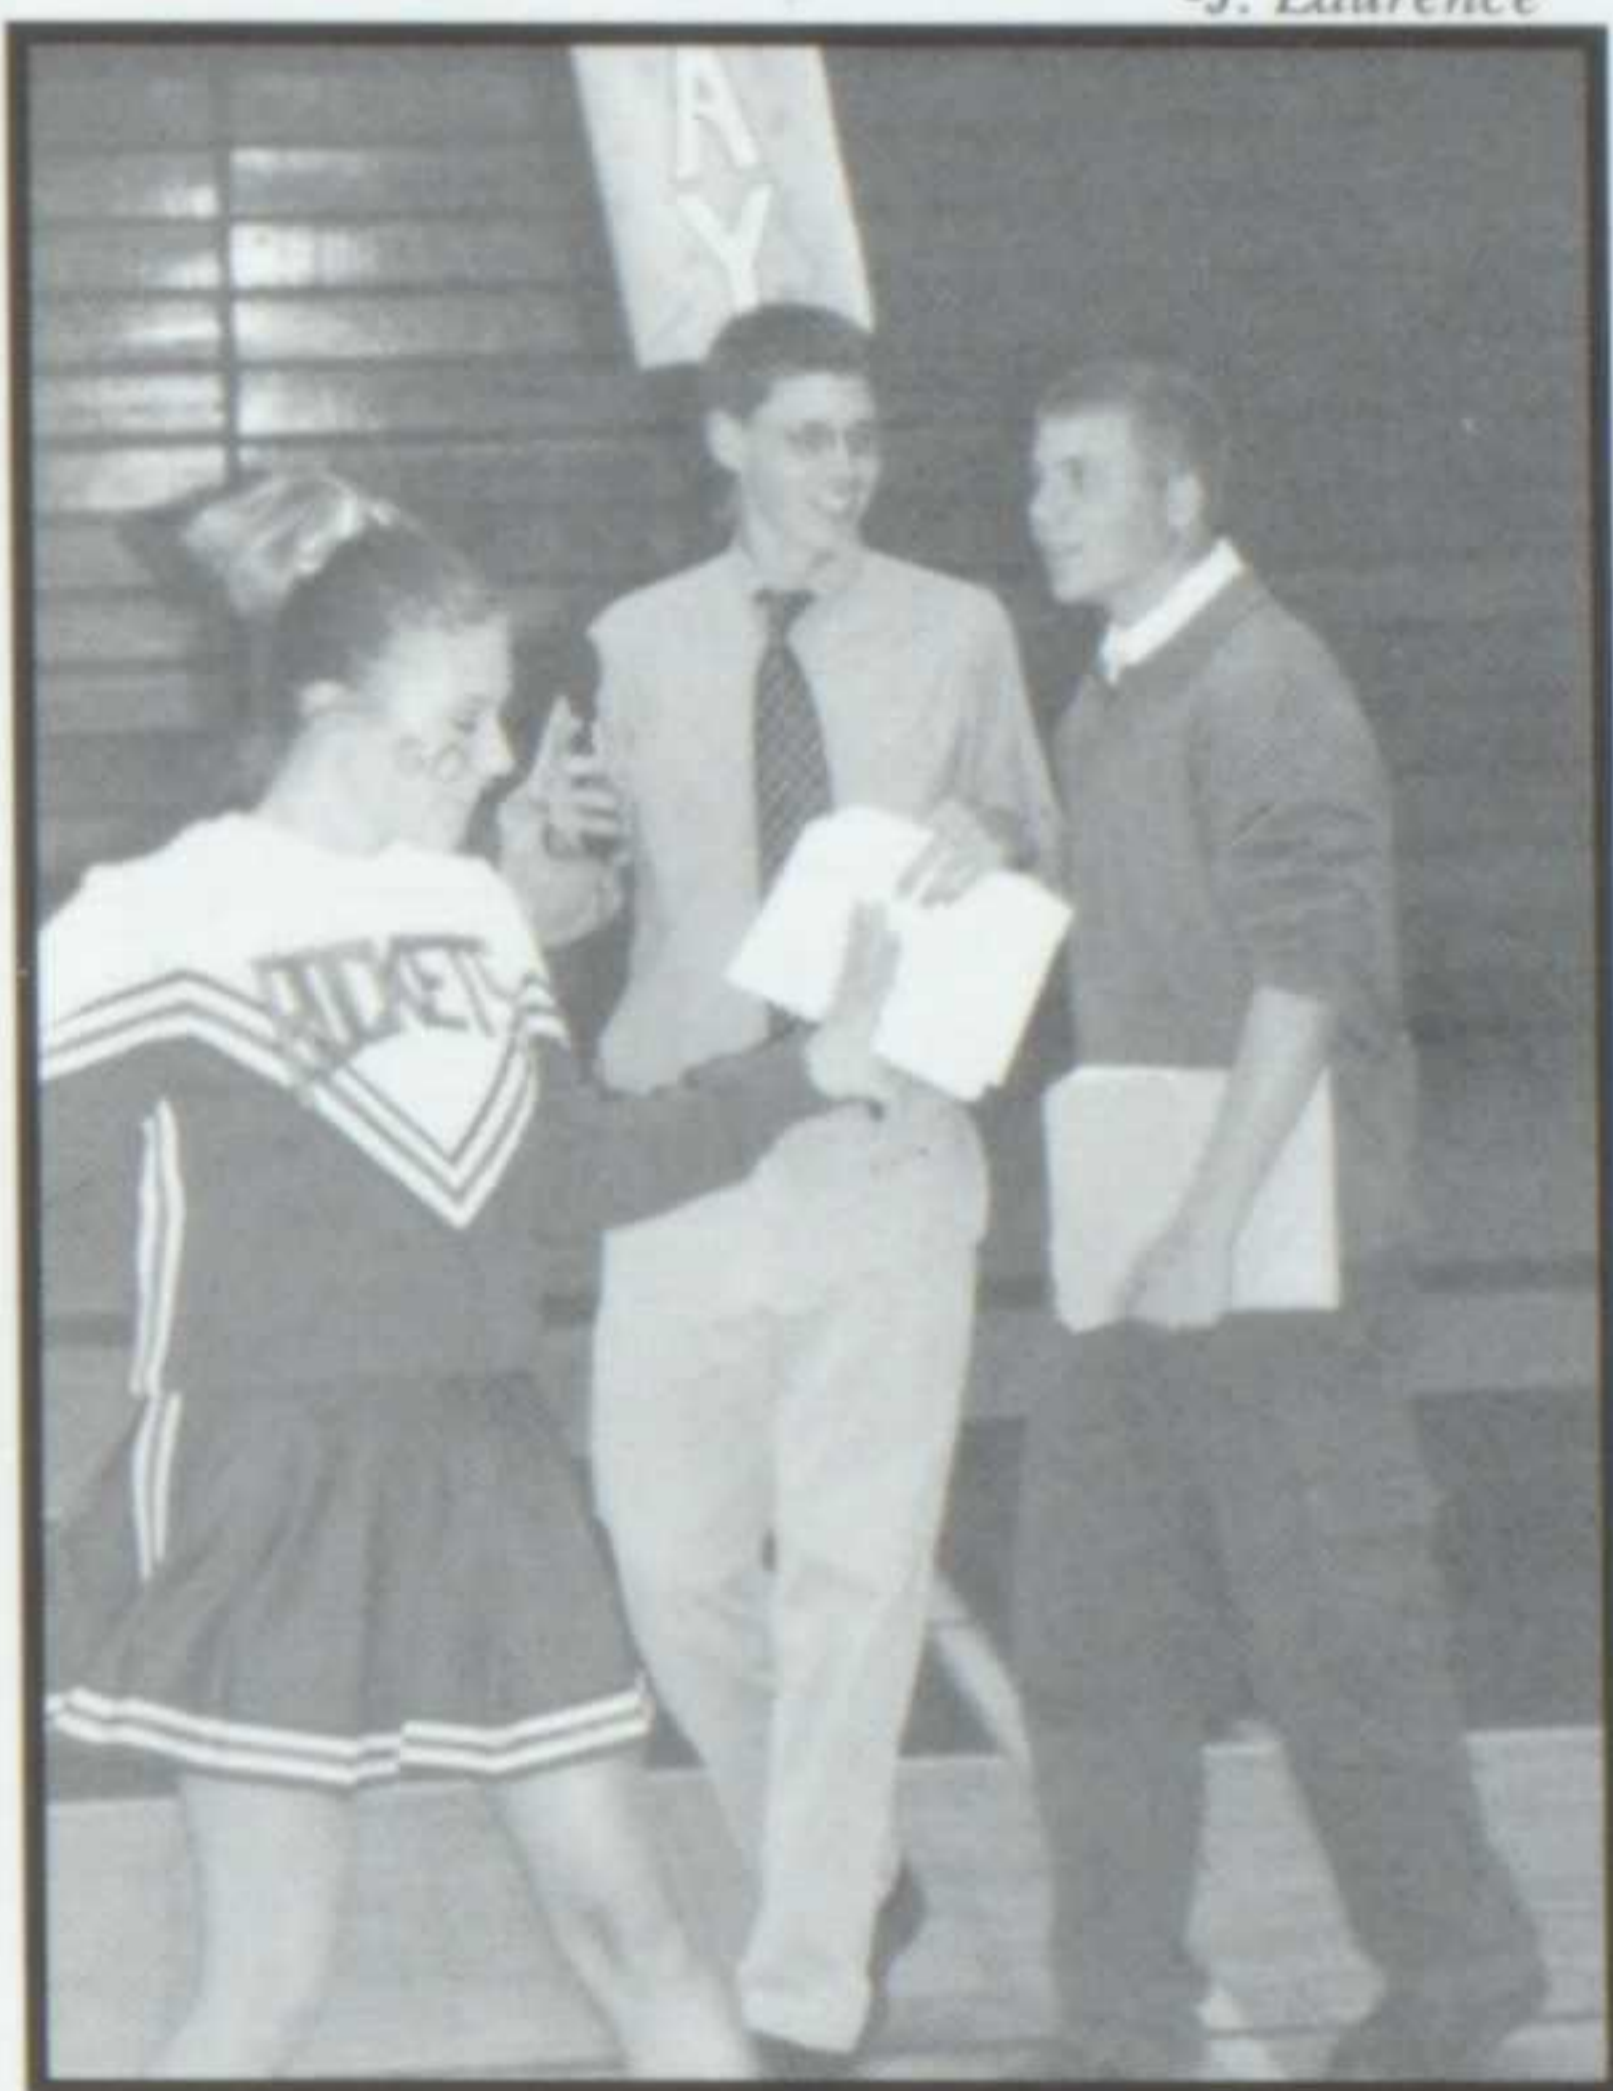

-J. Laurence

We Got the Beat. Wearing sophomore Mike Jelenic's jersey, senior Tim Lavelle and classmate Taylor Strang cheer on the boys soccer team at a home game. "Taylor and I went to most of the games to cheer on our friends. I brought a drum with me and played it to fire up the crowd," said Tim. The team made it to regional finals before being defeated by Hawken.

Stop! While enjoying senior Lynn Rogers performance at a fall pep assembly, classmate Chip Sherman receives some tips on how to work the crowd from friend Tom Kirsch. "School spirit hasn't been this great since my freshman year! It's increased 110% which makes cheerleading great!" said Lynn. "It was a big surprise being nominated; I had no idea that I would even be considered as a nominee. But it was definitely great being up there," said senior Dave Long, who walked through the trellis with fellow nominee, Emily Cikra. Later at the Homecoming football game, Dave was unable to participate in the field coronation because he was in the locker room with the rest of the football team.

"I was flattered and honored to be nominated for Homecoming Queen. I was really surprised because I thought there were a lot more people who were more deserving than I was. When the moment came, I was more excited than nervous. The two seniors learned of their royal titles at an afternoon assembly and they were presented to the general public in a special pre-game coronation.

Our Turn. In eager anticipation, seniors Mary Kotinsley and Nick Kleinhenz watch their classmates parade through the trellis. Every year on the Friday before the Homecoming dance, the student body gathers in the auditorium for the traditional assembly. During the assembly, the entire Senior Class pairs up and walks through the trellis located in the center of the stage. "I've always liked watching my friends from other classes walk through. But after waiting four years, it was really cool to see friends from my class walk through," said Mary.

Oh Captain, My Captain. To show their happiness for their nominations, senior court members Seamus O'Hara and Michelle Galazin shoot each other approving glances after their field coronation. "It was great to be nominated for Homecoming King, but it was even better to be paired up with Michelle," said Seamus. Both had additional obligations at the game with Seamus as the Spirit Club's Captain Millennium, and Michelle as a Senior Rockette.

-J. Laurence

In Their Sunday Best. In their dapper attier, the senior guys await their turn to walk across stage. "After having everyone see me dressed up in school and then walking across the stage, the whole thing made me really proud to be a senior," said Taylor Strang.

Students write on the chalkboard, take down class notes and create artwork...all in a day's work.

A Little Help From My Friends. During his Elementary Aide period, senior Pete McGrew tutors a fourth grade Westerly student. "I thought the program was really fun and it was a great break from a usually long day," said Pete. Students went to the public grade schools in the area everyday to monitor recesses, assist teachers, and play games with the children.

Iambicpentame...what? After scanning lines from their AP English poetry book, seniors Bridget Waltz and Jenny Sommer analyze the stressed and unstressed syllables in the sentences. "The class was a lot of work, but I learned a ton as well," said Bridget. The class focused mainly on developing analysis skills of classic literature and poetry.

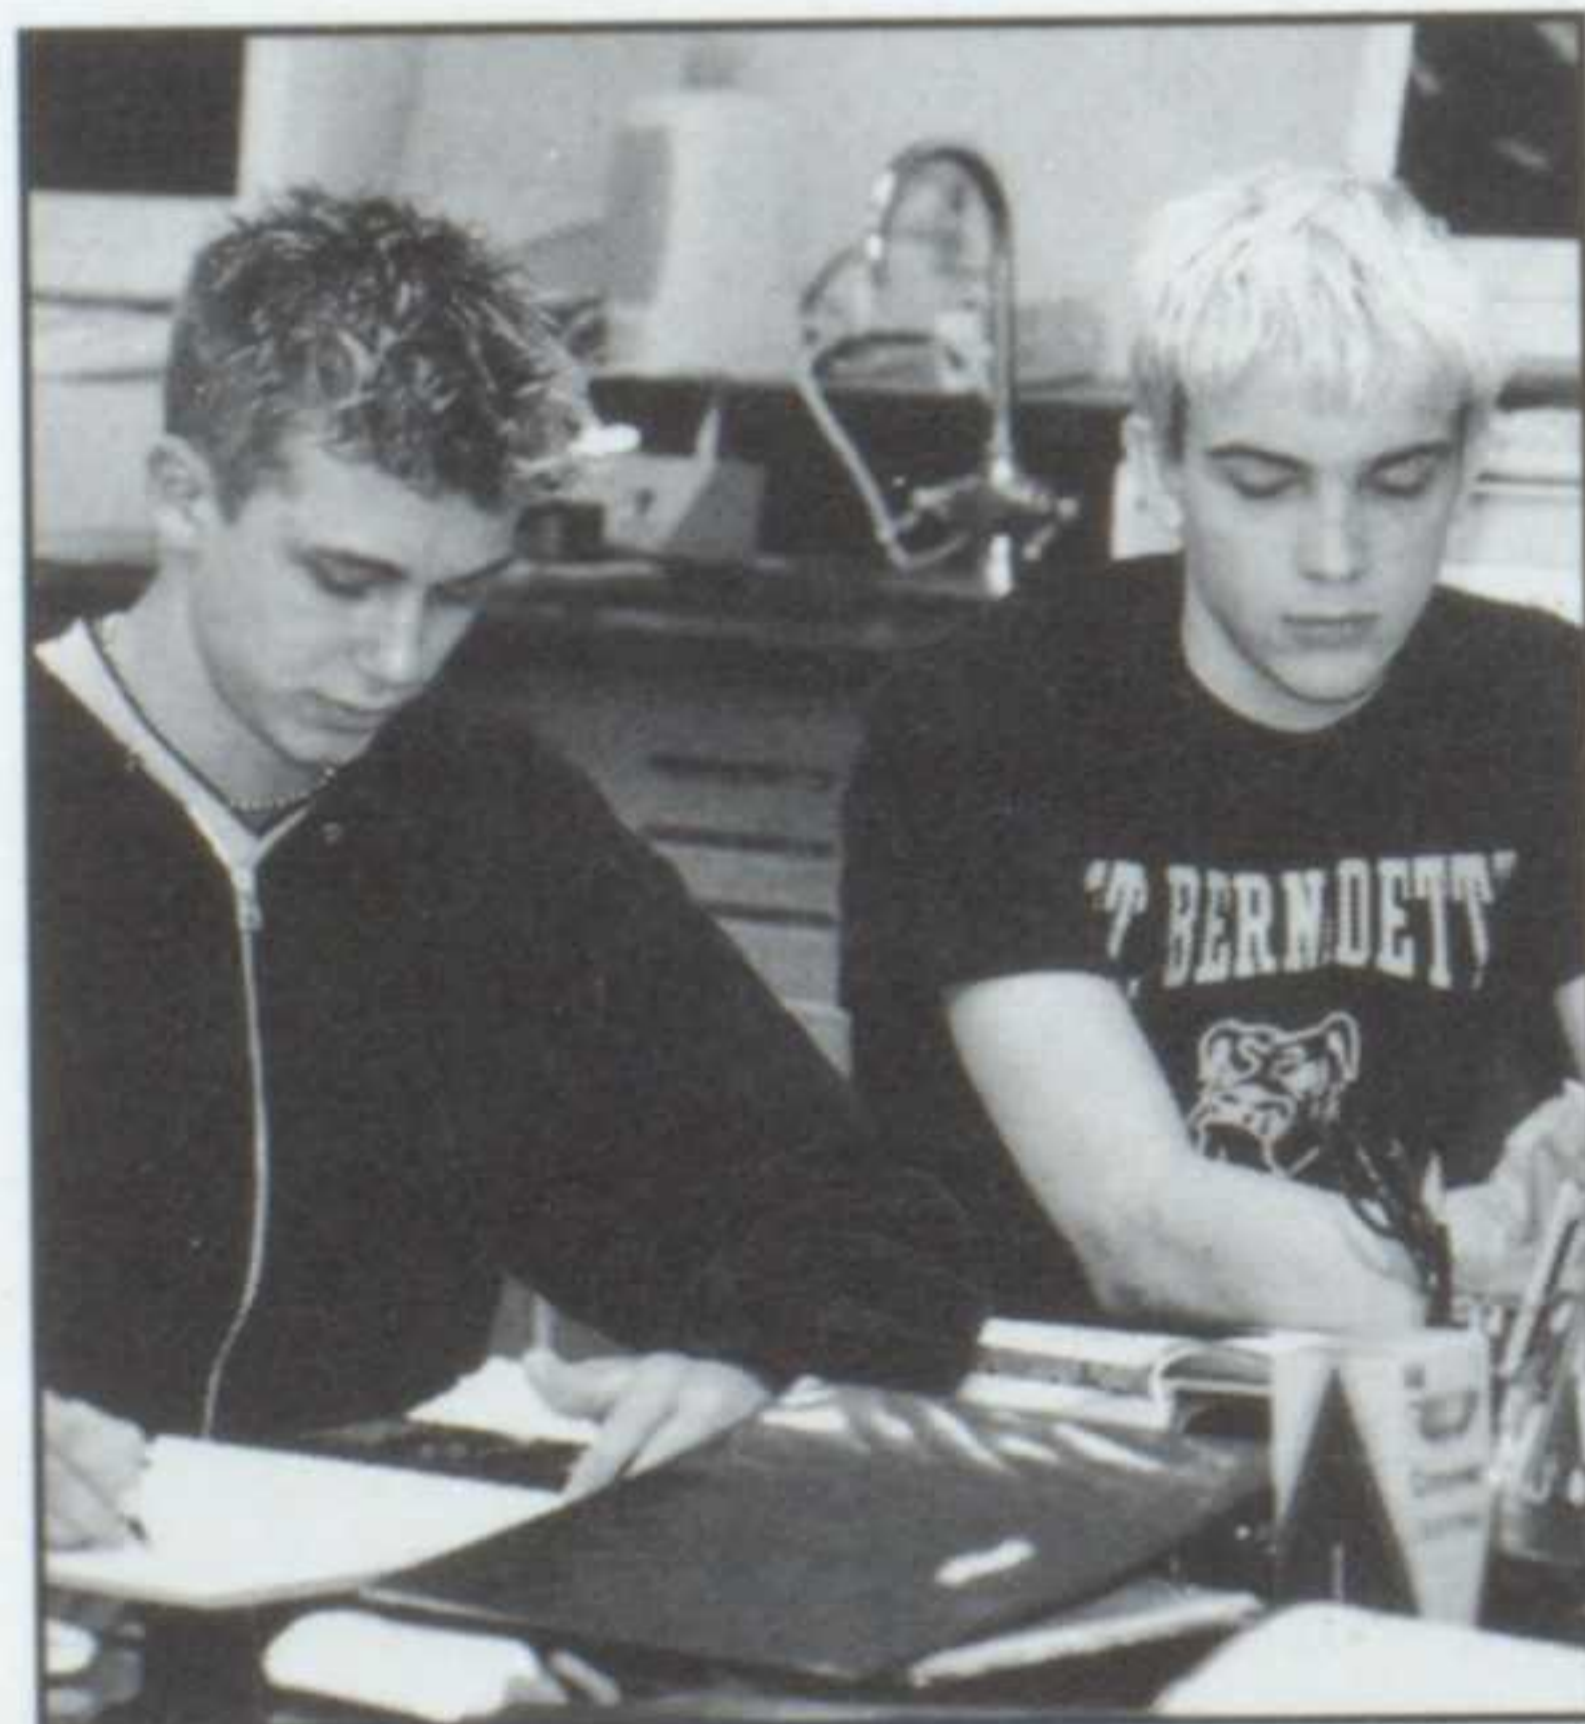

-K. DiBenedetto

Start from the Very Beginning. In Career and Life Planning, students listen carefully to Mr. Smith, a new teacher this year. "The class was a lot more work than I thought it was going to be, but it was a good experience," senior Seth Jewett commented. "It really helped my solidify what I want to do and where I want to go to school." Students were given the opportunity to explore a variety of career fields.

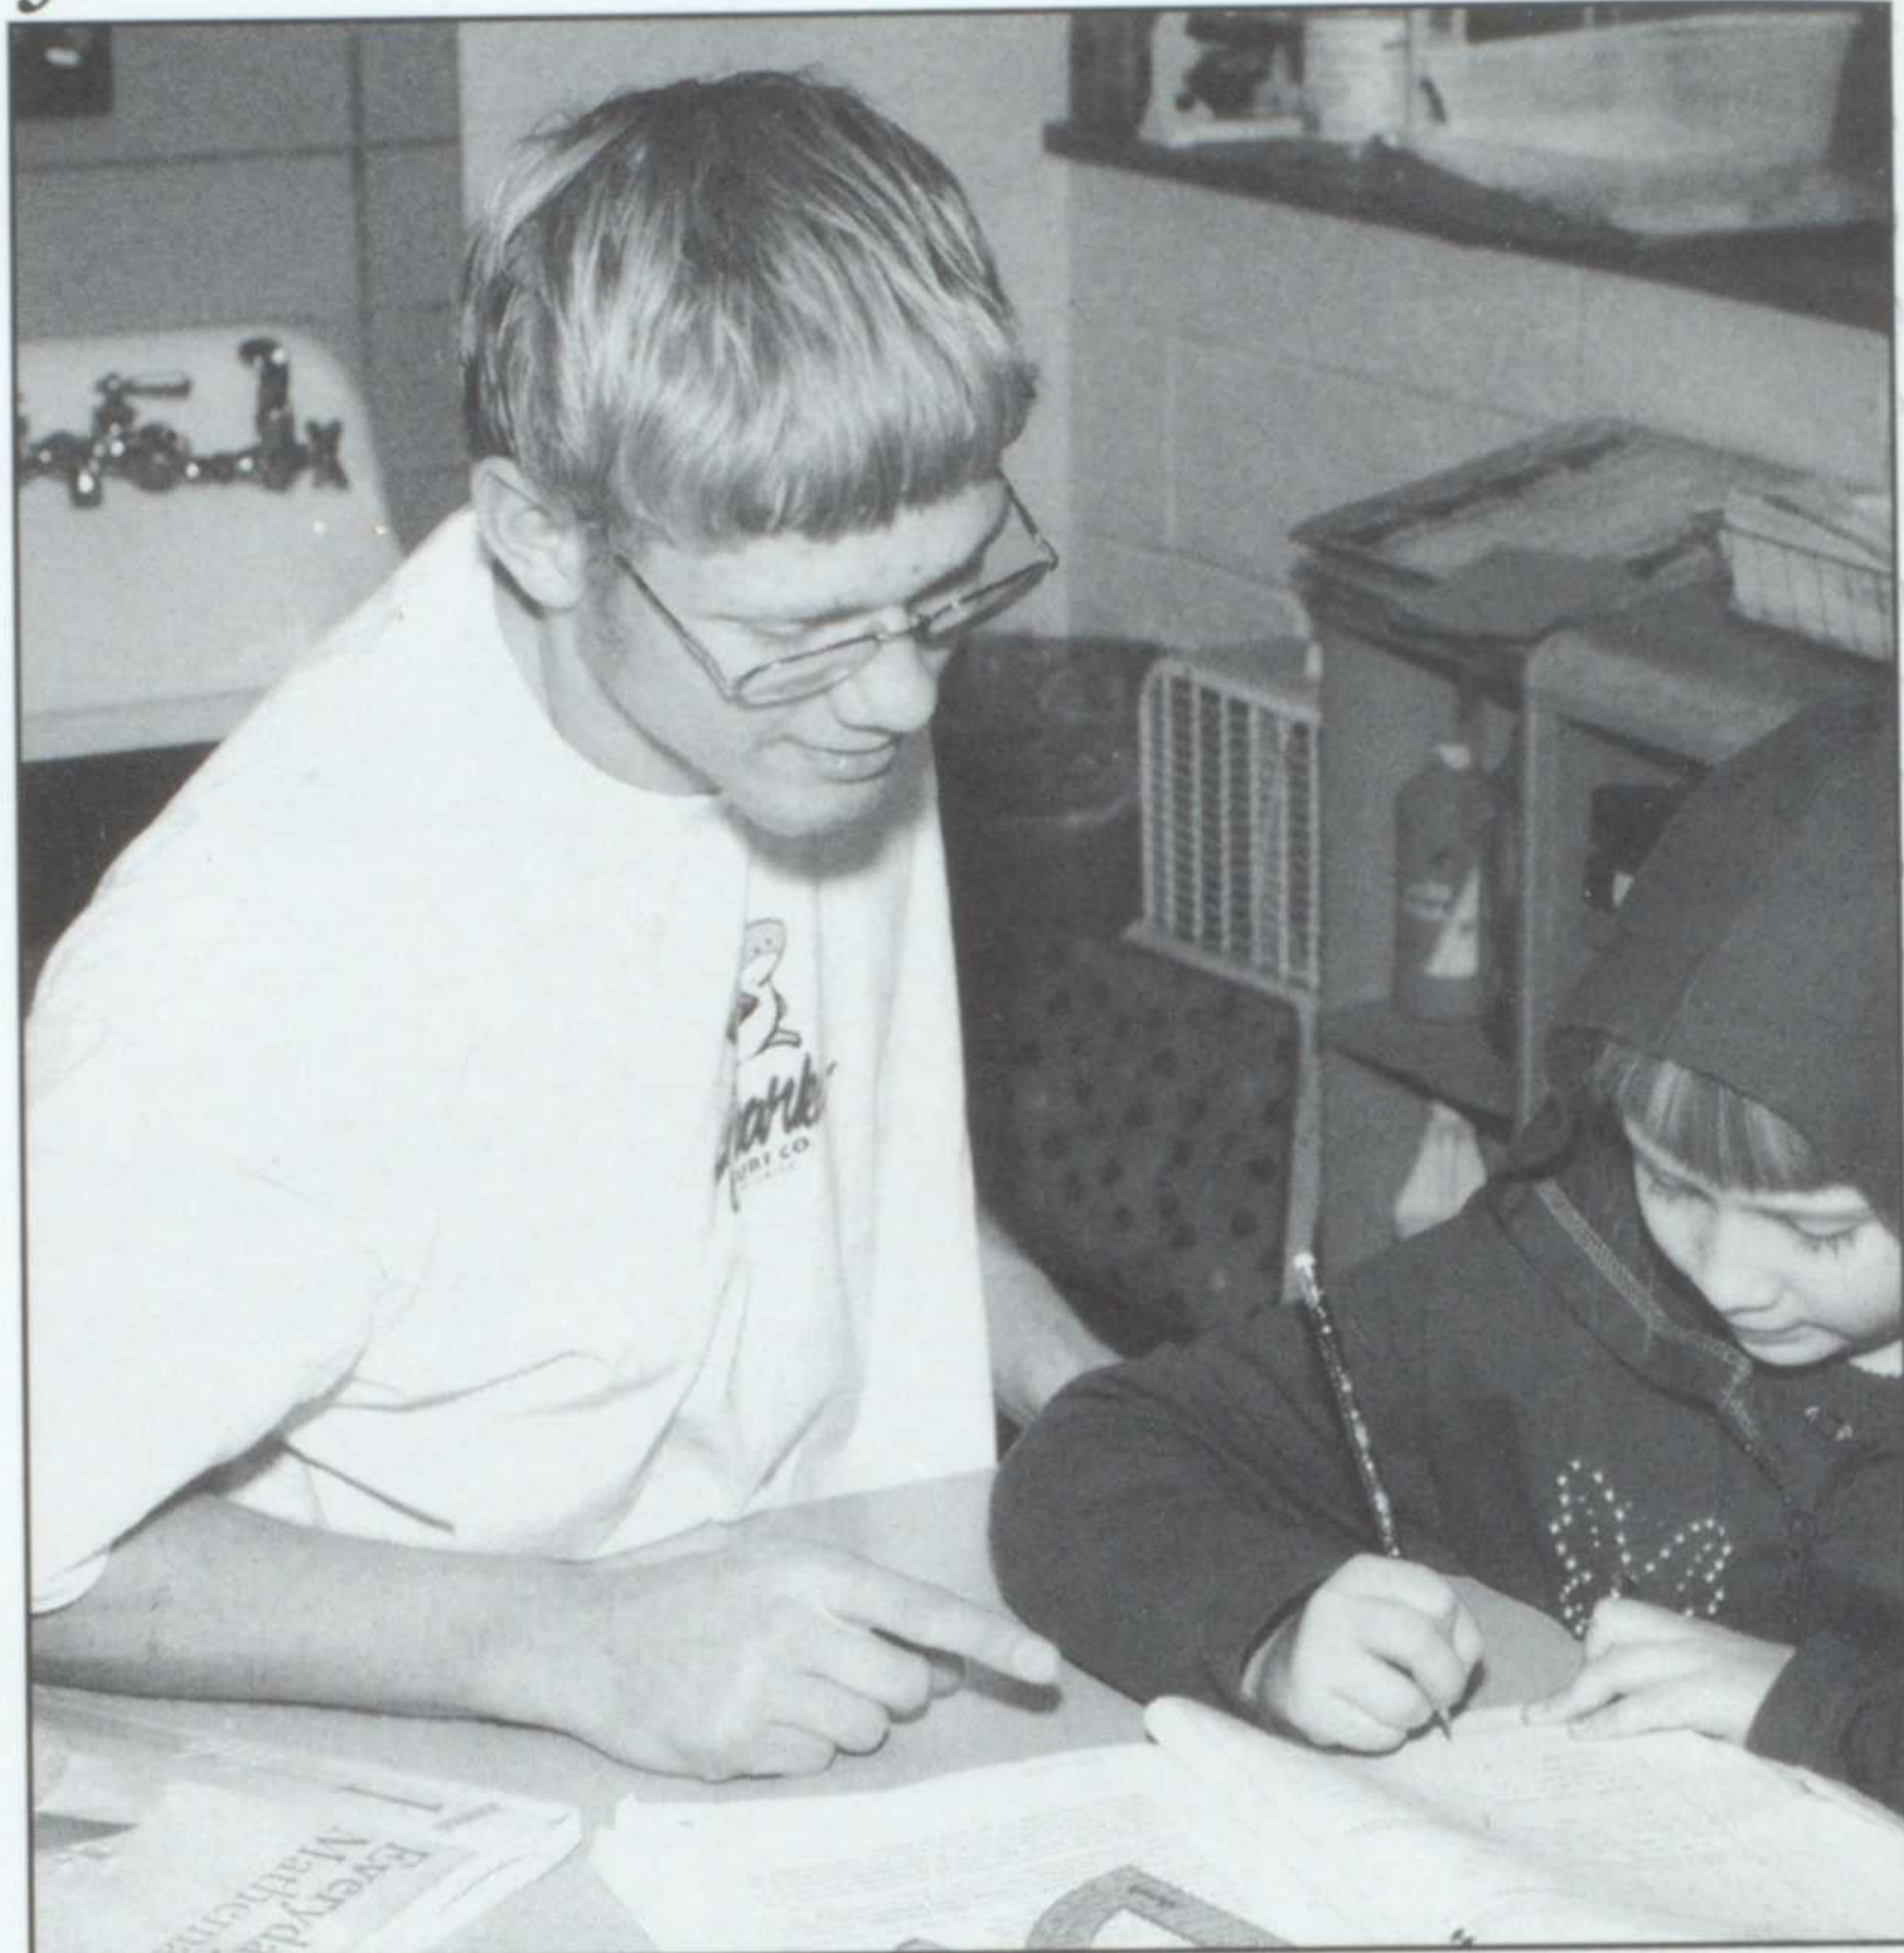

-B.Thomas

The Facts of Life. In Mr. Sheppard's Physical Science class, sophomore Eric Datko takes notes. "It was really easy," Eric said. "We do experiments and fun stuff for the whole period." The class provided an alternative to physics and chemistry for juniors as well as an introduction to the major areas of science for sophomores who might consider taking specialized science courses in the future.

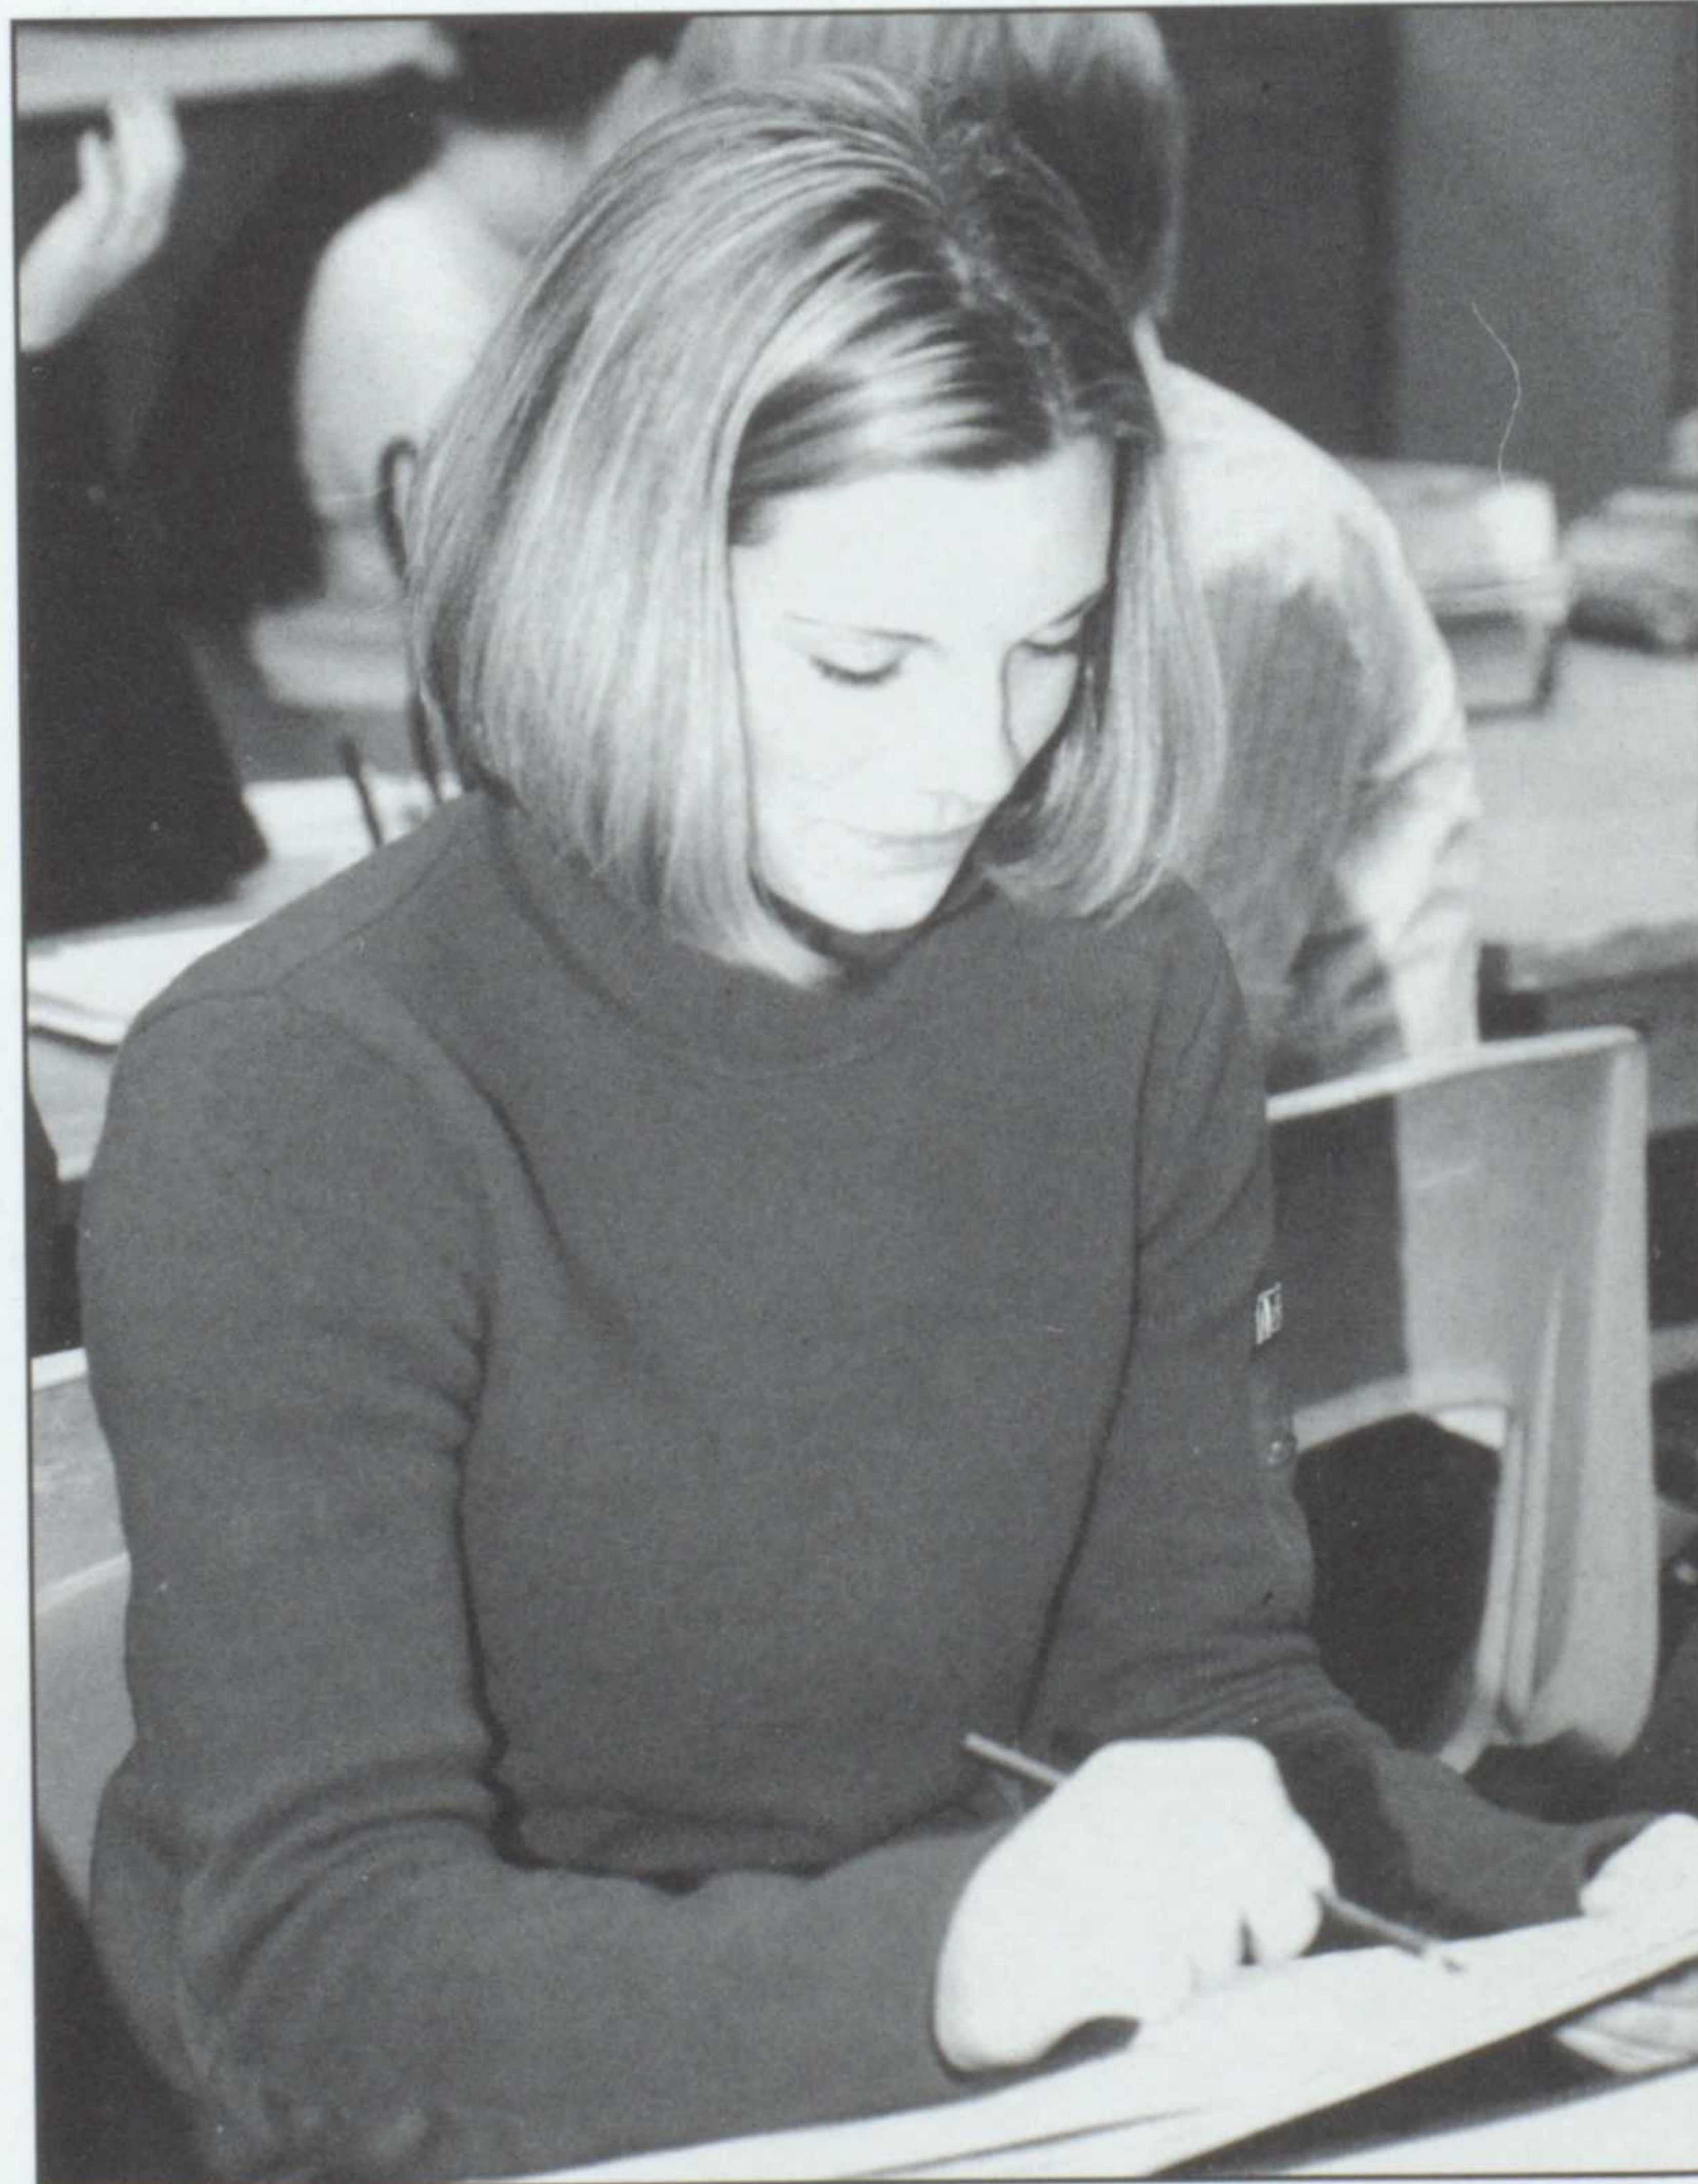

-B.Thomas

Start from the Drawing Board. In Advanced Drawing and Painting, senior Summer Darst sketches ideas for a project. "I took the class because I wanted more experience with painting," Summer said. The class took place second semester and was taught by Tom Schemrich. Although new this year, Advanced Drawing and Painting was a popular course choice for experienced art students.

Putting on the final touches, senior Doug DeYo glazes his fired clay piece. "I took the class just for the heck of it, I guess," Doug said. "Ceramics is a form of art I've never done and I thought I'd try it."

A little bit of...

Drawing & Design

Scatching ideas from magazines, junior Dan Bragg works on copying freehand. "It's just really fun," Dan said. "We're learning about drawing from different perspectives."

Scratching out another masterpiece, junior Aaron Roche expresses his imagination. "There was one time when I took ten minutes to do a week-long project. They hung it on the wall because it was so terrible," said Aaron.

Carefully concentrating, sophomore Jennifer Hayes sketches a wolf in her notebook. "I liked when we worked with clay because we mostly did drawing," she said.

In Mr. Gorman's Human History 2 class, freshman Alex Telidis takes notes. "For an activity, we did bidding for the stock market," Alex said. "Half the class would be consumers and the others would be sellers. It was pretty fun." Learning focused on major themes from 1815 to 1913.

"Art is the best way I've found to relax. I can express myself."

-Senior Lindsay Shutt

-B.Thomas

Sophomore Brian Rutt locates countries on a map in Mr. Jansen's Human History 3 class. "It's pretty fun," Brian said. "We get to do group stuff and work with friends." The class was taught using simulations as well as traditional lecturing to deal with the years 1913 to 1949.

In deep thought, Junior Josh Narramore sketches in his next project. "It's a unique experience being in an advanced art class," Josh said. "It challenges you to expand your abilities as an artist."

Focusing diligently, junior Dave Wincek works on a project in Ceramics. "I thought it was a good experience," Dave said. "Doug DeYo is the best Ceramics student ever."

Experimenting with different watercolors, sophomore Erica Chelko enjoys her work. "It's so much fun because everyday someone would come in with a new blond joke to tell," said Erica.

Marketing My Words. During their Marketing class, seniors Helene Thoman and Beth Wilson, and junior Lindsay Elliott go over advertising styles. "Considering that marketing is what I want to major in, I thought the class was really interesting, even though it's sometimes about how to con people," said Beth. Students in the class learn the different forms of ads, ad campaigns, tricks of the trade, and reaching target audiences.

-B.Thomas

In Mr. Grossman's Human History 4 class, junior Joe Maiocco jots down notes on The Captive Mind. "My favorite thing to study was the Vietnam War because I thought it was interesting," Joe said. The course covered notes from the 1960s to the early 1990s.

For a final project, groups gave a forty-minute presentation on literature, music and art of a specific time period. Students also wrote a final paper that ended up being about ten pages long.

Show Work. In Mrs. Maretka's Pre-Calculus class, junior Sarah Lavish and senior Seamus O'Hara solve a system of equations. "Going to the board in math class was fun because we got to get out of our seats and it kept me from sleeping," Sarah said. Pre-Calculus prepared students for Calculus, which they can take in their senior year or in college.

Did You Hear? Hardly working, junior Rennie White and senior Betsy Parr discuss ideas for the yearbook. "As much as I complain, I have so much fun when I'm in the pub room," said Rennie. "When I don't get my work done, it's because I'm always talking." The theme of the book was "Sounds Like Bay" which categorized events by sound rather than section. The nationally reknowned book required a staff of thirty students and nine months of work.

Computer Fun. Concentrating in the Pub Room, junior Julie Montgomery types submissions to complete "Signatures," the school literary magazine. "I didn't mind being a typist because I've always liked typing," Julie said. "There weren't as many submissions as I expected." Julie worked as typing editor on this year's book. The magazine was a collection of creative works of literature and art created by students, submitted to a student selection board and published in book form.

In the second year of the block, did the new schedule experience the same sophomore slump that Puff Daddy's latest album did?

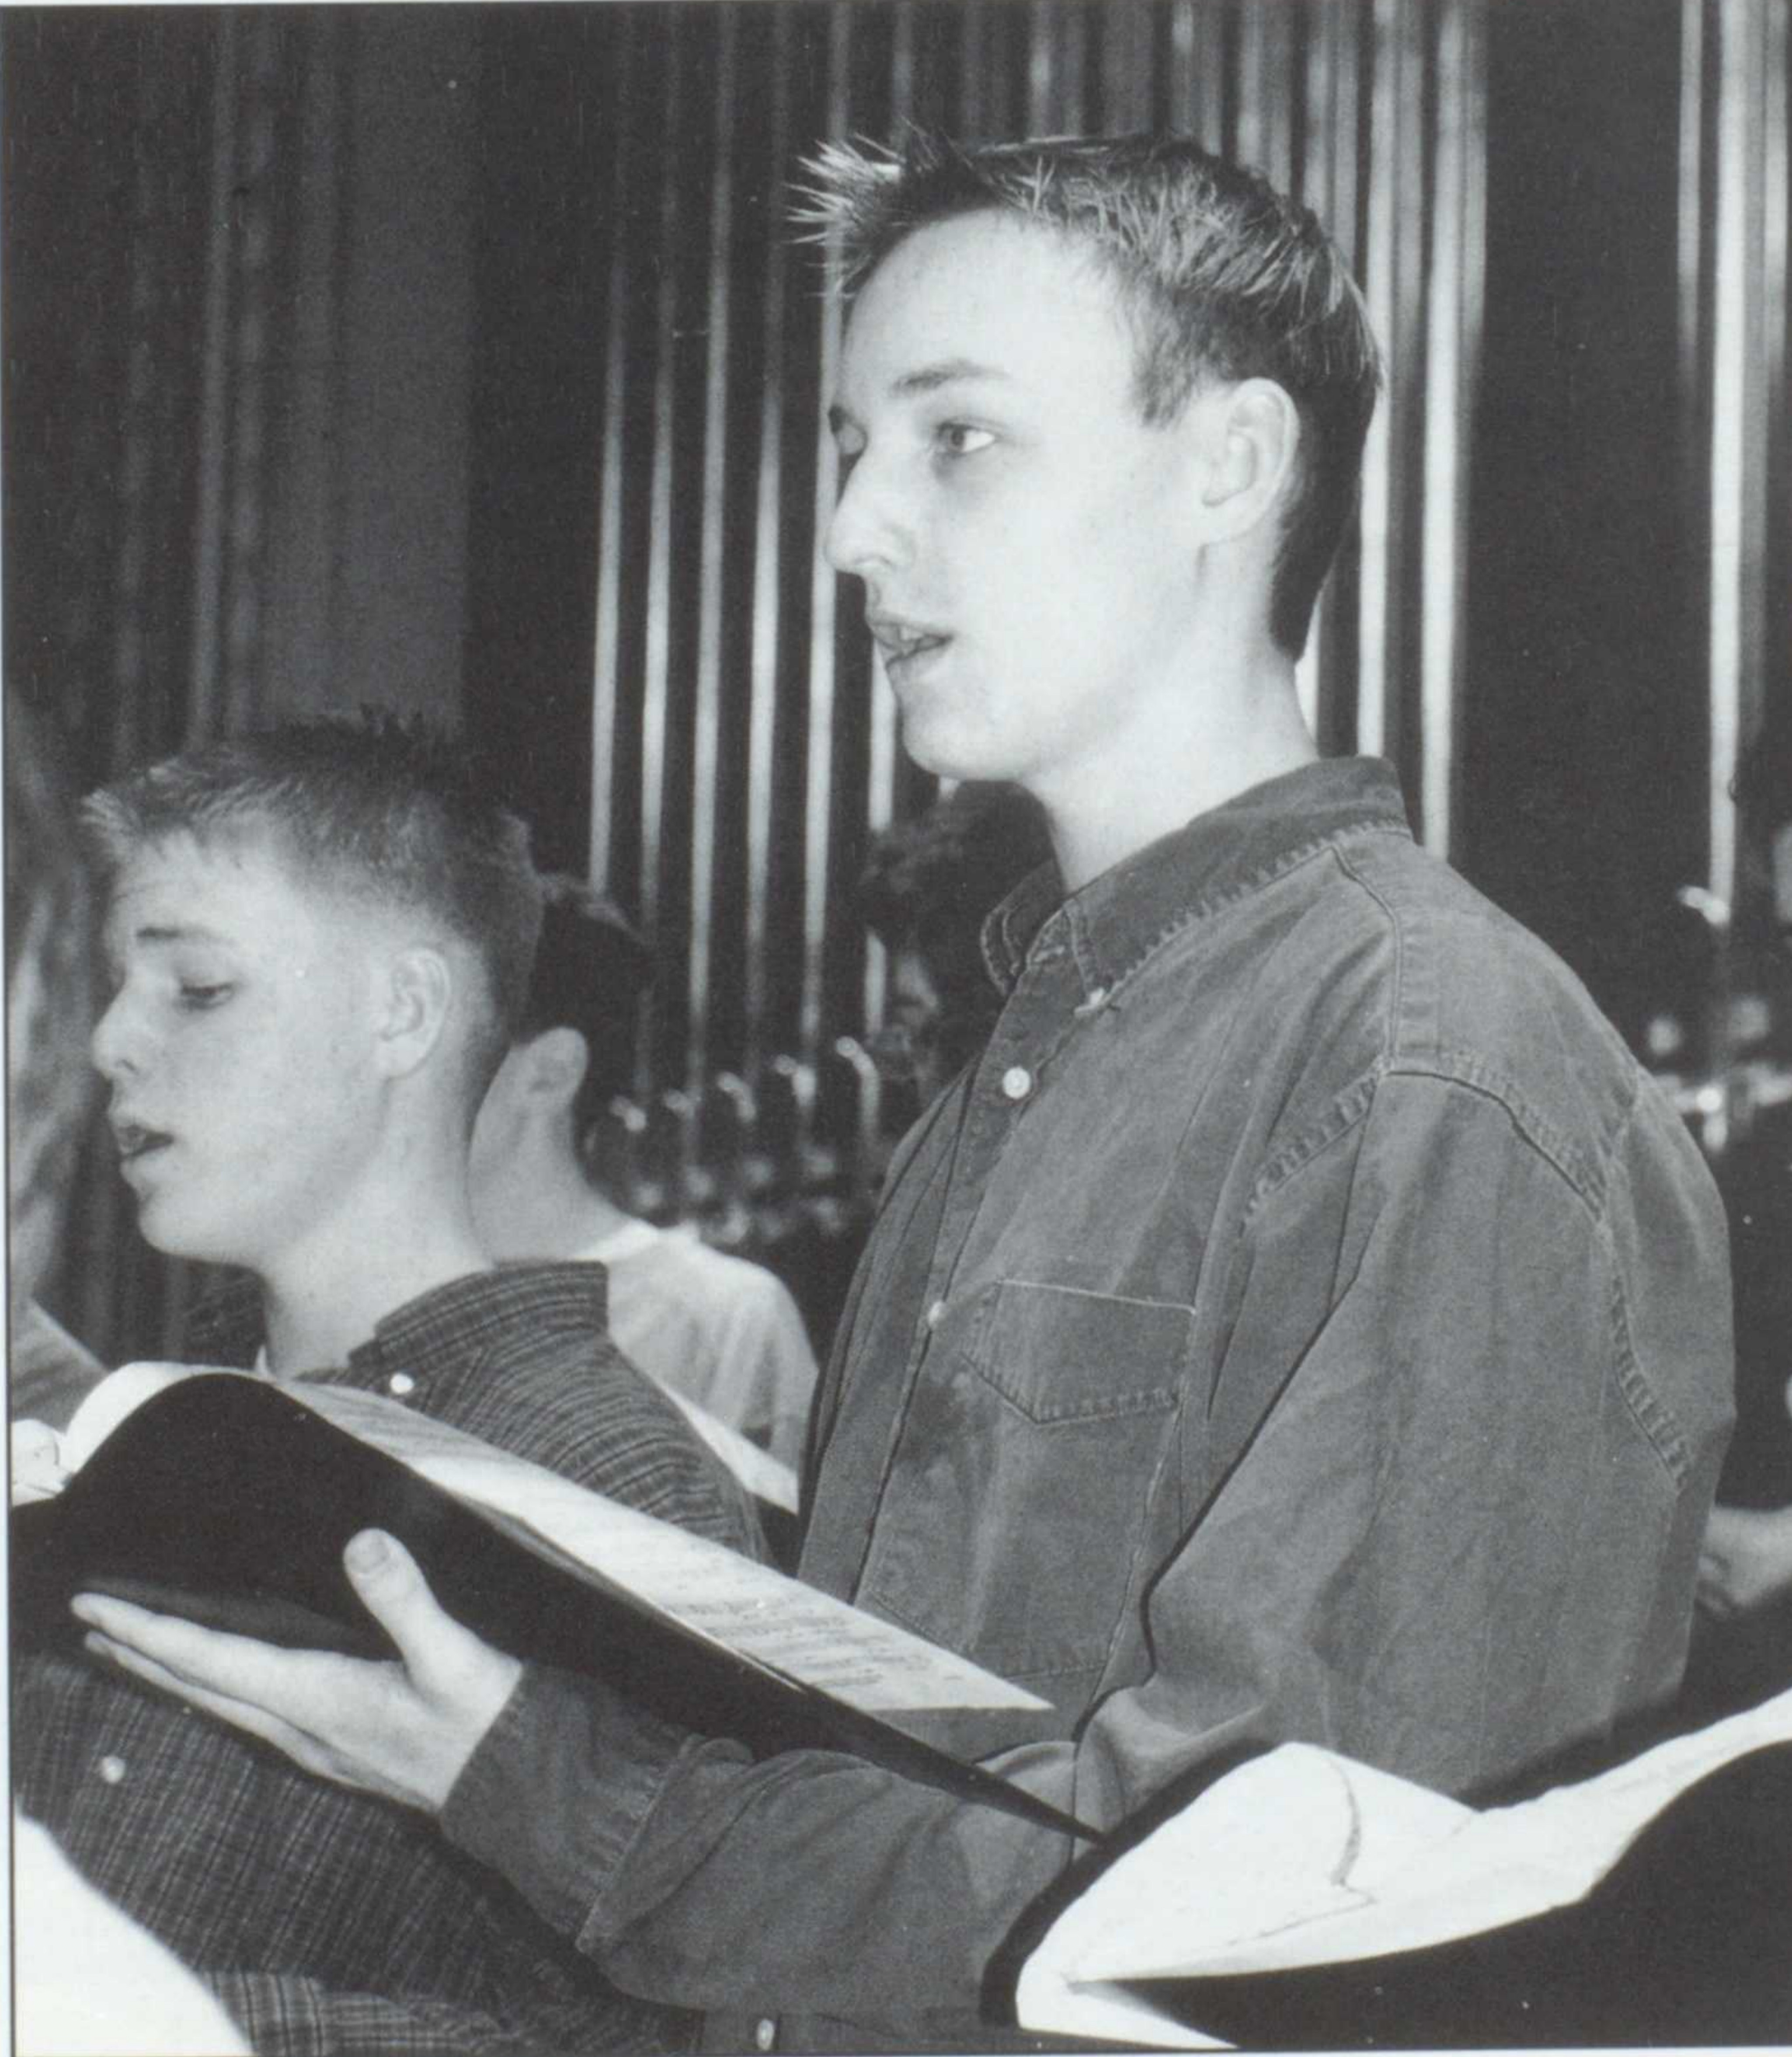

Make Connections. In Ms. Mowery's Physics class, juniors John Cousins and Kyle Shaughnessy perform a lab on projectiles. "The hands-on experiments were pretty useful," Kyle said. "You get more out of it." Laboratory activities were related to real life situations such as projectile movement and momentum in automobile accidents.

Mink About It. In Human Anatomy and Physiology, juniors Kate LaBatte and Allison Blotzer dissect their mink which they affectionately named Brittany Spears. "We made up songs about dissection to the tune of 'Baby, One More Time' while we were working," Kate recalled. "Ms. Tedrick learned our songs and sang them to her Anatomy classes second semester." Students dissected their specimens over the course of three days.

Pressed for Time. For the Bay Window, co-editor junior Sheena Knotek looks over reporters' articles. "I was responsible for making sure everyone reached the deadlines," Sheena said. "Working on the Window definitely helped me improve my leadership skills." Only one edition of the paper was published in the fall.

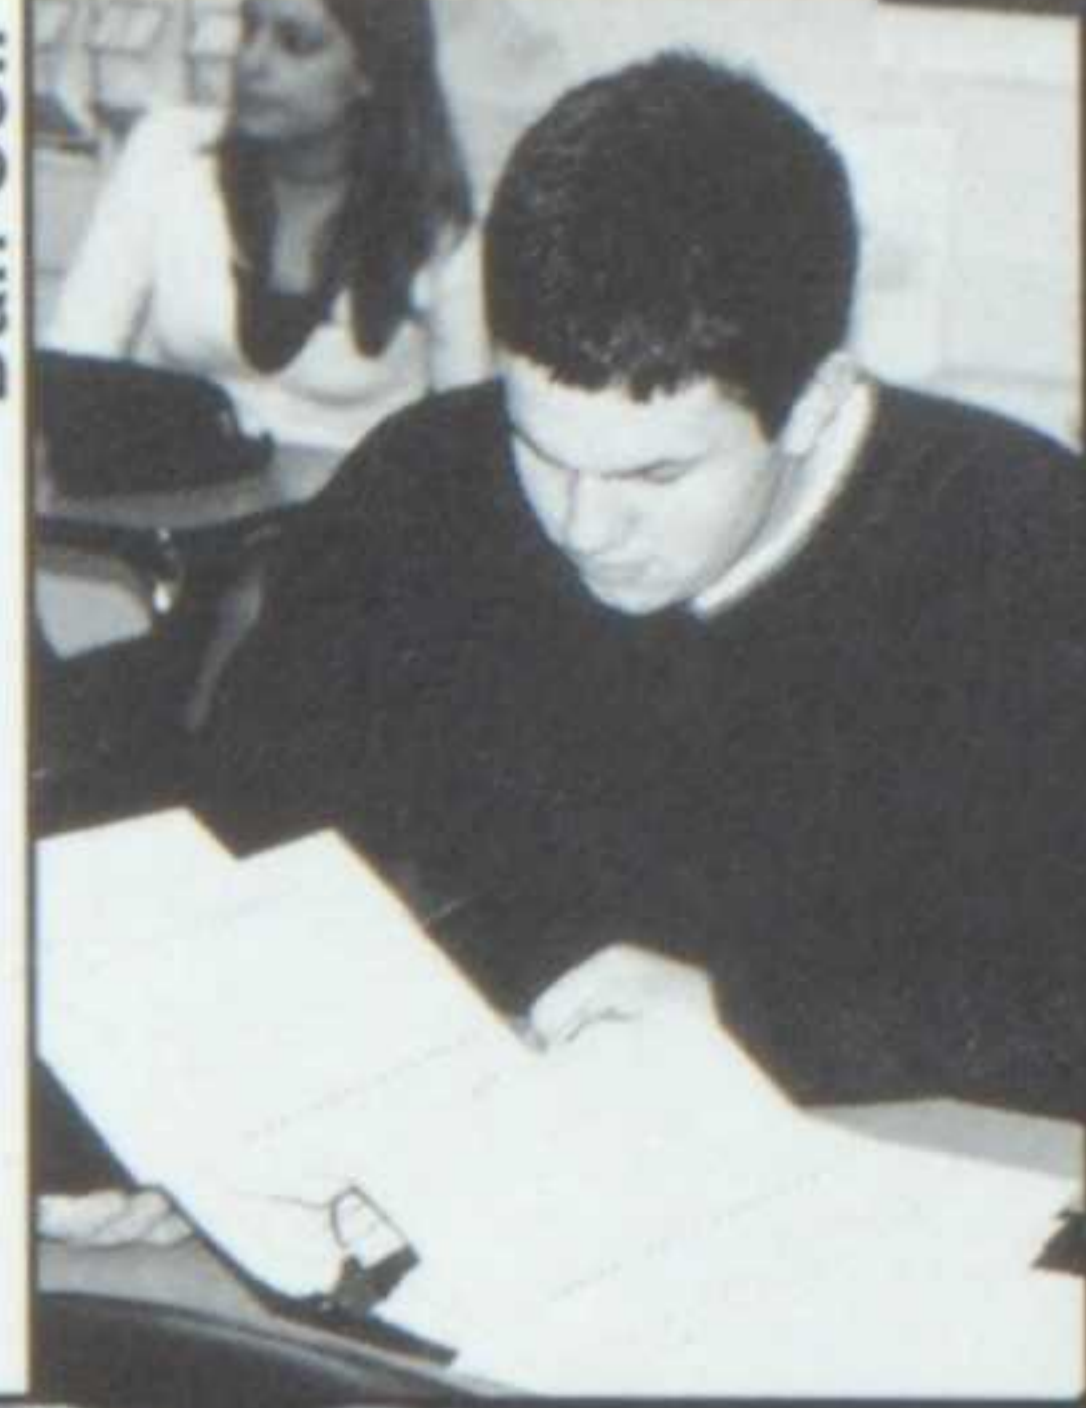

Let Yourself Be Heard. In the annual Cleveland Youth Chorus rehearsal, junior Jeff Schill sings his part. "We practiced every Saturday at Cleveland State University from two to five since the fall," he said. "It was kind of hard giving up my Saturdays, but it was a lot of fun. It was a good experience and I met a lot of people there." The concert took place on February 27, 2000.

Write it Write. In Unit English, Mr. Wingler works with junior Albert Cseh and Miss Hoepp helps junior Tom Steel. The class used several styles of writing and focused on the development of topics from start to finish. Reading skills and analysis were also a focus of the course.

Analyze This. In Government and Psychology, senior Susie Cleary works to create a tourist brochure about Bay Village. "I thought the class was really interesting because it was structured differently than most other classes," said Susie. The government section of the two-part class focuses on the workings of the national government as well as current events. In Psychology students explore psychological theory from history such as Freud, Young, Rodgers.

Major, Minor, Minor. Writing down some notes, sophomore Tom McIntyre takes active in Sophomore English. "I liked the class," Tom said. "Mr. Knap is a good teacher." Students were required to read A Raisin in the Sun and Of Mice and Men over the summer. Writing assignments in the class focused on the structure of the eleven sentence paragraph and the five paragraph essay.

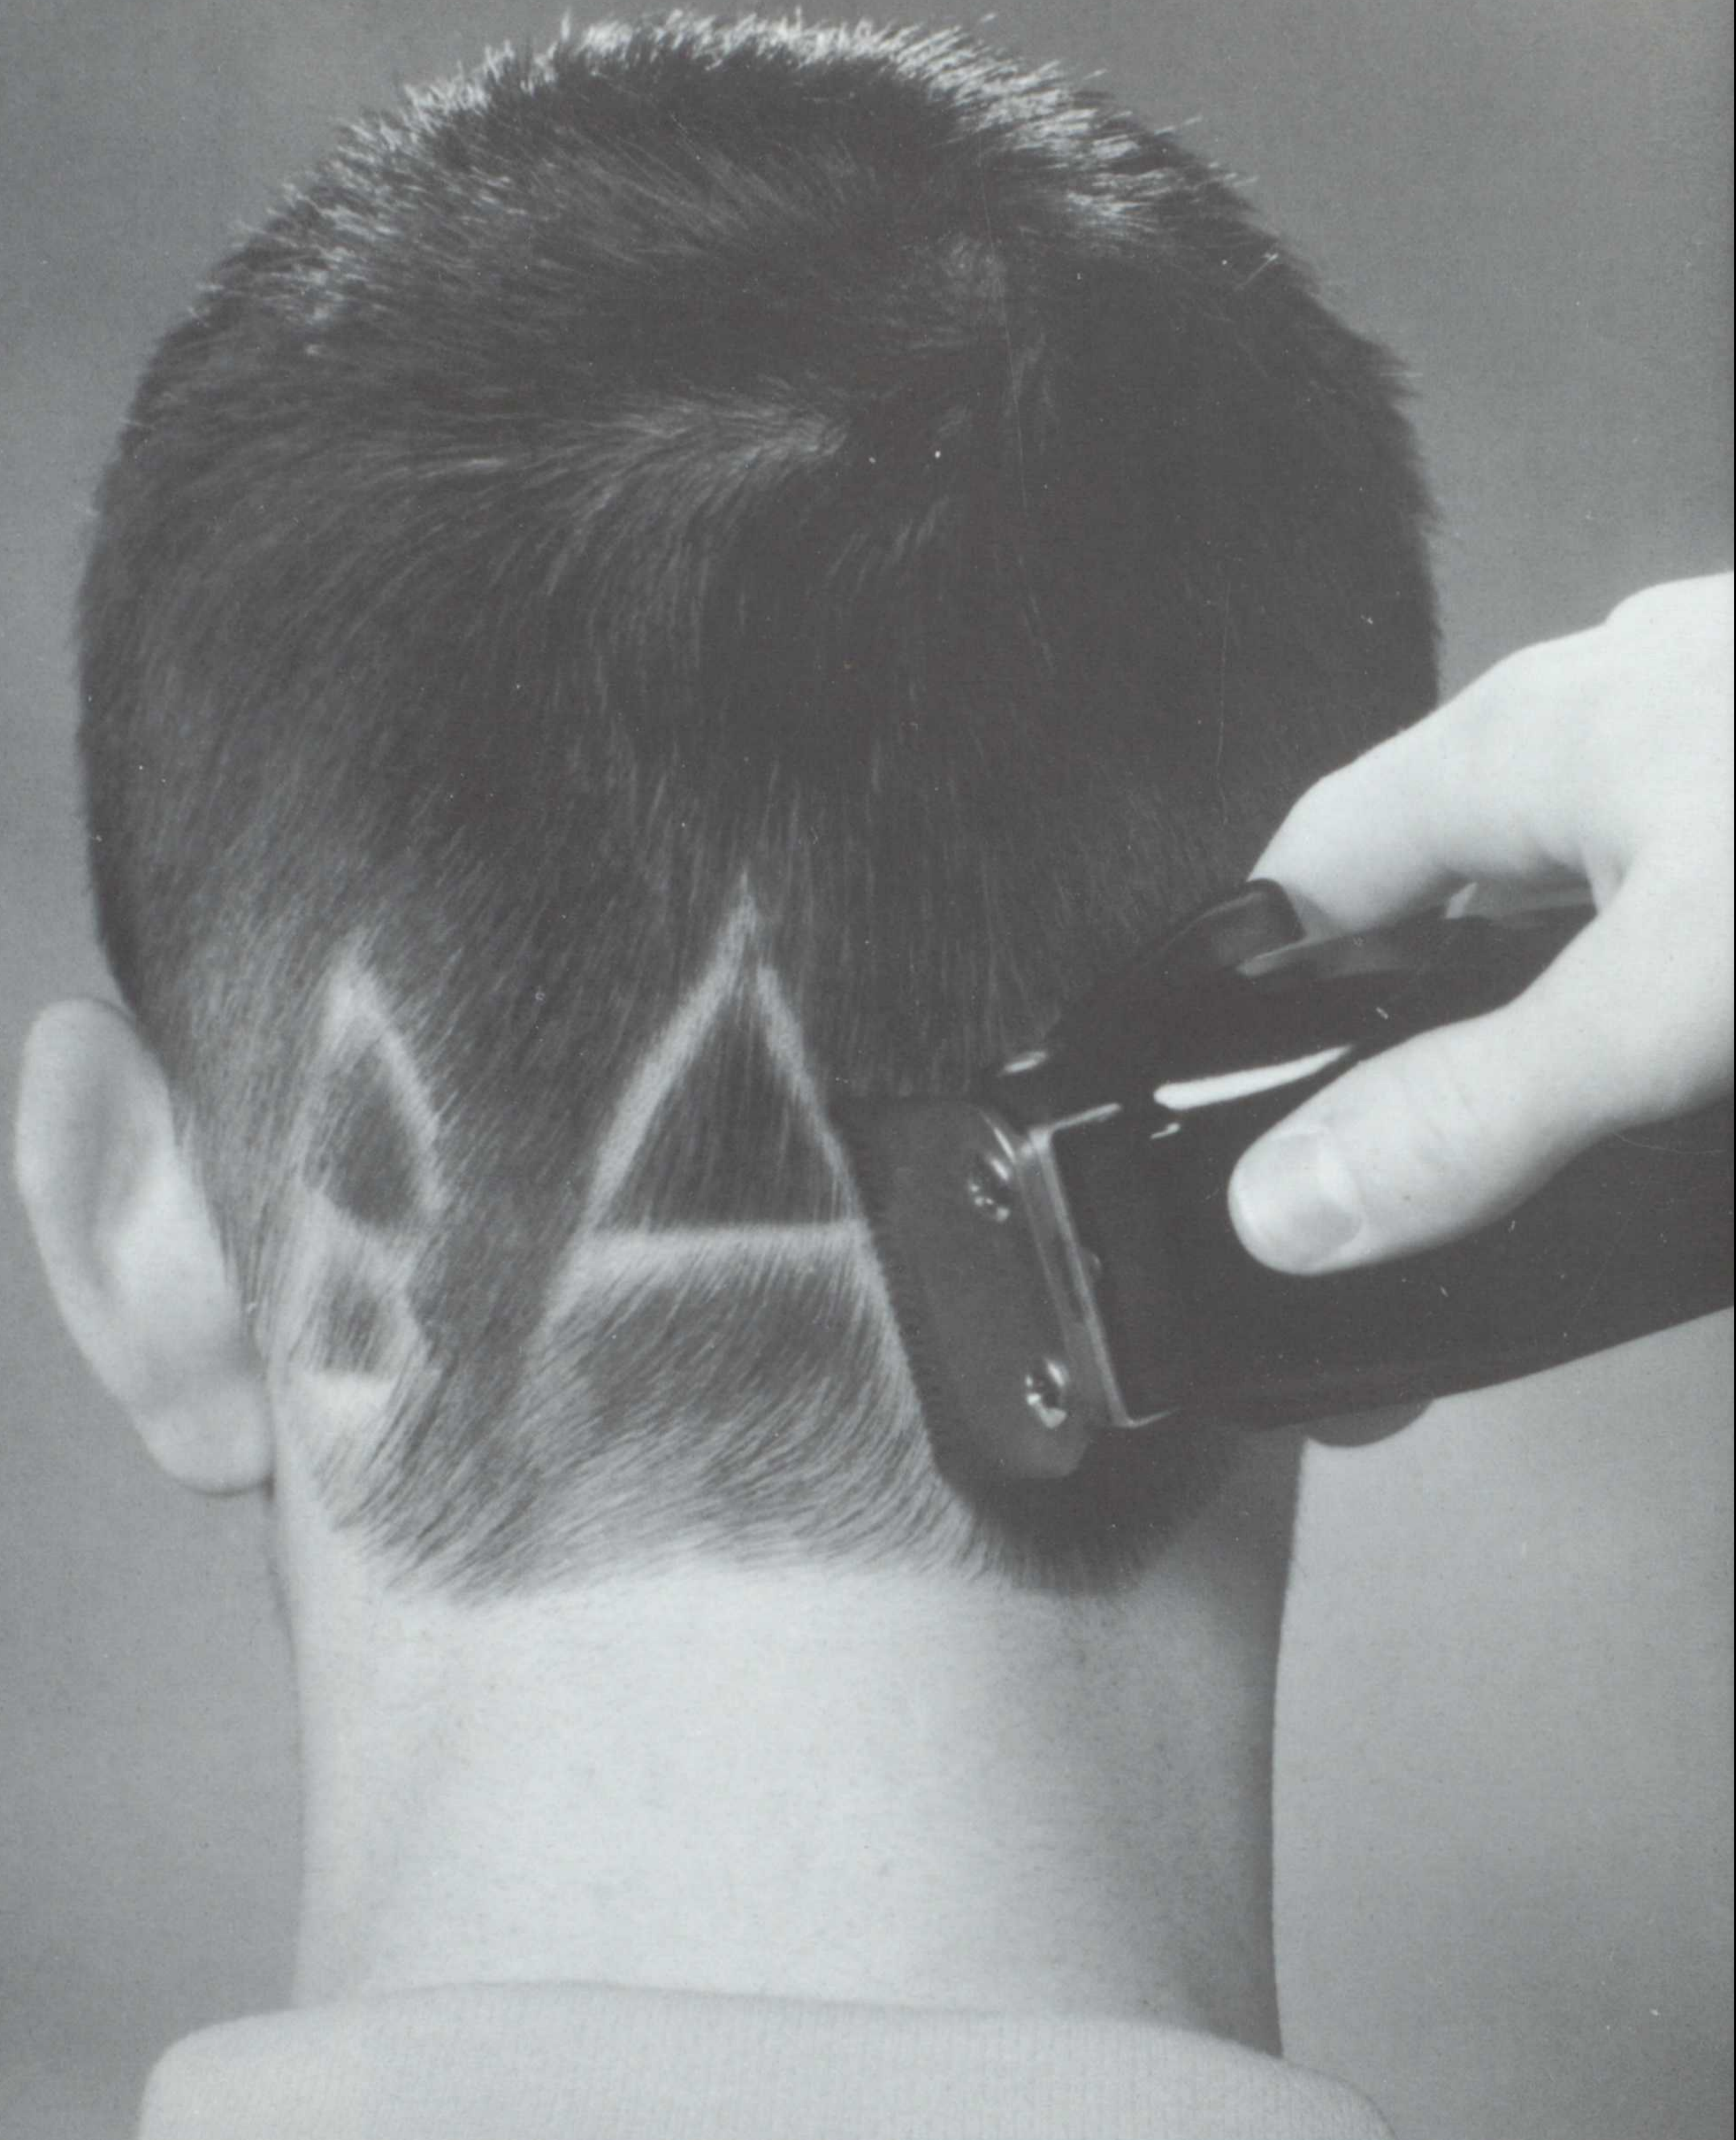

Life Before the Block: Then and Now

"I like block scheduling more than the normal nine-period-day. I feel like I get a lot less homework which makes my life and school in general a lot less stressful."
-Junior Brandon Lhotsky

"Initially I thought block scheduling was a good idea, but I have since changed my mind. My workload between semesters was totally unbalanced & teachers never give the extra homework time in class that they said they would."
-Junior Lauren Grissom

"I think people focus too much on the negative aspects of it. I really don't mind the new system. I mean, I'm going to come to school whether there are nine periods or four so I like having less to worry about."
-Junior Liz Grabo

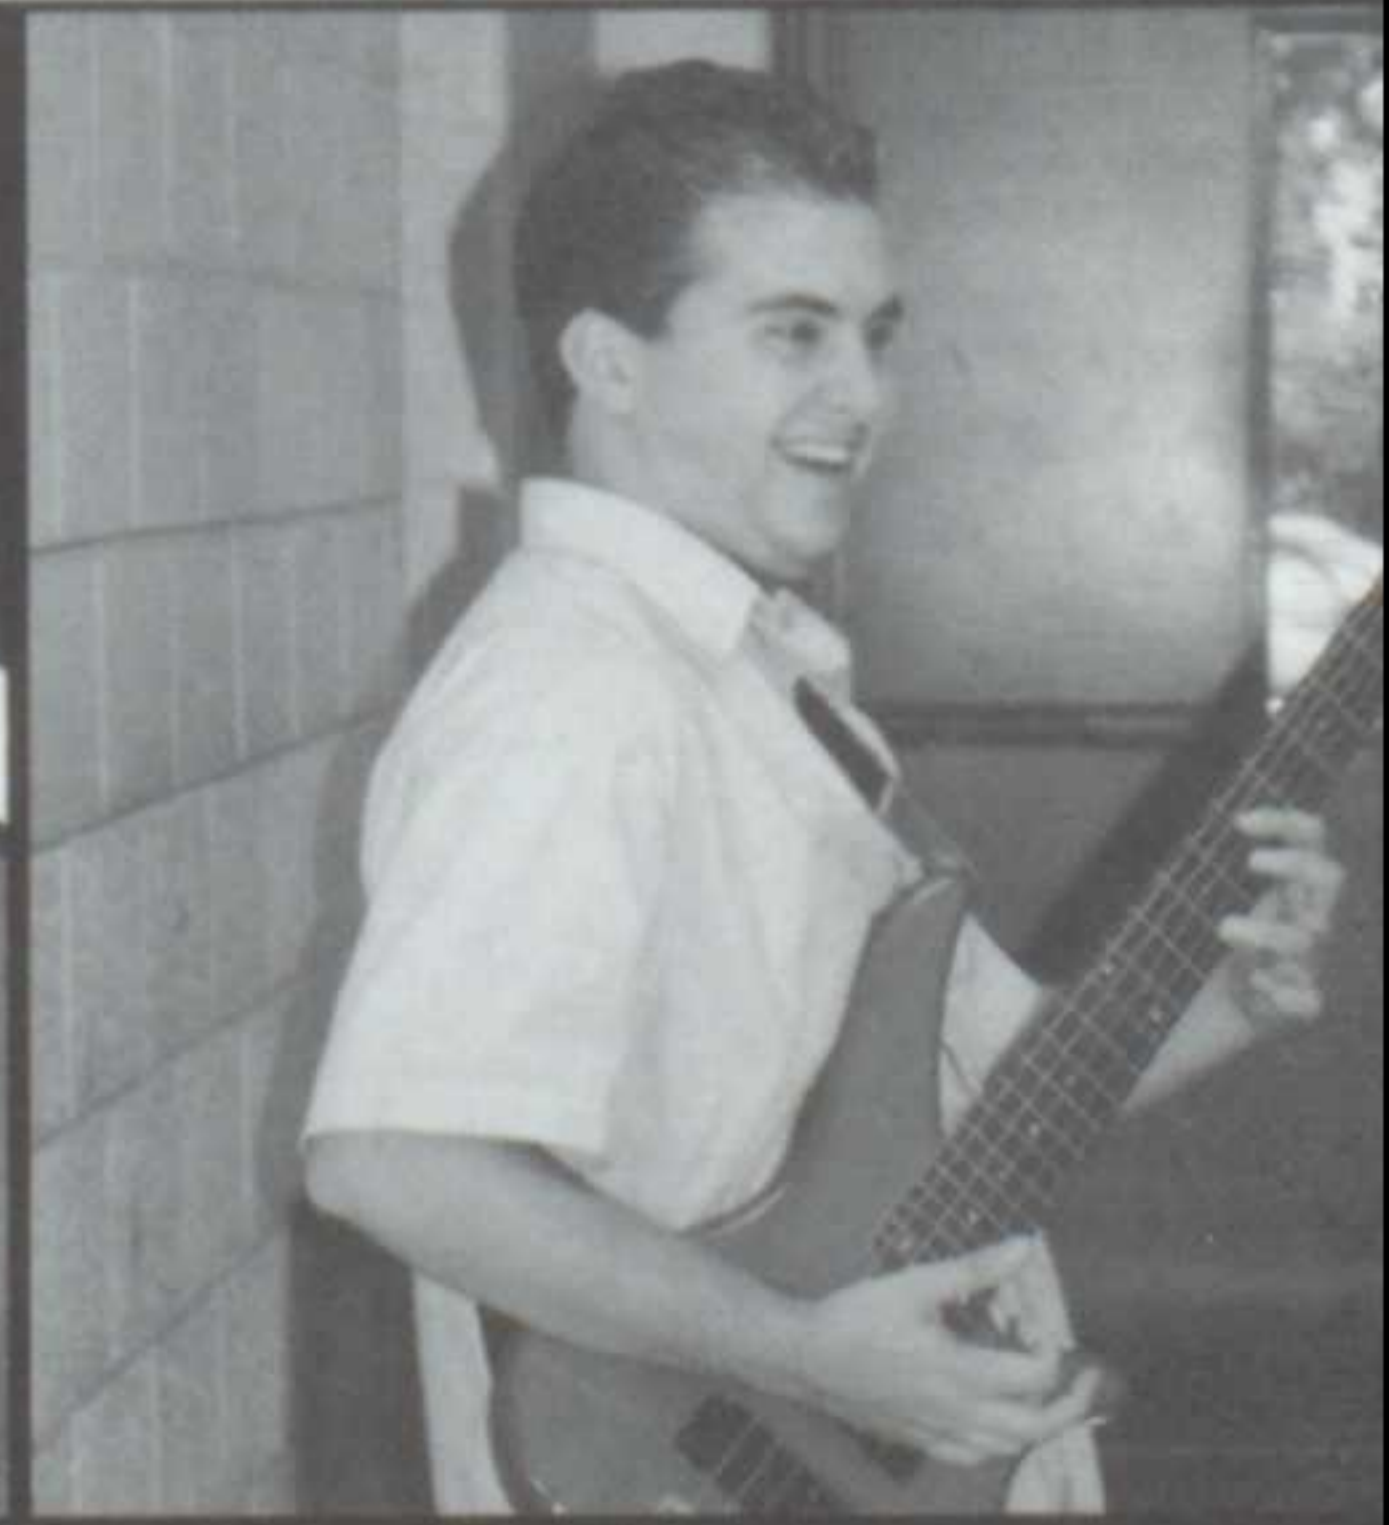

"In the beginning I really didn't know what to think, but once my grades started to fall I knew it was a bad idea. Even though my work load hasn't really changed, I hate sitting still for such a long time without any breaks in the class."

Try to Keep a Straight Face. In the art room, junior Jessica Obergas makes football wallies for Spirit Club. "Making wallies is sometimes a pain because it takes a really long time," Jessica said. "But the teams really like it and it helps boost school spirit." Wallies were made by Spirit Club the afternoon before a game and signed the following day in school. Because of some off-color comments made on the wallies during the fall, Mr. Liptrap threatened to eliminate them.

All Suds & Smiles. To help raise money for their prom, juniors Alex Leslie, Liz Grabo, Jenny Groff, and Jodi Schneider volunteer for a car wash sponsored by class officers. "We had a water fight about halfway through," said junior Alex Leslie, "but we still made a lot of money to go toward our senior prom." The class of 2001 earned over $700 on one Saturday morning.

Don't Take it Seriously. At Southpark Mall, freshmen Brittany Romano and Lindsay Hannola shop for homecoming dresses together. Grin for the Crowd. Junior Rockette captain sophomore Mia Heil leads a line of Rockettes. "The best part of the year was probably the summer dance camp," Mia recalled. "Being the captain wasn't an easy job, but it was rewarding to see all that the squad accomplished during the season." Junior Rockettes worked with flag routines for all of the halftime performances. They were featured in the number 'Go Down Gambling.'

Let Loose a Laugh. Millennium Force member senior Katie Reilly dresses up in Rocket colors for a pep assembly. "Dressing up for Millennium Force is a blast," said Katie. "I get to wear all the blue and white I own and act like a super hero, all for the spirit of the school." The Millennium Force was a part of the newly-resurrected Spirit Club.

His hair was all dyed blue and spiked up. It looked really cool." There were a wide variety of outfits featured at the dance.

Too Tired to Laugh. At 6:00 am, juniors Katy Paulus, Faith Kostyack, and Danielle Owad perform with the marching band for Channel 3. "This is my third year doing Rockettes," Danielle said, "and it gets better every year. If I wasn't a Rockette, I wouldn't have anything to do." In addition to practicing routines on Monday nights, the Rockettes practiced outside with the instrumentalists on Wednesdays throughout the fall season.

-K. DiBenedetto

Dance with Me. During a slow song, senior Eric Hagget and junior Candice Evanko dance at homecoming. "When we first got to the school, Eric was very shy about dancing," Candice said. "At first, he just bounced around, but when song 'Baby Got Back' came on, he busted a move and was fine for the rest of the night." Most couples arrived at the dance around 8:30 and stayed until 11:30.

Talk Louder than the Rest. In American Literary Experience, juniors Drew Johnston, Nick Hoag, Liza Hollo, and Lauren Heim work on study questions for Mark Twain's Adventures of Huckleberry Finn. "We watched a lot of movies in class this year," said Lauren. "It was a good time to take a nap." To pass the class, students were required to complete final projects, which included both an academic resume and a multi-cultural project.

Repétez, S'il Vous Plaît. In Mrs. Knight's French 3 class, sophomores Alex Smith and Ali Acosta discuss Le Petit Prince. "It was really good to get a break from learning verb forms and apply French to literature," Alex said. "French 3 is much different from French 2, and lots of people have decided not to go on next year, but I think enough people will stick with it." In French 2, class time focused on vocabulary and verbs, but in French 3, the major feat was reading a well-known French novel.

Where Did You Hear That? At a breakfast for the National Honors Society, seniors Sarah Alexander and Rachel Hitti have a chat. "Last year, for my service project, I worked at Bay Youth Center," Rachel said. "I usually don't have time to get involved in the community, but NHS provided an opportunity." All National Honors Society members met every two months; individual committees met more often to plan events.

Let Yourself Be Heard. While rehearsing for 'Hello, Dolly!' senior Jenny Sommer cries with junior Jeff Schill. "With such a small speaking role, I didn't think that I would have to rehearse as much as I did," said Jeff. "All the hard work paid off, though, and I plan to participate next year." Members of the cast that had speaking roles had rehearsals every week-day, while the chorus only had practice on Mondays and Wednesdays.

Stir Up Some Noise. During a cooking lab, freshmen Scott Wallace and B.J. Johnson prepare a healthy recipe. In Singles Survival, students learned the skills needed to live by themselves. Projects included sewing boxer shorts, planning meals, finding an apartment, and managing personal finances. This was the second year this class was offered and, like last year, it was very popular with incoming freshmen.

Two members were assigned to represent a country in council.

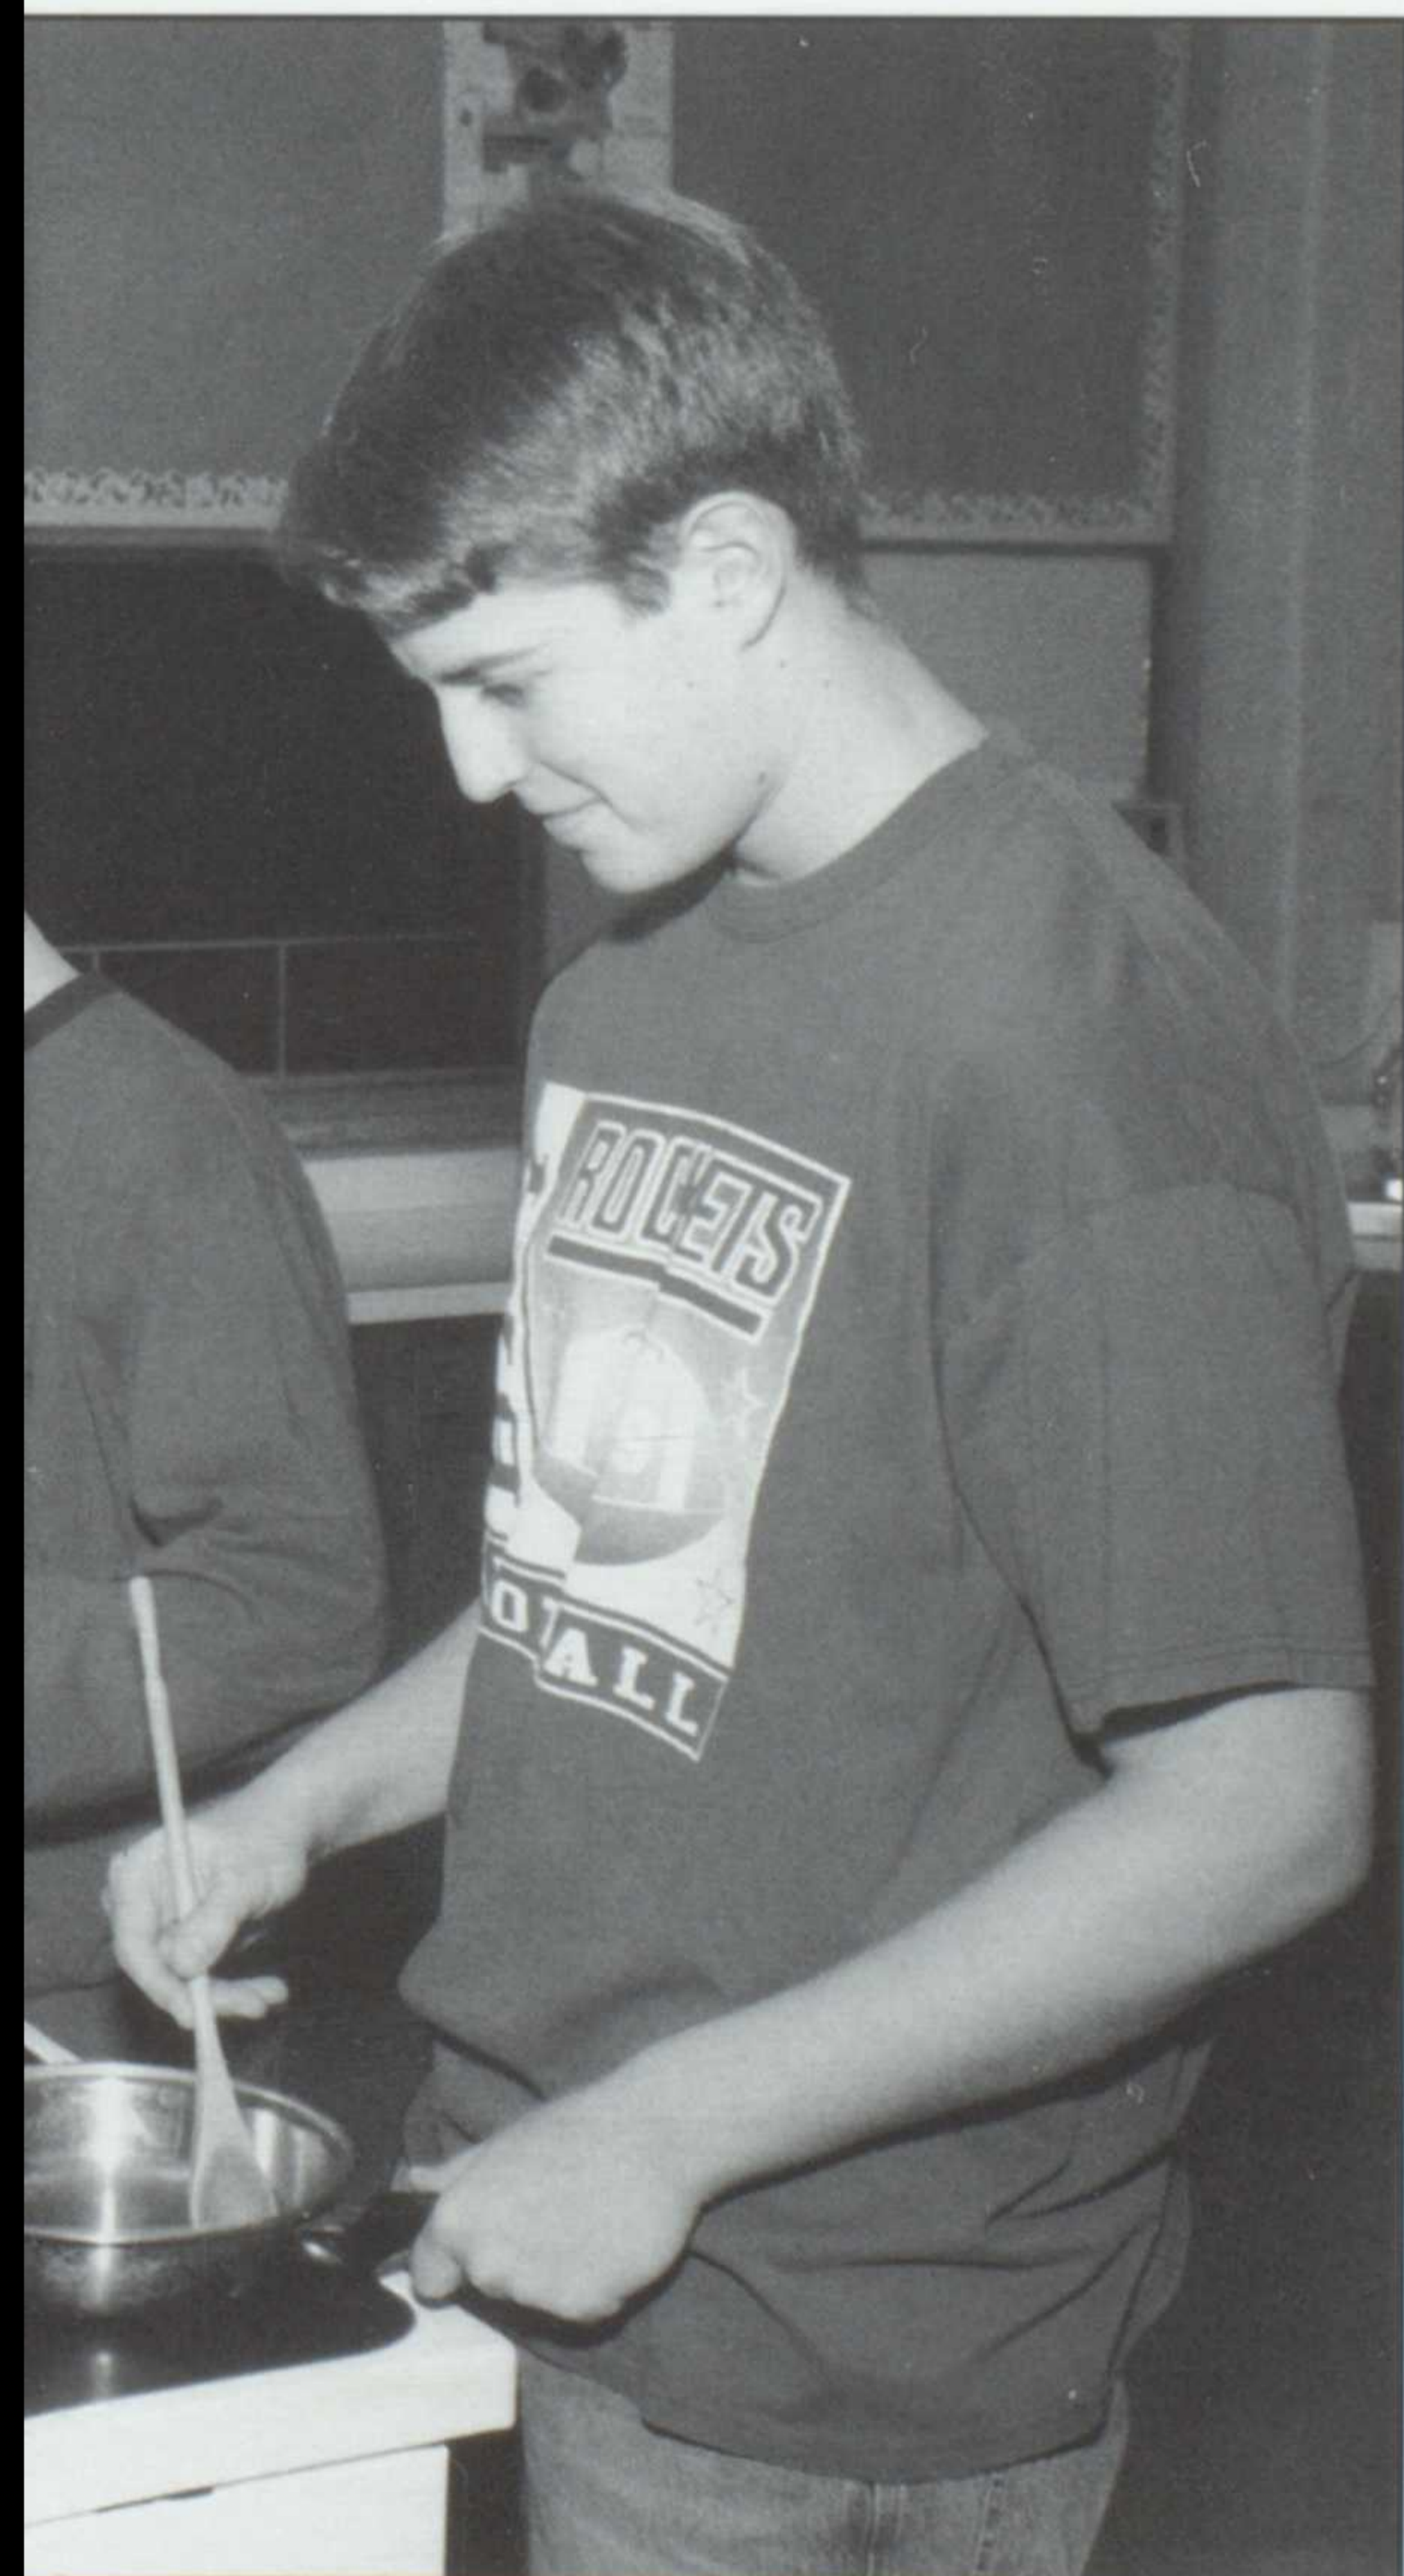

-M. Fujka

Deep In Conversation. At 'Mi Pueblo,' sophomores Lauren Krause, Sarah Selong, Rachel Madden, Abbey Houlas, and Kristen Coleman wait for their orders. "I had a lot of fun eating at Mi Pueblo," said Rachel. "It was a great experience of the Spanish culture that is still in the Cleveland area." Spanish classes, which also traveled to Nuevo Acapulco restaurant, had more "out of school experiences" than French classes.

Repeat the Words Aloud. At the board in AP English, seniors Jon Witmer and Shannon Carlin scan sentences for rhythm. "Since it's an AP class, a lot is expected," Shannon said, "but I would recommend it to anyone who likes to read and analyze literature." In addition to scansion and poetry studies, students analyzed novels, plays and essays. The required summer reading books cost around one hundred dollars per student.

Silly Coincidences. In Mr. Scott's health class, sophomores Aaron Kavano and Alexis Brooks go on a date. "We're friends so it was kind of funny," Alexis said. "He gave me a flower and we just went and sat down." While some students ended up "dating" their friends, most were paired with people they did not know very well. In some classes, the boy to girl ratio was so low that male dates were recruited from lunch periods.

-M. Fujka

A Little Friendly Competition. During the third annual Turkey Bowl, junior Student Council members Bob Bordine and Drew Jackson watch a game. "There were some major upsets," Bob said. "Like every year, the faculty cheated and got lucky." Student Council organized the event and everyone was encouraged to play. The championship went to the Kaiser clan, under junior quarterback Jon Komperda.

A Pile of Smiles. At Westerly School, fourth graders cover senior Ron Rutt. "I love the kids at Westerly," says Ron. "During recess we play soccer, football, and wall-ball and I let them win... most of the time." Elementary Aide gave students experience working with children in grades kindergarten through fourth. Aides helped out with activities in the classroom and kept control of the children during recess.

Happy to Help. In the Homecoming Parade, the HERO club carries their banner down Wolf Road. "I joined HERO because I wanted to help people and make money for different organizations," sophomore Brandy Adkins said. "I also get to be with my friends." HERO met before school in advisor Mrs. Hughes' room to plan activities.

Tied Up in Laughter. While at the COR January retreat sophomore Katie Krause gets creative. "The experience was great. We had a creation hour when we decorated our rooms. By the end of the weekend, we couldn't get to our beds because of all the string. The experience changed my life." COR is a youth group affiliated with St. Raphael's Church. Members worked on community-based products and went on three retreats throughout the year.

Thank Goodness It's Funny. Waiting for their order at T.G.I. Friday's, juniors Kyle Shaunessy, Jessica Obergas, Dan Coil, and Imogen Pryce talk about the basketball game. "It's pathetic, really," said Imogen. "It takes about thirty minutes standing in the parking lot to decide where to go and we always end up at the same place." Following tradition, the group of friends attended the Friday night basketball game and then grabbed something to eat.

Work It, Girls! Doing their duel impression of "Superstar" Mary Katherine Gallagher from the television show 'Saturday Night Live,' sophomores Sara Petersen and Kate Connor work out at the fitness center after school. "Sara and I try to work out at least three days a week," said Kate. "We go to get fit and have fun, but mainly to socialize with other people." The fitness center was a popular place for students to meet up with friends.

Students had a "ball" at the winter formal, February 26, 2000.

Taking a break from the dance, junior Ben Gertz and Diana Cekanski check out their camera. "We had dinner at Alex Smith's house and her mom made us lasagna," Ben said. "The dance was the best part of the night and we stayed until the end."

Out in the courtyard, junior Kelly McLaughlin and senior Tim Bolton enjoy the unusually warm night. "For dinner," Kelly said, "we ordered from the Outback and told the boys that we made it ourselves, but they figured it out after they started eating."

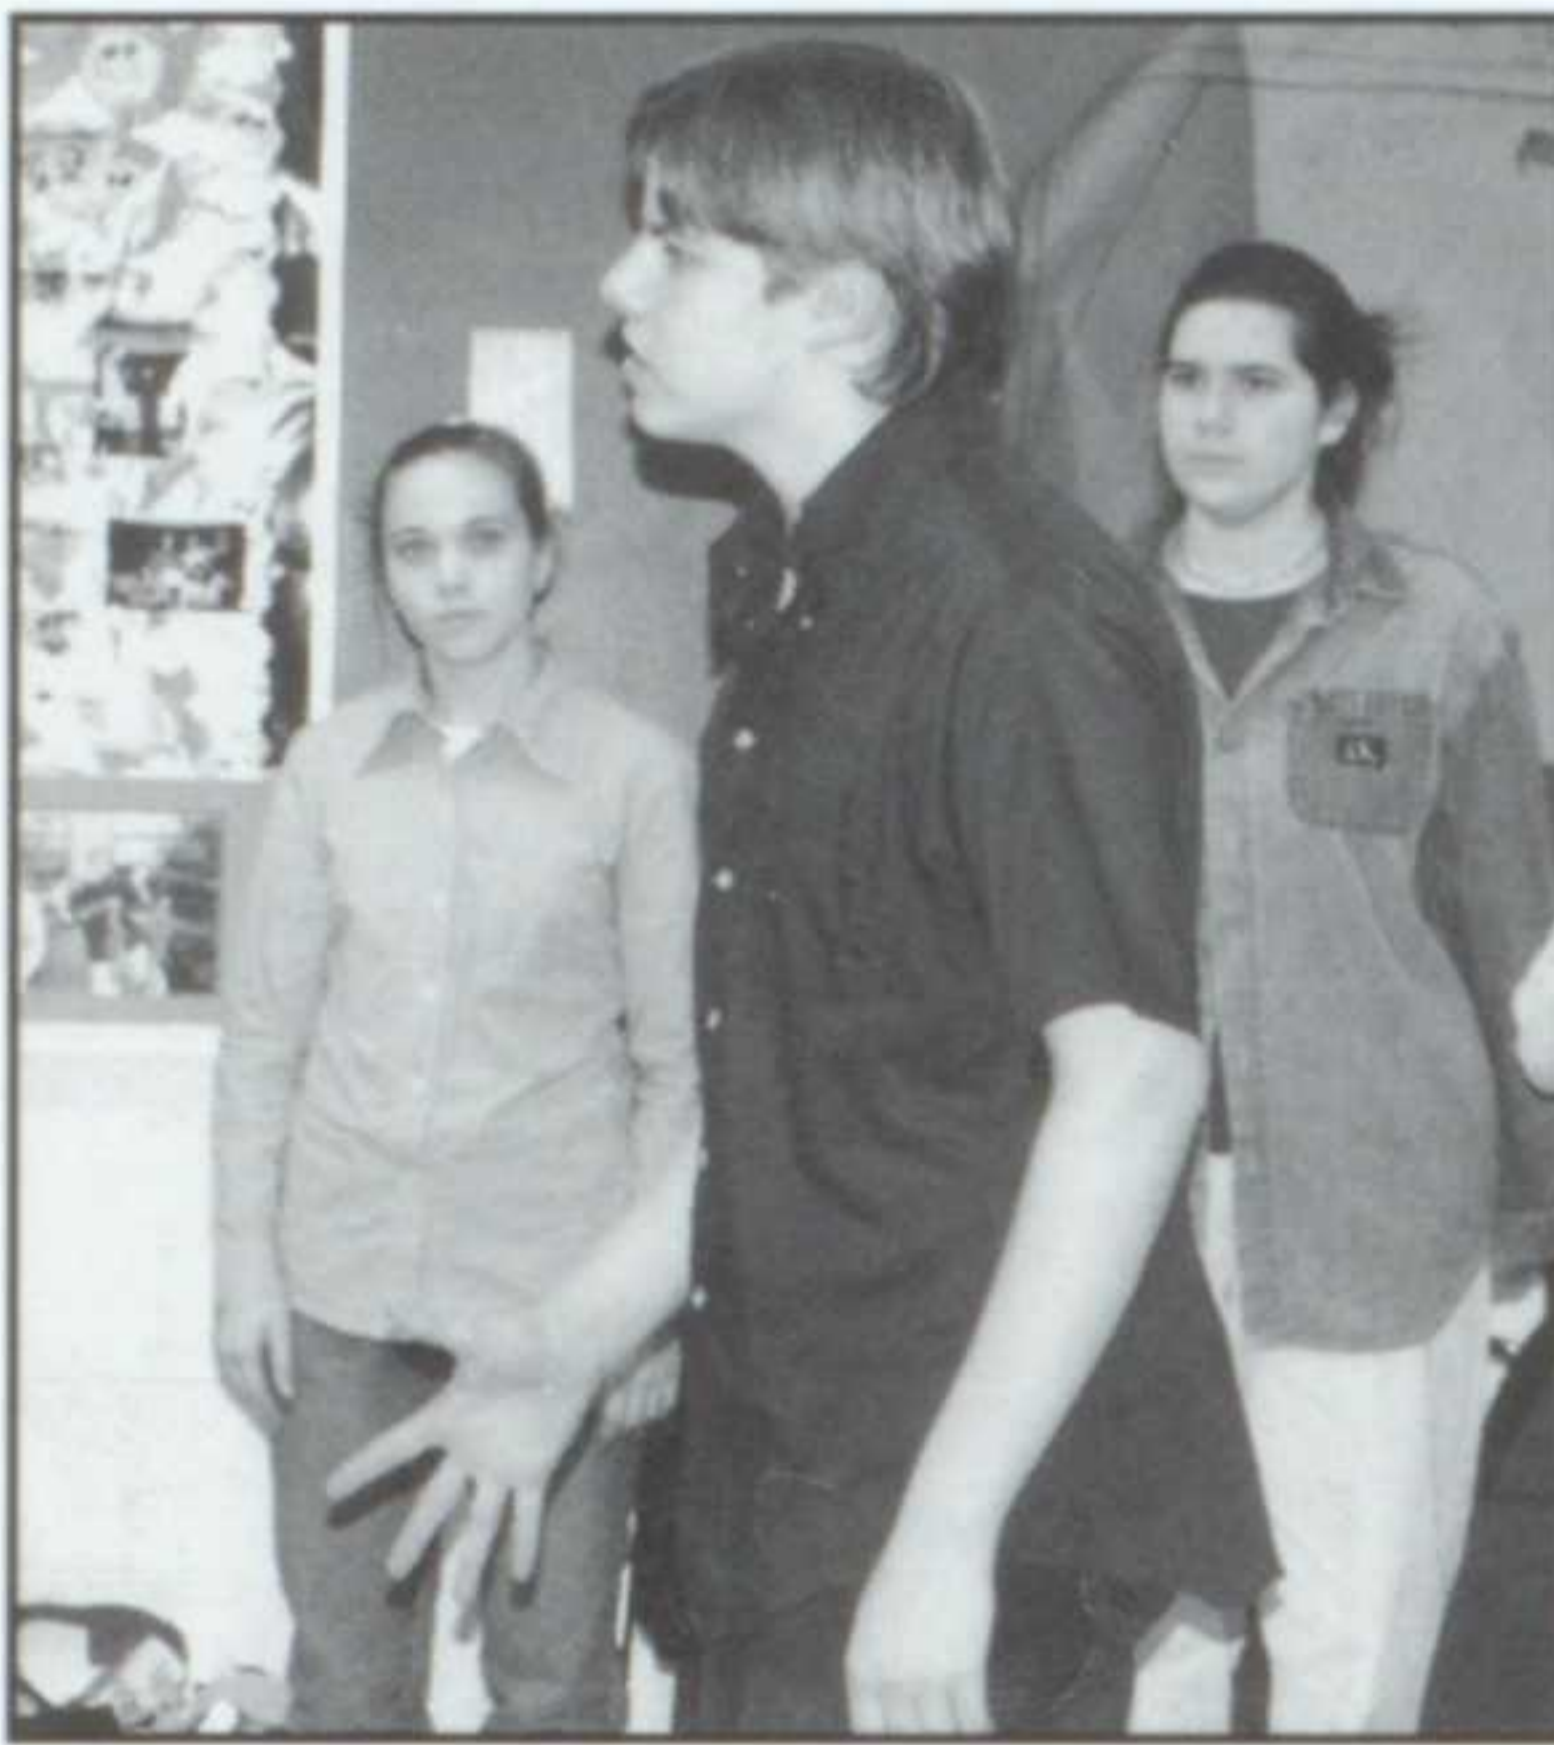

Wanting to remember the night, junior Drew Johnson and sophomore Sarah Hess order pictures. "I thought the dance was a good experience overall," Sarah commented, "but the music could have been better. The last dance was fast and it should have been slow."

Even off the dance floor, senior Dena DiOrio gets into the groove. "We went to three different restaurants before we sat down for dinner," she recalled. "Despite the turmoil, we had an awesome time at the dance and after the dance."

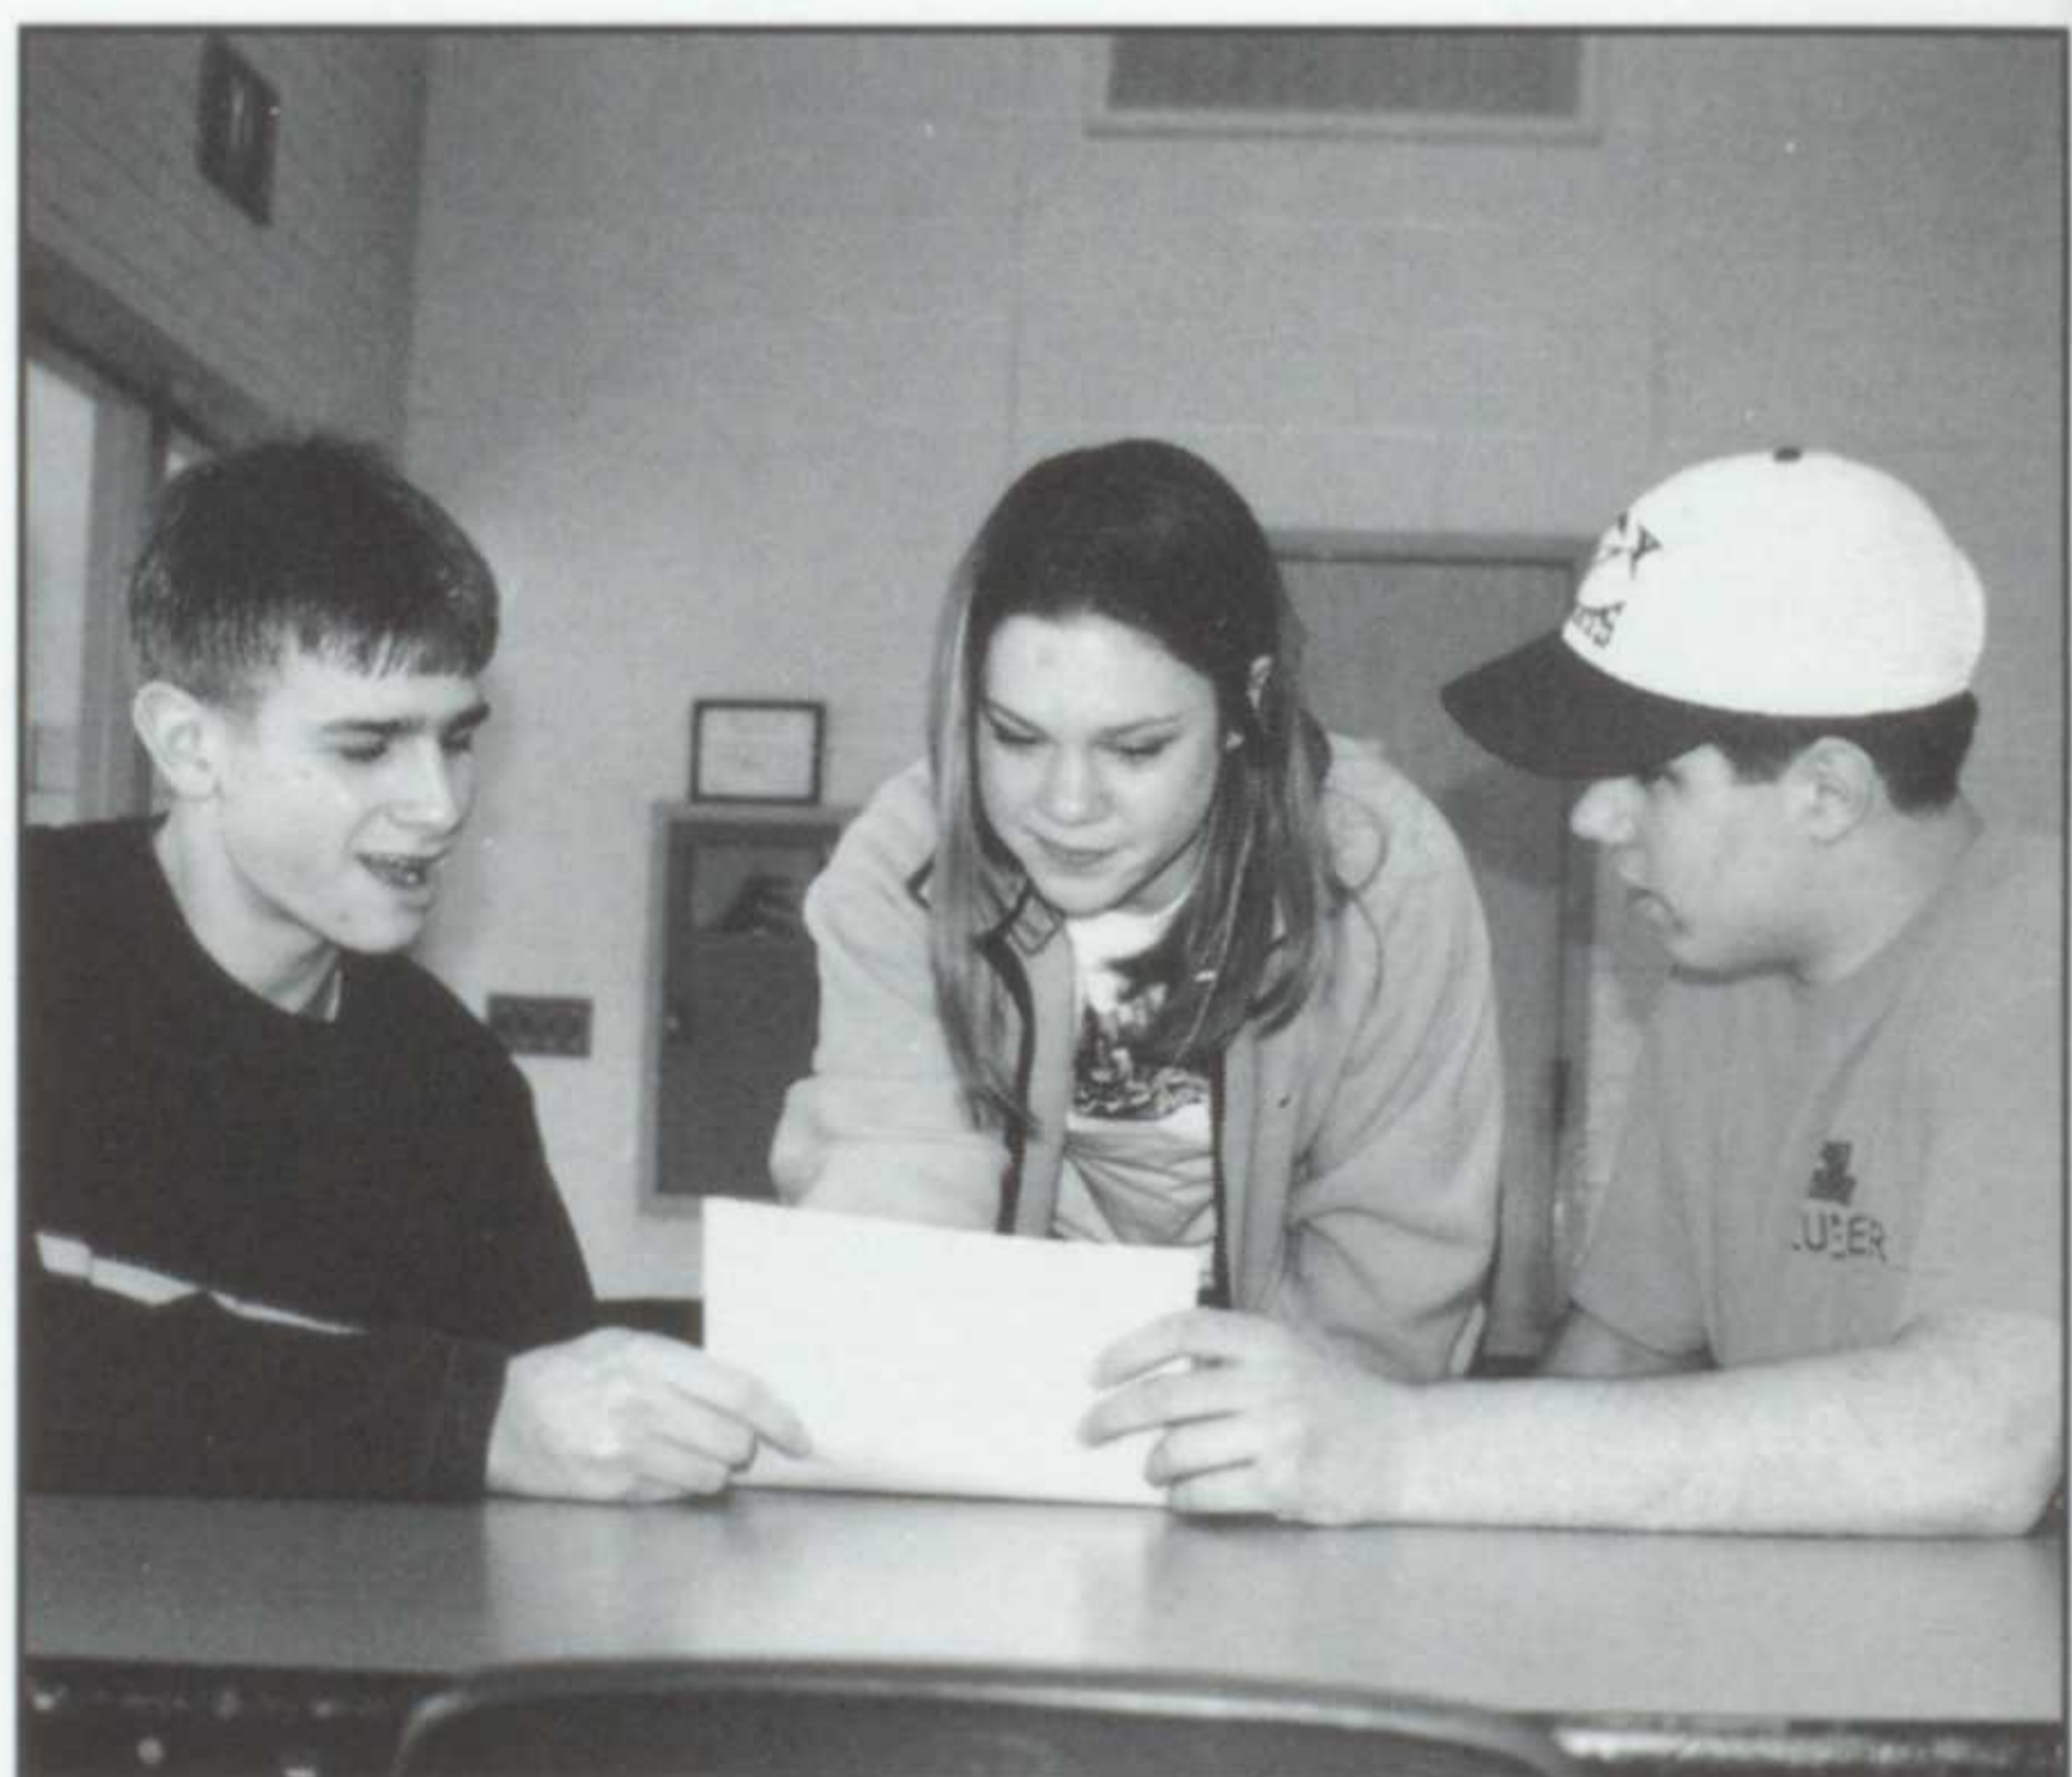

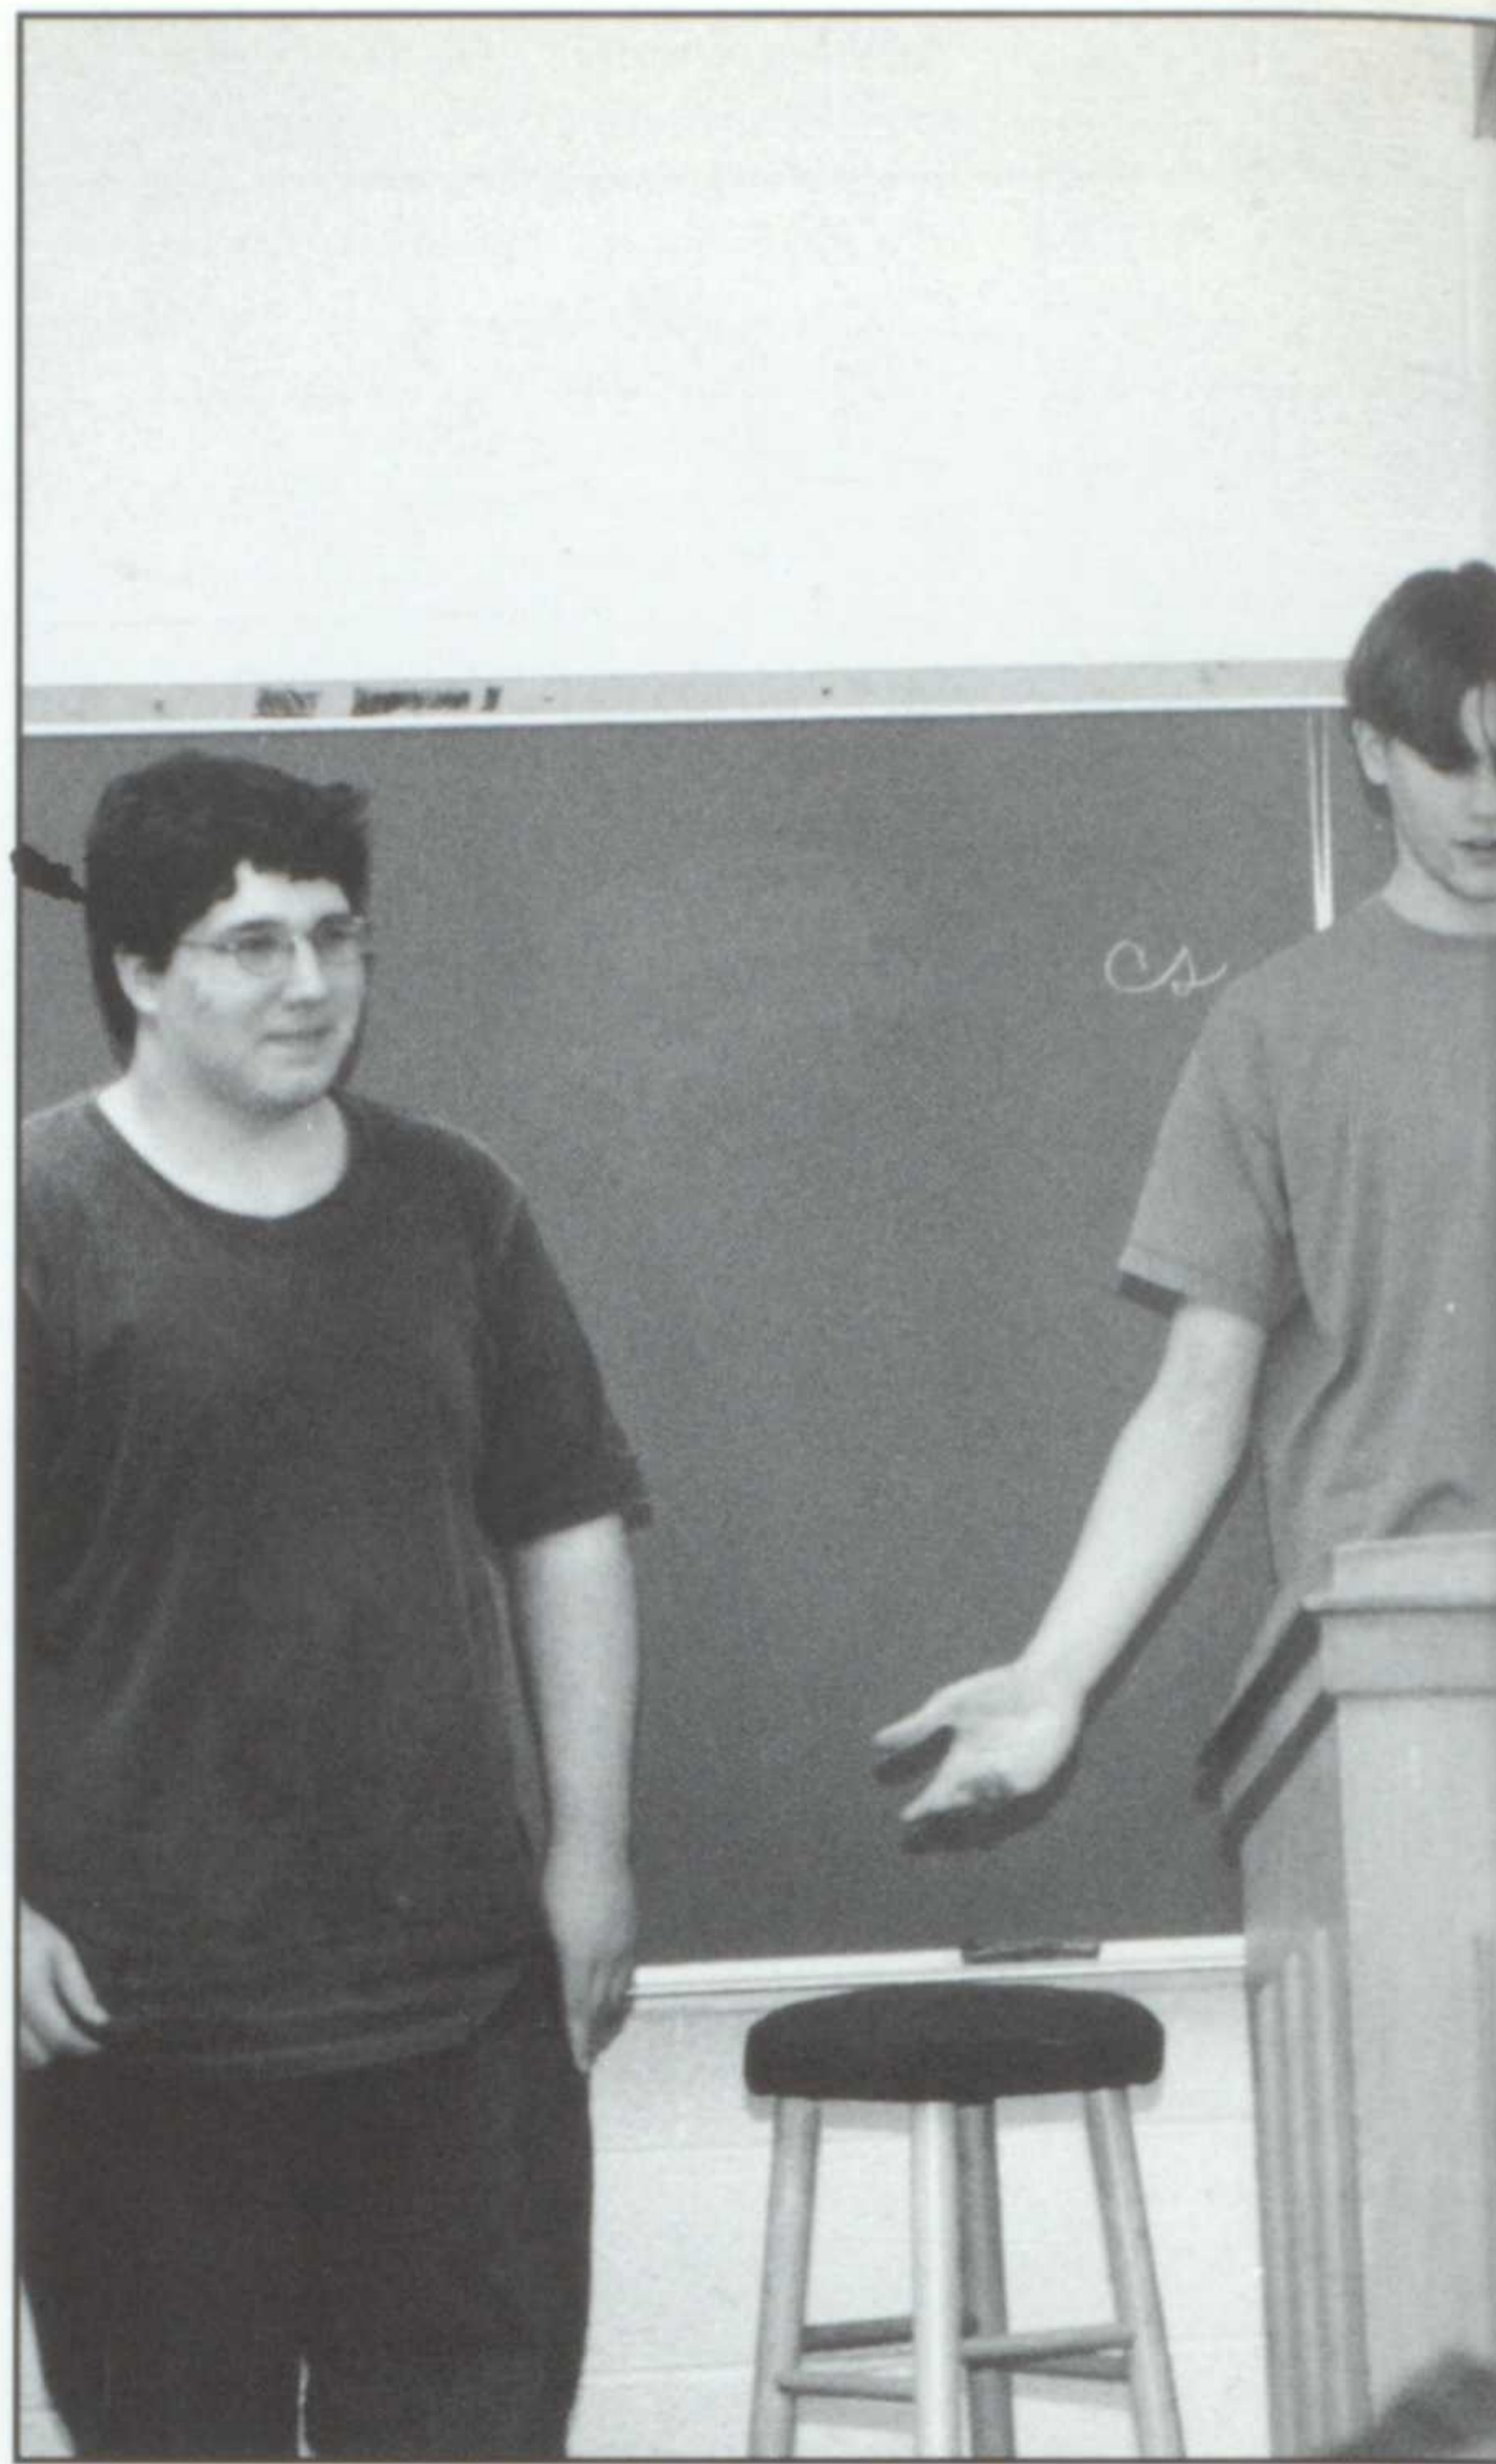

State Your Position. In Debate, junior Greg Huber and seniors Phil Hanna and Evan Kauker present in front of the class. "Debate taught me how to organize my thoughts and think quickly on my feet," Phil said, "Although I was disappointed when I found out that the class involved a lot of research. I think it was a good experience." Mrs. Seljan taught the only Debate class.

No Stage Fright Here. In Mrs. Ostrica's Acting class, junior J.R. Shaw plays his role. "It's interesting to see the differences between the people who have had acting experience and those who haven't," J.R. commented. "We're all meeting in the middle." For the final project, students performed a play called "All the World's a Stage."

Practice Makes Perfect. Discussing a worksheet for AP French, juniors Drew Jackson and Imogen Pryce and senior Steve Moore put their heads together. "Mrs. Knight did a good job getting us ready for the AP test by giving us weekly practice tests," Drew said. Some students chose to take French 5 before AP, but only French 4 was required.

Far from Speechless. In English Communications, freshman Kyle Anderson gives a speech about comments made at sporting events. "The class helped me build up my confidence for speeches I might give later on," Kyle said. English Communications, which was formed last year to accommodate the block schedule, combined elements from the former speech and English classes required for freshmen.

All that Jazz. At the Talent Show, sophomore Brittany Reilly and junior Dani Owad perform a song from Sister Act. "It all started when we were in Dani's car listening to a mix tape," Brittany commented. "We heard the talent show was coming up and we decided to go for it." The girls' dresses and wigs were part of Dani's old jazz costumes.

Speak Up. After school in the library, senior Kristy Lambe and juniors Kate Madden and Jessica Obergas answer quiz questions for academic challenge. "I like the academic part, of course," Kate said, "but it's all about the food." At the meets, goodies were available, ranging from party-sized pizzas to chocolate chip cookies in bulk.

Pitching In. In a Project Earth meeting, juniors Nick Alteri and Chris Siebert do their part to save the environment. "Project Earth is more than an environmental organization," Nick said. "It is dedicated to improving the lives of its community members as well." The club met every other Thursday in adviser Mr. Sadonick's room before school. Members traveled to Kelley's Island observe the glacial grooves.

Get Involved. Senior Lavente Nagy prepares to answer in Spanish. AP Spanish, taught by Mrs. Harmon, focused on developing fluency skills to prepare for the AP test. Students read stories, including one by C. Suentes. With only four students, the course moved along quickly. In addition to reviewing material in the AP workbook, students studied Mexican dialect & watched movies.

The Wonders of Technology. In Mr. Huntley's Government class, senior Becky Knaggs does research on Web TV. "The way Mr. Huntley ran the class was very well done," Becky said. "We were able to find out that he has pinball on his TV computer."

Every once in a while, something just clicks into place at school: an "A" on the class project, a new best friend, a working computer, a special dance at homecoming, or an answer on a test.

Left, Right, Left. After school, senior Rachel Moore goes to her locker. Rachel's locker was located across from her QRP, which was in Mr. Huntley's room. All students were assigned lockers that were close to their QRP to make things more convenient. Rachel decorated herself with ribbons to celebrate the day before winter break.

Hello? Trying to block out the noise of 3B lunch by plugging her ear while making a phone call, freshman Brittany Romano talks to her friend. Many students used the pay phones near the cafeteria to call home and friends during lunch. Pay phones were located in the hallway outside of the cafeteria and in the gym hallway. However, students were not allowed to enter the gym area, past the bathrooms, during their lunch periods.

Who Am I? In Mr. Huntley's psychology class, seniors take a personality inventory. All seniors were required to take either Contemporary Issues or Psychology with Government. Psychology began with a series of self evaluation tests. Later in the year, they explored the theories of psychologists such as Freud and Jung.

Classroom Relationships. Sophomores Ashley Kohl and Alissa Wulf work together in their family relations class. Alissa and Ashley met through Rockettes and got to know each other better through classes they had together. Many students made friends through extracurricular activities and classes. Although many of these friendships didn't extend beyond school hours, it was a good way to get to know new people.

-B. Thomas

Class Camaraderie. In October seniors got to sleep in for the first half of the day while the underclassmen were taking tests such as the PSAT and the ASVAB. When seniors came in the afternoon, they were measured for caps and gowns. Lauren Diedrich laughs with her classmate Jennine Schurra. As seniors, much of the class grew up together. Over the years, there were a lot of close friendships formed. Jennine Schurra commented, "Amanda Saccany, Lauren Diedrich, Lauren Gribble, and me have gotten really close over the years. We are best friends because we have so much fun together."

-J. Laurence

Cut and paste. Working together in Photo and Computer Graphics class, senior Emily Sebold and sophomore Maria Solomon arrange their pictures. "We got to do almost everything ourselves, like taking and developing our own pictures. It was cool near the end of the semester, because that's when we got to do the most stuff," Maria commented.

Carol of the Bells. Sporting bells, Santa hat, and a wrist brace, senior Joe Cervay starts up the percussion section's rendition of "Sleigh Bells" on Dec. 17, the last day of school before Christmas break. "I'm kind of sad that I won't be able to be a part of the drum line anymore because I'm a senior. We're notorious for making things a little more crazy," said Joe.

Let's Talk About Sax. During the Christmas assembly, junior Paul Ragaller, senior Allison Kocar, sophomore Mark Tobik, and juniors B.J. Wischmeier and Matt Williams, a.k.a. "Sax on the Beach," entertain the rest of the school. "We wore Hawaiian shirts and leis to keep with the theme. I hope people enjoyed the music as much as they liked our title," said B.J.

Toot Your Own Horn. Relaxing in the practice gym, senior Jeff McDonough waits for his chance to perform in the annual Solo and Ensemble contest. Instrumental and vocal students arranged groups, or performed solos for judges to be evaluated and receive a rating. "It was a long day because the judges get behind schedule, but in the end, I got a one and that was cool," said Jeff.

The practices. The extreme heat. The Canton Football Hall of Fame Parade. Being the Brown's fight song, and being a really talented group of people, the band was privileged to go down to Canton this summer and perform in the induction parade at the Football Hall of Fame. After performing, the band traveled to Geauga Lake to spend the rest of the day beating the heat and having fun.

Characterized by drummers showing off and the senior Rockettes and cheerleaders dancing of the track, the third quarter was always full of spirit. However, those days came to an end this season when Rockettes were no longer allowed on the track. "I didn't think we were doing anything wrong because we weren't hurting anyone. The only thing we're guilty of is making people laugh," said senior Jennine Schurra, one of the Rockettes banned from the track.

Everybody run! It's the attack of the Channel 3 Birthday Bear! The fuzzy thing might not have been able to speak or sign any autographs, but it did make all of the band laugh as well as help to make the 5 a.m. trip downtown to perform on television worthwhile. Along with the Birthday Bear was a mini-Shamu dressed in Browns apparel. "The bear was hilarious! All of a sudden it attacked me and I didn't know what to do!" said senior Amy Laing.

BOO! Did the band scare you? Hopefully they didn't scare any of the little kids that paraded around Bay Square and through the city streets during the annual Boo Parade. About 700 children dressed up and trick-or-treated to all of the stores around the square and then paraded with the band down Dover Center. To fit in with all the other clowns and superheroes, band members were encouraged to dress up as well.

Munchies? Check. Walkman? Check. Good shoulder to sleep on? Check. The bus ride to Chicago was eight hours worth of time to catch up on all the sleep lost as a result of the 5:45 am departure. Along with sleeping the most common activities on the ride were eating, watching Empire Records, and trying to get comfortable in extremely cramped spaces. "I think it would be cooler to see more people doing it and I would have loved to do more full-time stuff rather than just a feature, but it was still fun," said Erin. Erin competed nationally with the baton for 12 years and was the first majorette at the high school in 10 years.

Fall Head Over Heels. Imitating Ferris Bueller, sophomores Ashley Kohl, Annie Hronek, Jessica Sterling, and Brooke Alexander admire Lake Michigan from lofty heights on Thanksgiving Day. The band was served breakfast in a circular restaurant with a rotating floor atop a hotel in Chicago before marching in the parade later in the day.

Panties All in a Bunch. Giving examples of illegal and legal forms of underwear, this poster demonstrated to band members what they were advised to wear under their white performing pants. The poster was created by uniform mom, Mrs. Lunoe, in response to band members wearing colorful undergarments that showed through their pants.

Climb on the Bandwagon. Scaling on the Wall of Business at the Chicago Museum of Science and Industry, junior Tessa Dillon successfully reaches the top. Tessa, along with the rest of the marching band, spent an afternoon at the museum upon their arrival in Chicago. "The museum wasn't as fun as I thought it would be, but being in the city was a really good time. It was really warm for Thanksgiving and I kind of wish we could have had more free time to explore the city," said Tessa.

Don't...
BUCKET

What's every Rockette's worst nightmare? Bucketing. To bucket is to lower one's torso towards their leg in order to make their kick look higher which causes the line to become shaky and less consistent. Bucketing is a bad habit punishable by severe criticism if practiced in large quantities.

Don't...
BE LAZY

March heel to toe. High mark time is at the knee. Elbows up at attention. March your spot. Remember your horn angles. Project and never stop smiling! Just a few of the commands shouted constantly at band members and Rockettes to keep them from slacking off and being lazy.

Don't...
TALK

When you get 200 teenagers together, you should expect chatter. All members try to keep their sanity during practice when things get rough, and though instrumentalists don't have the same problem, Rockettes are known to laugh and joke around on the field. What's a kid supposed to do?

Don't...
BE LATE

Fashionably late doesn't cut it when you've got a bus to catch or a five-yard penalty to avoid, as is the case with the marching band. Timing is everything from when to enter a song, when to move, or when to be in tunnel lines. Maybe a watch should be a mandatory part of the uniform.

Golf

A new tradition started for Bay sports with the addition of a girls golf team. Both the girls and boys team, had strong senior leadership. The captains were Chip Sherman and Helene Thoman. The two teams had winning records and therefore qualified for districts. "The teams were young and got off to slow starts, but were able to pull together and produce great records," said Coach Steinhilber.

The varsity boys golf team started the season off slow with a record of 0-5. They picked up their pace and finished the season winning eight of their last ten games. Thanks to their strong finish, the boys had the third best record in the SWC and therefore advanced to the Division II Districts on October 7th. None of the boys progressed to the state championships. "If we would have played to the best of our ability at districts, we would have made it to state," said senior Chip Sherman.

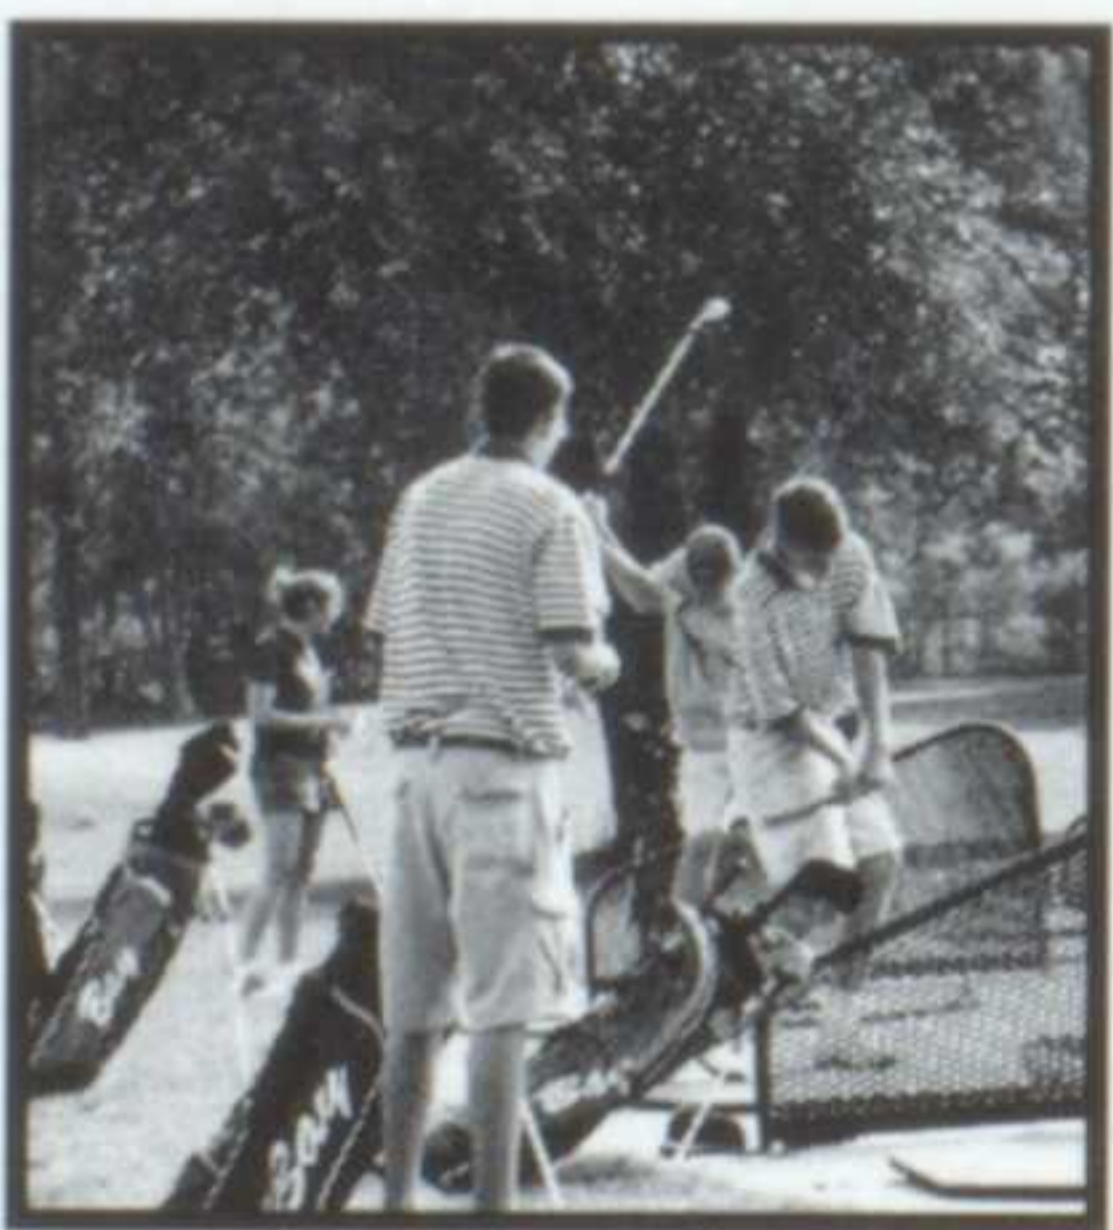

A new team Anne Konchan

In the past there were not enough girls to form an official golf team, but in 1999 there was a school-sponsored team for the first time ever. Before the team was formed, the girls played along side the boys and their scores were recorded on an individual basis. A 13-4 season was the final record for the first girls varsity golf team. On October 4th, they finished fifth out of twelve teams at the district tournament. The team was SWC champions with a 7-0 conference record.

Both the girls and the boys golf teams practiced at Sweetbriar Golf Course in Avon Lake. They practiced from 4:00 until 7:00, Monday through Friday. During their practices, they worked on putting and driving. They also paired up against one another for scrimmages. "This year practicing was like a walk through the park. I had a lot of fun. How could anyone not love golf? It was cool because we all got along really well and worked hard as a team," junior Aaron Roche.

Students and faculty together Mr. Cahoon, Mr. Scott, and Mr. Peters

In the first week of October both the boys and girls teams went out with the faculty for a friendly game of golf. The teachers and the students joined together playing in a scramble format. Faculty member Mr. Peters said, "It was tremendous fun and I hope we can do it again in future years. We definitely want a re-match!"

On October 12 Senior Helene Thoman traveled to Ohio State to compete in the Division II Girls State Tournament. The tournament took place on the 13th and 14th. "I did not play my best the first day because of rain, but I finished the second day with a better round," said Helene. After the final day of competition, she finished the tournament in eighth place. Helene will attend Stetson University in Florida on a golf scholarship.

Swing Away. Leading the first Bay varsity girls golf team to the SWC championship, senior Helene Thoman held the team's lowest score in each match the entire season. She shot her best ever score for nine holes during the season, a 33. During districts she made her second-ever, hole-in-one on a 139-yard par-three hole. This helped her capture the individual district title.

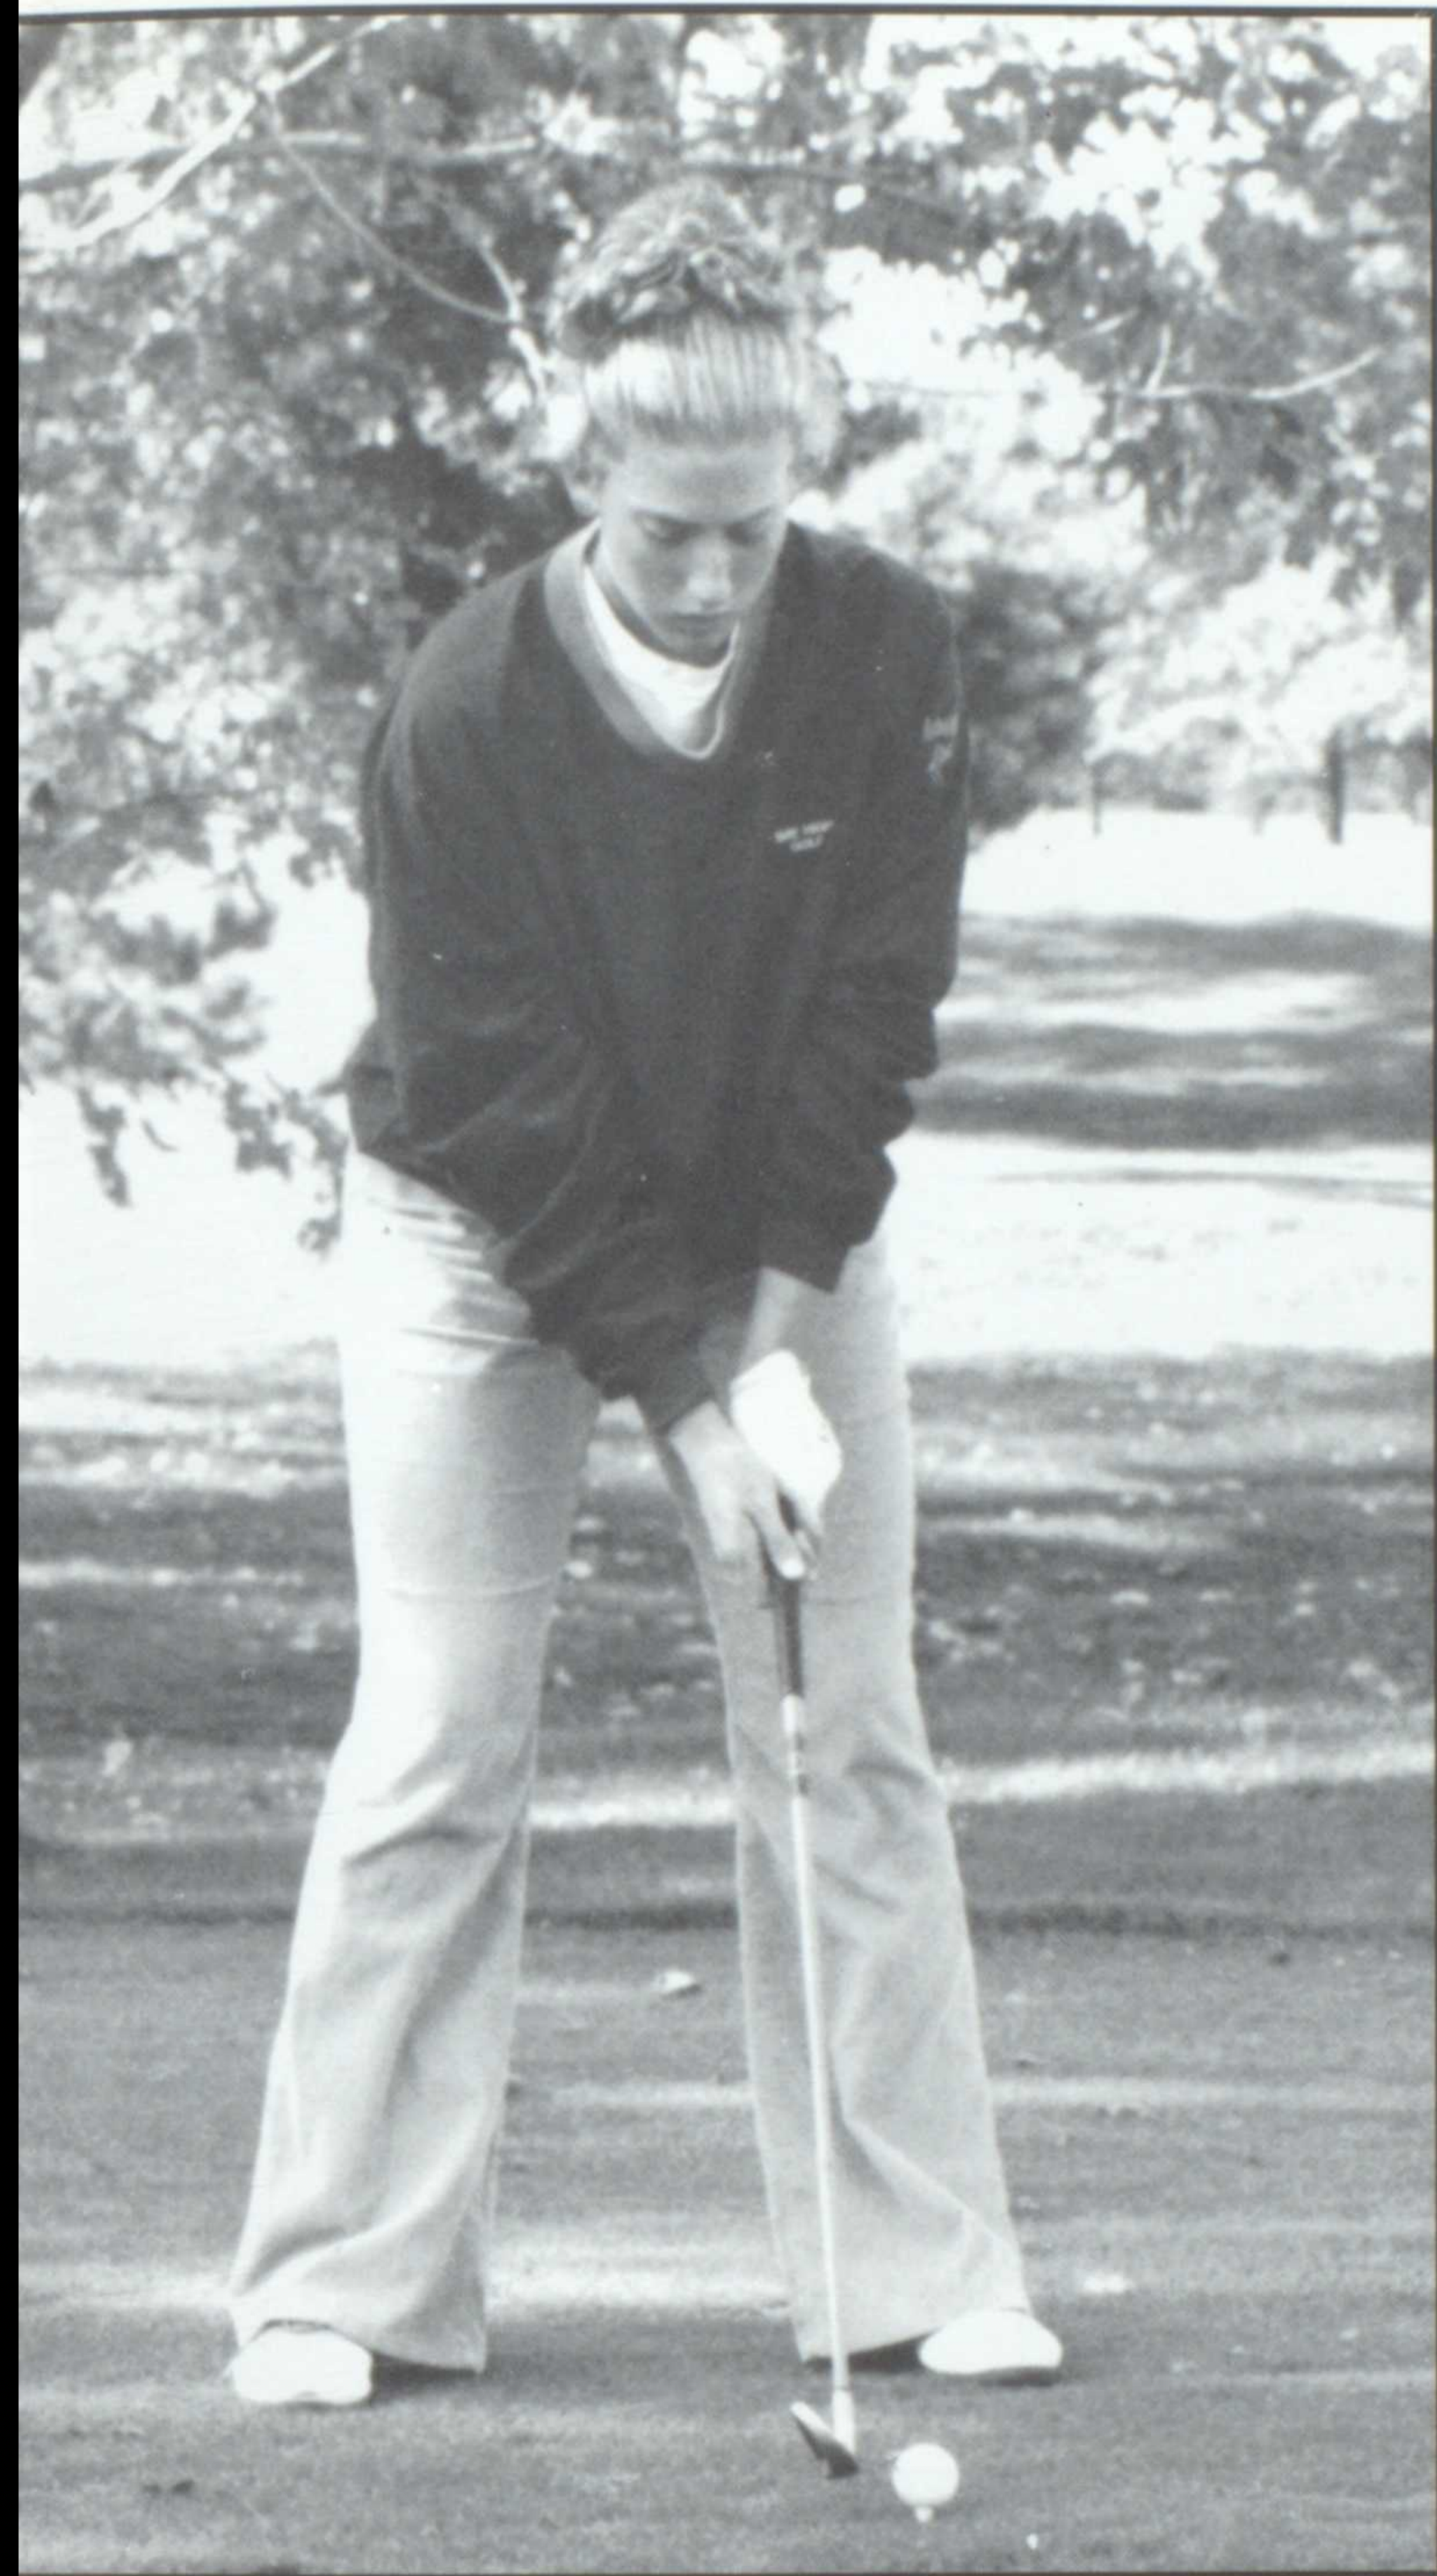

Where did it go? Concentrating on the destination of the ball, sophomore Adam Noll looks forward to where his ball landed. Adam's scores counted in 5 J.V. matches and 2 varsity matches. His average 18 hole score was 94, while his low 9 hole round was 39. He was a medalist in 2 of his J.V. matches.

-K. DiBenedetto

Sink the Putt. During one of the junior varsity matches, junior Justin Priest places the ball over the marker and gets ready to putt. The J.V. boys ended the season with a 2-11 SWC record. They defeated Fairview both times that they played them. Justin was a medalist with the low round at two of their 11 SWC matches. He scored a 40 against Amherst and a 42 against Rocky River.

Watch it Soar. After swinging, junior Brian Zupancic watches as the ball flies through the air. Brian's scores were counted in 13 varsity matches. His average score for 18 holes was 83.3. In addition, Brian was a medalist for varsity during 5 matches. At the conclusion of the season, he was awarded second team All-Conference. "Playing on varsity was fun this year. I felt that by the end of the season everyone had started playing with more confidence," said Brian.

Swat that Ball! During the Rocket's first game against the Rocky River Pirates, junior Jed Purses attempts to control the opening tip. Jed started over half of the games and led the team this season in total number of rebounds. This was Jed's second year on the varsity team.

Hoop it Up! Leading the team onto the court, senior Ken Vana breaks through the hoop. Before all home games, the varsity team ran through a hoop while music blared and the crowd cheered. At each game, a new person led the team onto the floor. The hoops were decorated by the cheerleaders and showed who the opponents were each game.

Take it to the Hoop! Dribbling past the Eagles defender, senior Frank Williams takes the ball down the court. Frank was not only the main ball handler, but also one of the top three scorers for the entire season. Frank had a personal fan-club that came to watch him play at every game; they were from his previous school Lutheran West.

Blocking all Baskets. At a home game against Oberlin, seniors Andrew Knap, Jeremy Martin, and junior Bill Sisto help stop their opponents from scoring. "This year we worked really hard as a team. Our hard work on offense and defense helped us to win eight games. I think all our efforts paid off and by the end of the season we improved greatly," said Bill.

A new coach led the basketball program, bringing with him spirit and the idea of team unity. "Thanks to the hard work of all my coaches, the dedication of my players, and the support of the community, we were able to resuscitate the Bay Village basketball program. I strongly believe that the foundation has been reestablished for a winning tradition at Bay High," said Coach Dave Peters.

As senior Jeremy Martin launches a three-point shot attempt, the crowd, as well as his teammates, watch as the ball swishes through the hoop. During the first game of the season Jeremy broke the school record by draining eleven 3-pointers in one game. Thanks to the eleven shots, he scored his season high with 35 points.

Earning the title "The Bomb Diggity," the girls were sectional champs for the first time in 18 years. "Last year we had a lot of little cliques; this year we all get a long great and that is why we had a winning record of 13-10," said junior Erin Ballentine. Before each game senior Elizabeth Stoops led the team in The Basketball Player's Prayer which helped motivate and focus the team.

Sharp Shooter
Gwen Lindgren

Boxing out after a John Marshall shot attempt, senior Gwen Lindgren prepares to rebound. Gwen played basketball for 10 years, starting in third grade. She was the only starting senior and had the highest free throw percentage on the team. Her percentage throughout the year was 84%. Her average point total per game was 9.6.

Court Commando
Kelly McLaughlin

Dribbling down the court, junior Kelly McLaughlin takes control of the Rocket's offense. This was Kelly's second year playing varsity basketball. "This is the first time in many years that we swept Avon Lake which just proves we are the Bomb Diggity," said Kelly. She started as a guard and had a 77% foul shot percentage.

True Dedication
Kristen Consolo

Taking control of the ball, sophomore Kristen Consolo leads Bay down the floor. This was Kristen's second year playing varsity and the first year that she started at point. Even during the tennis season, Kristen practiced basketball between her tennis matches with teammate Stacey Musacchia.

Fast Break! After a defensive rebound, sophomore Stacey Musacchia breaks away from the Amherst Comet's defenders. Stacey played on varsity her freshman and sophomore year. She started as forward every game. Each game Stacey was put on the opponent's best player because she was considered the team's best defender.

Flying Down the Court! Setting up the offence, junior Erin Ballentine looks to pass the ball to an open teammate. She started as a shooting guard for her second year playing varsity. Erin led the team in rebounds with a total of 163 for the season.

Watching in Awe! Anticipating the rebound of a free throw try, senior Elizabeth Stoops prepares to box out. Elizabeth has played basketball all four years at Bay High. She was one of the only two seniors on the team.

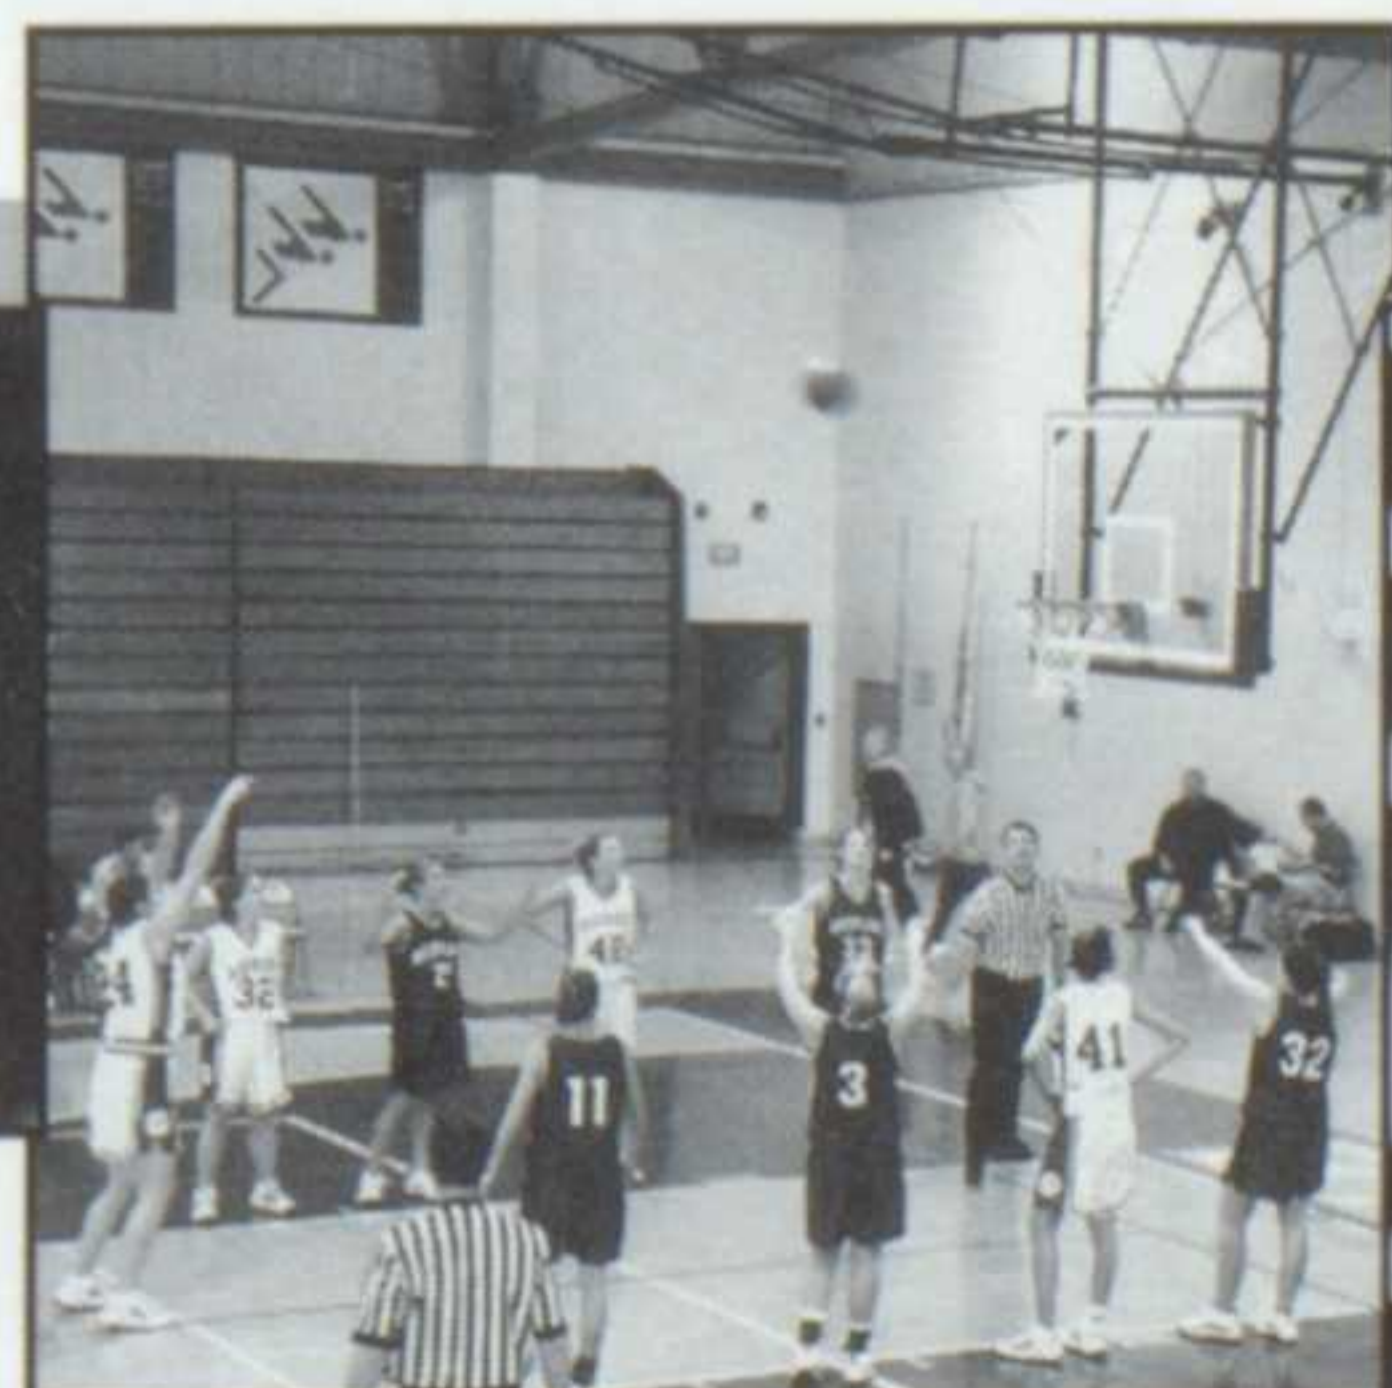

Taking Charge! While blocking a shot attempt, junior Jacqueline Pugliese intimidates her Avon Lake opponent. Jacqueline moved to Bay from Pittsburgh during the summer between her freshman and sophomore year. She was hurt last year and this was her first full season playing for the Rockets. She did not start because she requested not to. Her preference was to come in off the bench.

Celebrate Goodtimes! Team members come off the bench to congratulate the players in the game after a successful play. "This victory against Amherst was very exciting and was important because it boosted our confidence level early in the season and made us realize that we could defeat difficult teams," said senior Gwen Lindgren. Bay won with a final score of 43-35.

Pushing Through. Trying to pass to a teammate, freshman Steven Biefis shoves through the Avon Lake defense. Teammates Rob Wenzel and Andrew Gertz waited to see what Steve would do next. "This was a building year for the freshman. We worked hard and learned a lot. Next year we were hoping to use our skills to better our record and play to our full potential," said freshman Kurt Frederick.

Jump shot. Shooting for two, sophomore Brian Rutt attempts to sink the ball. The team had many close games at the start of the season. "We struggled with offense this year, but if we work together then we should be able to have a better season next year," said sophomore Brian Sisto.

On the Move. During the J.V. girls game against Avon Lake, sophomore Alyssa Wulf dribbles down the floor while keeping her eye on the defender. "We had a rough start to the season, but finished strong and beat some teams that we didn't think we could," said Alyssa.

One on One. Avon Lake tries to stop freshman Katie Parr as she takes the ball into the key. The team practiced 7:30-9:30 Monday through Friday. "We all worked hard in practice and we are all best friends. That makes a difference on the court because you have no doubts about the reliability of all your teammates," said Katie.

Nothing But Net! Watching as sophomore teammate Dan Teichman shoots a foul shot, juniors Drew Jackson, Tom Devito, and Sean Stewart prepare to box out their opponent. "Playing on J.V. was different than last year because there were players from three different grade levels on the team. Even with the diversity in age, we all managed to get along well and work hard together," said Drew.

J.V. & Freshman Basketball

J.V. and Freshman Girls

Of all the basketball teams this season, the freshman girls had the best regular season record of a perfect 15-0. The freshman boys finished their season with a 3-11 record led by a new coach. Almost reaching the .500 mark, the J.V. girls ended the season with a 9-11 record for the regular season. A new coach meant a new start for the J.V. boys team. Overall, the basketball program had many improvements and additions when compared to last season.

Going through his free throw routine, freshman Mark Prendes focuses in on the hoop. The original starters for the team were Kyle Lawrence, Scott Wallace, Bryan (Fuzz) Eaton, Erich Diedrich and Rob Wenzel. "Although we didn't do as well as we expected, it was still a fun and exciting year," said Mark.

With all eyes on the ball, freshman Kristen Martin, Beth Kohring, and Ali Tramba try for a rebound. The girls had a perfect regular season with an undefeated record of 15-0. "We pulled together a great season with teamwork and sportsmanship. We all got along well which made our season not only successful, but also a blast!" said Kristen Martin.

Passing the ball to a teammate, junior Sean Stewart tries to get the ball past the defender. Sean was a regular starter for the J.V. boys team. They finished the season with a 4-15 record. "Based on numbers alone, we were not a successful team, but I think we were a lot better than a record showed. The one thing that I didn't like about the season was the 6 a.m. practices," said Sean.

Intent on the rebound, sophomores Maria Solomon and Tara Hawkins position themselves to take control of the ball. "Our goal for the season was to reach 500. We were a little disappointed because we came so close with a 9-11 record but we knew we had tried our hardest and tried to do the best that we could," said Maria.

Up For Grabs Maria Solomon and Tara Hawkins

Taking the ball up the court, freshman Erich Diedrich anticipates the Avon Lake defense. Erich, along with teammates Bryan (Fuzz) Eaton, and Rob Wenzel played up on J.V. the second half of the season while they continued to play on the freshman team. "I thought that it was a good experience, and I hope that I can use what learned for next year," said Fuzz.

Cross Country

Almost there. Just one more hill. Through the woods one more time and up the hill. I can do this. I just have to stay relaxed and keep passing. That one looks like he's slowing down. I can catch him before I get to the woods if I just pick it up a little. Five quick steps. Only a half mile left now. It's just an 800. I have to start making my move. The crowd is cheering. This is it. This is cross country.

Last Time Around Ryan Hawkins

-M. Teti

In each race, senior Ryan Hawkins rotated between 1st, 2nd, and 3rd man, but no matter where he ran, he gave it 110%. With every year, he ran cross country, his technique and endurance kept improving. "In the state meet I gave it all I had because I knew it was my last race for Bay," Ryan said. He was honored with 2nd team SWC, 1st team District, and All-Ohio Academic team.

Tried and True Andrew Bush

Since the sixth grade, junior Andrew Bush has been a cross country runner. His hard work was rewarded this year when he was named co-captain of the varsity boys team. In addition to training on weekdays and racing on Saturdays, Andrew organized Sunday night runs which continued throughout the season. He earned a place on first team SWC, first team District, and All-Ohio Academic team.

Coming Up Fast Damion Johns

-B. Parr

Making the Varsity team for the last three years, junior Damion Johns has been a vital team member. He came up to the front of the pack by placing in the top ten in almost half of the meets and earning a place on first team All-SWC, first team All-district, and first team All-Regional. The juniors on the varsity team put forth an extra effort to carry on the state meet traditions.

Hanging Tough Jaclyn Boettcher

Junior Jaclyn Boettcher was chosen by her peers to be one of three girls' team captains for the Rockets. Fellow cross country runner Kate Helbig said, "Jackie ran really strong in the beginning of the season and she just kept improving. I think I am speaking for the both of us when I say I can't wait for next year." Jaclyn ended the season on a high note, finishing as second "man" on the girls' team at the regional meet.

Leading the Pack Lisa Hanson

-M. Teti

Front runner sophomore Lisa Hanson was a pleasant surprise for the girls cross country team. She was convinced to try distance running after going to the regional meet as an individual for the 800-meter run in track. Teammates noticed her natural talent early on in the season, but Lisa just kept improving. Her season reached its climax when she won the District meet.

Just Started. The trio of senior Ryan Hawkins, and juniors Andrew Bush, and Damion Johns leads the Rockets to another victory at Galion. "The goal this year," remembered Damion, "was to have fun. Everyone thought we weren't going to be as good as last year's team, who finished eighth in the state." The team played the role of underdog, but became the SWC champ, District champ, and Regional runner-up. At the state meet, the team proved its potential by placing ninth in Division II.

And They're Off! As the girls team battles for position, they sprint through the morning fog at the Cloverleaf meet. "Our season started out strong as we won Perkins, and the first SWC Quad. Then we hit some low points in the middle of the season and at the conference meet, we just plain choked and placed sixth. The District meet was the best race in all my years because even though the weather was terrible and four people fell down, we were able to push through it and win second place." Although the girls advanced to the Regional meet, their ninth place finish failed to qualify them for the State meet.

Liza said, "My goal was to jump 16 foot 6 and qualify for the state tournament." Her best jump was 16' 8 1/2" which was just short of a state tournament berth.

Waiting To Win. At the starting line, senior Jill Saurman waits for the gun. She said, "This was my best season; I really wanted to end my career on a good note so I would be confident in college." Jill placed second in conference and qualified for the district meet.

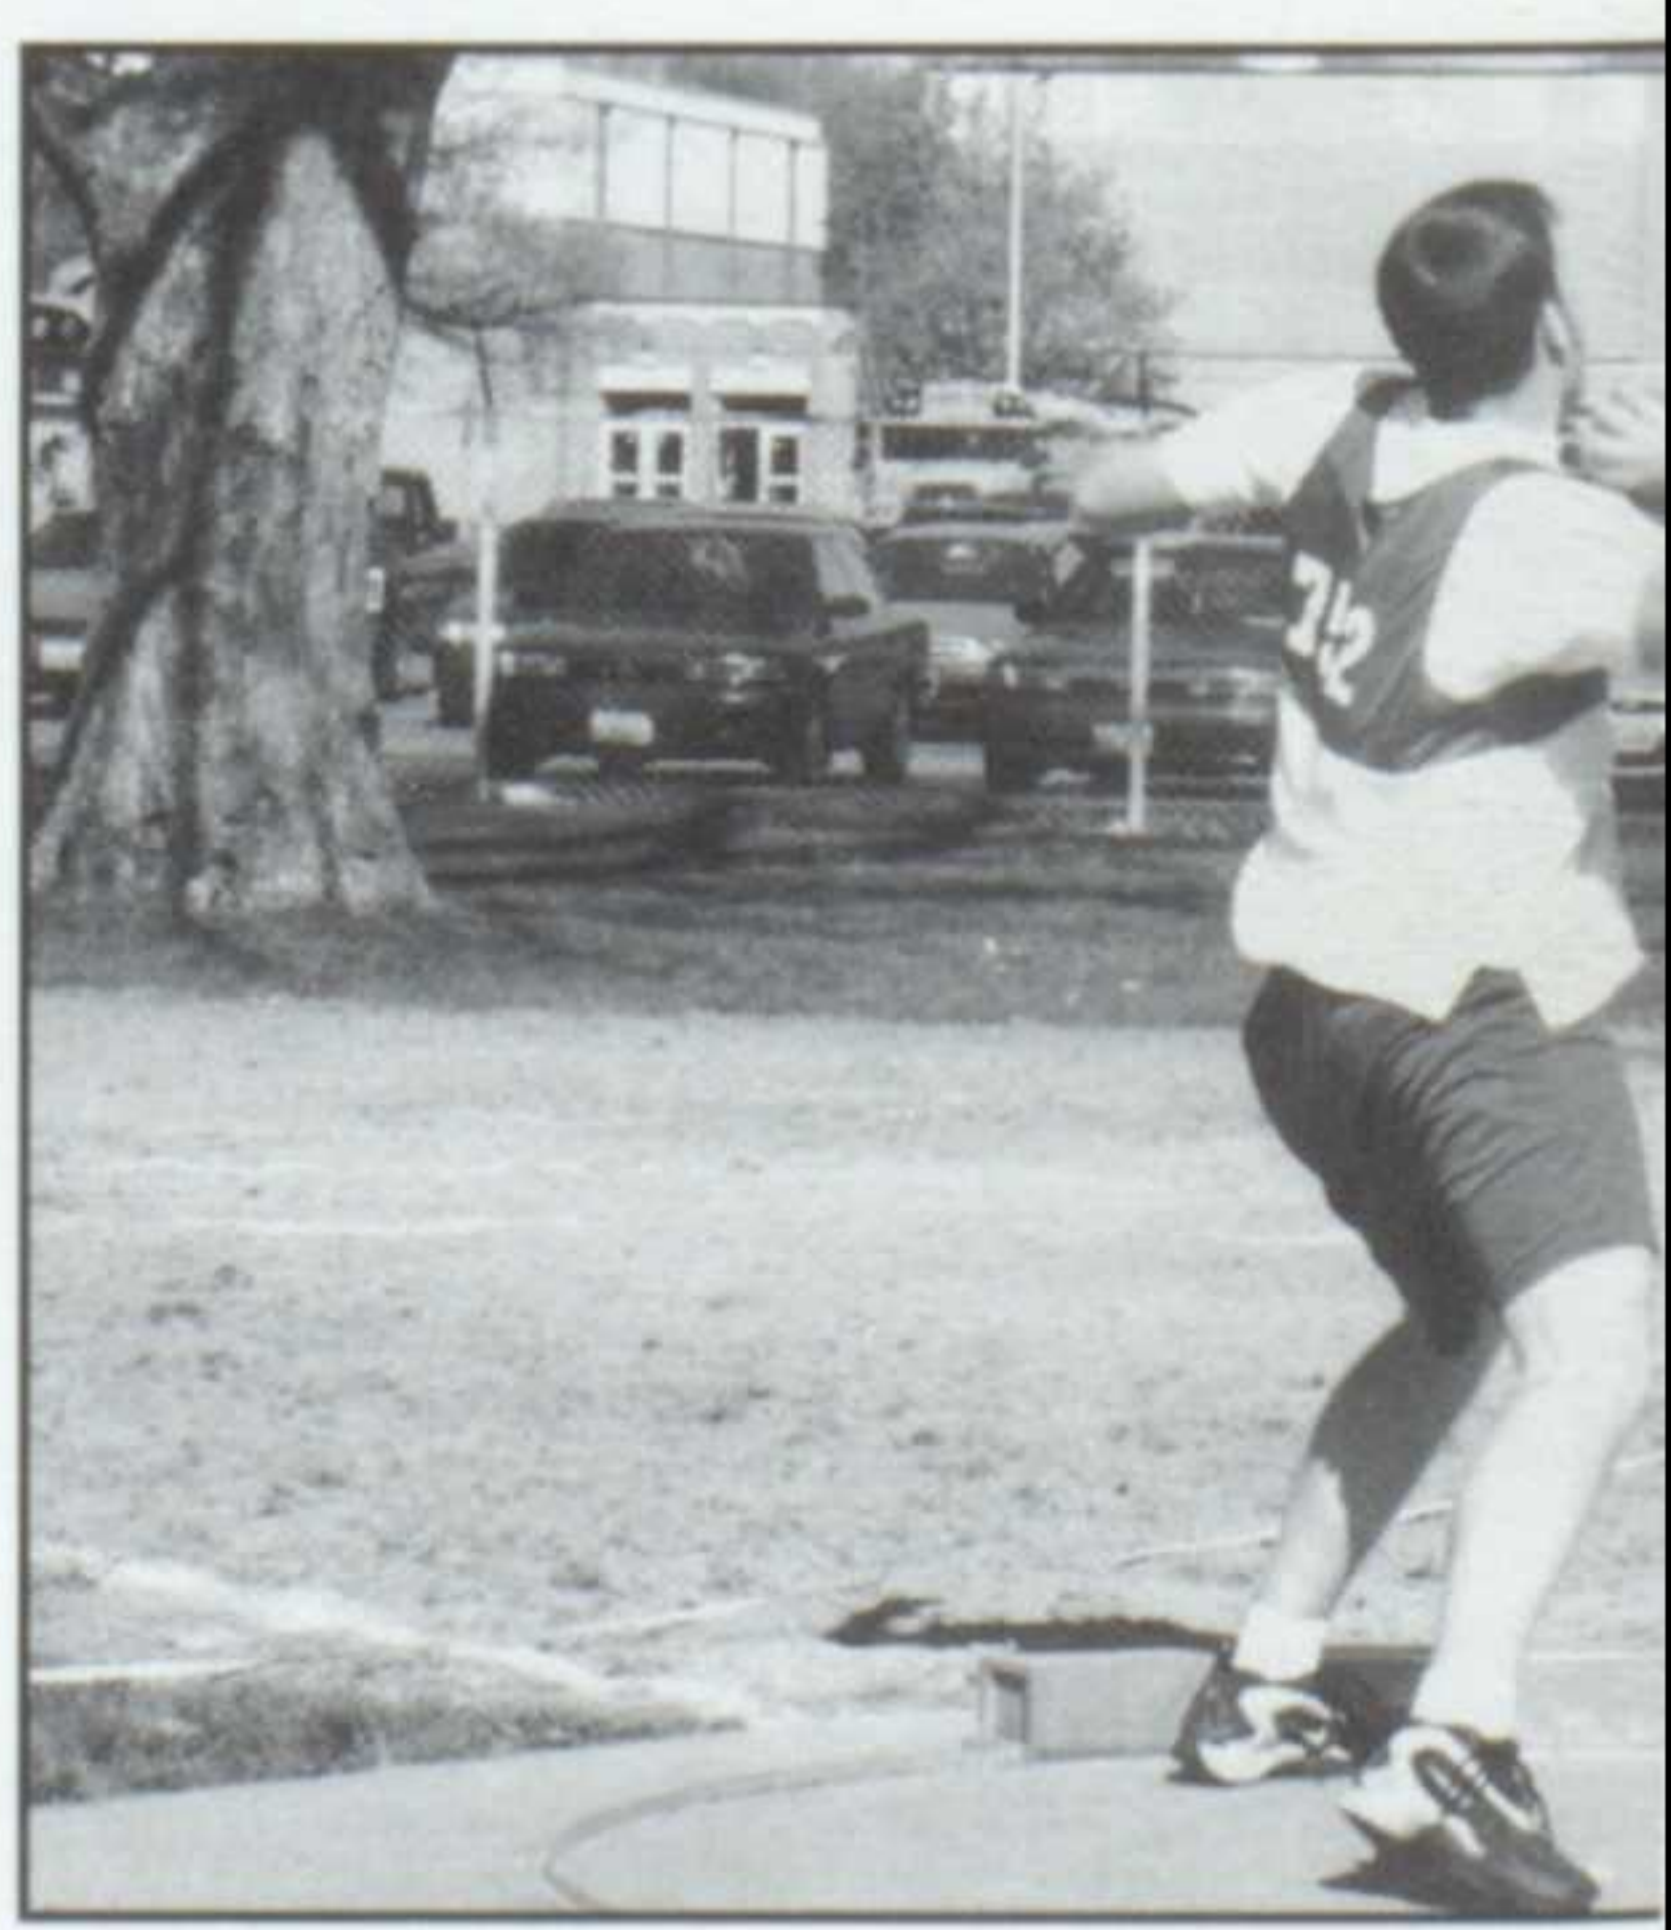

-C. Young

To Your Mark. Just before the event, sophomore Mike Fujka and senior Jeff Solomon contemplate their strategy for the start of the one-mile. Mike said, "I had a lot of fun, but at the end of the season, I pulled out of the last three weeks because of an injury. It was hard because I did not get to compete in the much-anticipated Shep-tathalon!" Mike ran the one-mile, two-mile, and Junior Varsity 4 X 400 meter.

And There Off! With a burst of speed, Junior Ron Rutt and freshman Aaron Gomoll come out of the blocks in the 200-meter event. Ron said, "Since this event is mainly a full sprint, the start is horribly important. That's what I worked on the most."

Swing And Shot. Assuming a begiining stance, junior Dan Pressler begins his shot put toss against Westlake. Dan commented on his form by saying, "Steve Moore and I worked together during the season and helped each other with our form. Both juniors came back for another try at the shot their senior year."

Stick to the plan. "Set...POP!"

As Mason Oatey's senior season rolled around, he had hopes of a state tournament berth in pole vault. He worked on his pole vault in the summer by attending a camp to perfect his take-off. He set his sights on the state meet which was not a stretch because of his performance last year. His practice paid off when he cleared 13 feet, but this was not enough to make it out of the district meet.

Party Time! With their sticks held high, Bay celebrates scoring a goal. "Even though we didn't win any games this season, we kept trying throughout the whole year in an effort to improve. We struggled and plan to work on defense for next season," said junior Nick Hoag.

Face Off. Fighting for the puck, senior A.J. Zilka attempts to take control and lead his team on offense. "We worked very hard, but were unable to beat the Olmsted Falls Bulldogs. It was a tough game and we gave it our all," said A.J.

Standing Guard. In a defensive position, sophomore Peter La Grange waits for the puck to come into the Rocket's zone. Pete played hockey for ten years. "I feel our best all-around game was the last against Valley Forge when we lost only by one goal, 6-7. It was great because we had a lot of fan support. I am looking forward to next year and playing with the upcoming freshmen," said Pete.

Varsity Hockey

Defense • Offense

A good attitude kept the hockey team working hard all season long. The team was led by three senior captains John Ponyicky, Paul Curtiss and Ryan Martin. Each senior played hockey all four years. The team consisted of only eleven players, four seniors, five juniors, and two sophomores.

Skating down the rink, senior captain John Ponyicky takes control of the puck. He grew up playing hockey and plans to play throughout college. John led the team and was leading the league in scoring for a while. He started every game except for the last two when he was removed from the roster.

With a strong defensive effort, senior captain Paul Curtiss keeps the puck from the Bay goal box with the help of the backup defense of junior Jonjason Lawrence and sophomore Jamie Tweddle. Nick Hoag stood in front of the goal preparing to stop the puck if it reached him. "I was glad that I played hockey this year because the team had a lot of good times together," said Jamie.

Glaring at his opponent, senior Paul Curtiss waits for the puck to come to him. Paul started playing hockey at age 5 and has played for 13 years since then. Varsity Football

With strong senior leadership the Rockets finished the season with a 6-4 record. New school records were set in rushing, touchdowns scored by a single player, and consecutive extra points made. Individual talents pulled together to create a winning season. "Our biggest accomplishments were the Fairview and North Olmsted victories. These two achievements helped mold the team. We didn't want the season to ever end," said senior Pat Wise.

The Rockets started their season off 4-0. The first four games produced an outstanding offensive display. The offense scored a total of 153 points during the four games. An equally dynamic defense held their opponents to a total of 35 points. "The offense and defense played excellent and were able to pull together for four victories," said junior Jonathan Komperda.

Seniors Wade Duperow, Dave Long, and Ron Rutt were the captains of the varsity football team. They were voted in by their teammates. Before each game, the team walked out onto the field holding hands, with the captains leading the way. "The captains this year actually became like section leaders because each captain specialized in certain positions. They were great leaders on and off the field," said senior Peter McGrew.

Junior Nate Eaton played varsity kicker and wide receiver. He received recognition as 1st Team Division III All-District Kicker as well as 1st Team All-SWC Kicker. Rockets biggest victory
North Olmsted

Holding their heads high the team celebrates their victory over North Olmsted. This win was a highlight of the Rockets 6-4 season. The seniors finished off the last home game of their careers with a 35-21 win over the Eagles. "I will remember this game the most when looking back at the season. I was thrilled that for our last home game we were able to defeat North Olmsted," said Ron Rutt.

Never Been Crunched! During the game against North Olmsted, senior Dave Long rushed for a nine-yard gain. Dave was recognized as a 1st Team Division III All-Ohio player and Division III All-District Offensive Player of the Year. He also broke three school records during the course of the season. He rushed for 250 yards in a single game, he ran the ball for 1600 yards throughout the entire season, and he scored five touchdowns in one game. "We had a great year. Although we didn't win every game, Coach Kaiser had a philosophy that the other team never beat us, we always beat ourselves or ran out of time. I believe every word of this to be true," said Dave.

Laying the Smack Down. In the first game of the season against Cleveland's Collinwood H.S., senior Steve Green and junior Bill Sisto make a touchdown-saving tackle. Steve had an outstanding 1999 season as defensive back and tight end. He was acknowledged as 1st Team Division III All-District Defensive Back and 2nd Team All-SWC Defensive Back. As a second-year starter, he led the team with five interceptions, eight bat downs and caused four fumbles, which helped the team to win six games.

J.V. and Freshman Football

High spirits kept the Rockets working hard, putting forth one hundred per cent effort during the entire season. Both teams were led by their quarterbacks, junior Phil Galli, and freshman Scott Wallace. Although neither team had a winning season, experience was gained by everyone. "Freshman year was a year for learning. Next year we should be able to step it up," said freshman Tom Sinram.

This unity will carry over to future years."

Aaron Gomoll

In the Rocket's varsity game against Olmsted Falls, sophomore Aaron Gomoll helps stop the Bulldogs offense. Gomoll started at running back and defensive back on the junior varsity team. Like many of the other J.V. starters, he had various opportunities to dress for varsity games. "Starting for J.V. was fun, but what made it even more exciting was when I got to play up to varsity," said Aaron.

With a total of only one victory, the freshman football team struggled. Despite the losses, Coach Peregord and Coach Schneider worked and encouraged the team throughout the season. "After every game our coaches told us we would be a good team someday. We always laughed about it, but now I really hope we will be better next year," said freshman B.J. Johnson.

Avoiding All Contact. Rocky River's defense tries to stop J.V. running back Erik Krause. Sophomore Krause started at running back throughout the season. "J.V. football was a great way to get ready for varsity. Being able to play with people in my grade and with some of my friends was a lot of fun," Erik said.

Can't Touch This. Freshman Erich Diedrich (#45) carries the ball, while his offensive line provides blocks to create a hole in the Bulldogs defense. Erich played tailback and linebacker for the freshman team. "Even though our team record didn't reflect how well we played, we worked really hard as a team and I know for a fact next year we're going to come out on to the field strong and ready to win," said Erich.

Lets get Ready to Rumble! The J.V. Rocket defense takes their place on the line of scrimmage during the game against the Rocky River Pirates. The Pirates took the lead early with a 18-0 score at halftime, but the Rockets were in the game until the end, even though they were not able to pull out a victory. "Although we finished the season with a losing record, it was still a positive experience," said junior John Cousins.

Way to Knock Him Down! With hands raised high, freshman Dan Horvath demonstrates his enthusiasm after making a tackle. This took place during the freshman home game against the Olmsted Falls Bulldogs. Teammate Dan Pell said, "Horvath was the team leader. He led us on and off the field."

As a tri-captain, senior Elizabeth Stoops played the full rotation. In her three years playing for Bay, she set the record for the best passing percentage at Bay High School at 91%. As a result of her continuous effort, she was voted to the second team All-SWC, and also received Honorable Mention for the All-District Team.

In her first year playing varsity, junior Annie Schley was successful as an outside hitter. She hit strong cross-court shots from the outside hitter's position. By staying after practice to work on the placement of her hits, her hitting was significantly improved from last season. Commenting on the season, Annie said, "We had a lot of fun and we tried really hard. We'll get 'em next year!"

Leading the team with her consistent serving and serve reception, junior Kelly McLaughlin played every position on the court. She made the "top two" list for both serve reception with 95% and serving accuracy with 96%. Although she was injured the first part of the season, her hustle and determination to be back in the game was an inspiration to the team.

Volleyball

With only three varsity players returning and a new coaching staff, the varsity team struggled through their conference season. Despite their problems, the team managed to win the North Ridgeville Quad. The JV team also had only three players returning, but they still won seven games. The freshmen were successful in forming a team bond and enjoyed every minute that they spent together. Some of their favorite times were spent dancing to the warm-up tape before games.

They got me so good. I could lift up my feet and just hang there on the pole. They laughed at me and left me there for ten minutes. Luckily I found it just as funny and a good way to get out of practice."

Roll Call. Before each game, each of the player's names is announced. As a tradition, after each name was announced, both teams would give a respectful 'two-claps'. "At one game, it was so cool because not only were all the players on both teams clapping twice, but the parents joined in as well. The gym was filled with synchronized clapping," remembered senior Elizabeth Stoops.

Varsity Girls Soccer

In prior years the girls soccer team could get no further than the regional final game in the playoffs. During the regular season the girls lost two games, one to Strongsville and one to North Olmsted, making their future look grim. However, there was hope when the girls beat Walsh Jesuit in the State semifinals. With pride in their hearts the girls took the field and beat Bexley 2-1, and were named the 1999 Division II Ohio State Champs.

"The night before State Finals, we were all supposed to tell why this game was important to us, to pump us up. It all ended up being pretty emotional. We all realized that this would be the last time we would play together. We all became really sad instead of pumped up and excited for the game. But when tomorrow came we were all ready for the big game," said senior Michelle.

Jeannie Rich

-K. DiBenedetto

"After we lost to Strongsville and North Olmsted, I thought our season was over, but we pulled it together and came back" recalled senior Jeannie of the team's season. Because it was her fourth year playing on varsity and she was very vocal with her teammates, Rich was considered a leader on the field.

Bring it on! Passing the ball, senior Summer Darst moves quickly to avoid the Elyria Catholic opponents. As a result of her hard work, Darst was voted first team all-conference and second team all-greater Cleveland.

Sheer Determination. Focusing, senior Sarah Alexander keeps the ball away from her West Geauga opponent. Scoring all of the goals in the second half, Bay won 3-1. After winning this game, Bay was named regional champions for the first time ever. Known for her determination on the field, Alexander often played with injuries such as two sprained ankles this season. At the end of the season, she was named second team all conference.

Playing Keep-Away. Slide-tackling in the State Championship game, senior Mary Kotinsley kicks the ball away from her opponent. "After winning the Championship, we blared the song 'We are the Champions' out the bus window once we entered Bay. I was surprised to see how fast the message that we had won reached Bay. People were standing outside waving, others were inside their homes flickering their lights on and off. The board in front of City Hall had already been changed to Congratulations to the Bay High Girls Soccer Team," said Mary.

A Round of Applause. Awaiting for their names to be announced before a home game, the team congregates at the sidelines. "When I heard my name over the speakers for the first time I was excited to know I was a part of a team that's so great and unified," said freshmen Angela Sanson. To show their unity, the players wore warm-up shirts to school and power bead bracelets that symbolized success the week before the state finals.

Varsity Boys Soccer

With high expectations for the 1999 season the boys had a bet going that if they reached State, they would shave senior Nick Kleinhenz's head. Nick kept his hair as the team lost the regional final to Hawken 2-1 in double overtime, ending their winning season with the the team's new head coach, Pete Hussey. The team finished their season with a record of 14-5-2.

Team Assist Leader
Danny Speese

Named best defensive player on the team, senior co-captain Danny Speese beats his Rocky River opponent to the ball. With defensive help from Speese and the rest of the team, the Rockets held the Pirates and went on to win 2-1. "To me, the most memorable parts of the season had to be the bus rides and our pregame warm-up," said Danny.

SWC First Team
Brandon Prendes

"It was the toughest season, but also the best season. I will miss the guys on the team so much," said senior Brandon Prendes. Prendes was named to the First Team Greater Cleveland, Division II, all Conference First Team, and the All-Ohio Team. He finished the season with a total of 14 goals, the highest on the team. After the season was over he was named by the coaches to be Bay's Most Valuable Player on the team.

Scholar Athlete
Mike Loufman

Senior co-captain Mike Loufman keeps his Olmsted Falls opponent from scoring. Loufman was named Bay's SWC Scholar Athlete. Looking back on his high school soccer experience Mike Loufman reflected, "Bay High Boys' Soccer has been the most influential organization on me in the high school, teaching me character, the value of hard work, and most of all pride in Bay's tradition, coaches, teammates, and self."

Air Born. Jumping high off the ground senior Brandon Prendes attempts to head the ball before Westlake's goalie can grab it. Bay finished on top defeating their SWC rivals 1-0. Prendes was also named to the All-Ohio team. By playing midfield he was a major part of the teams' defense and offense.

Just For Kicks. Sporting the teams' new home uniform, senior David DiBenedetto shields the ball from his Firelands' defender. Scoring a total of eight goals for the Rockets, DiBenedetto was named to the second team all conference. After the season was over he said, "I was sad to see this season end; I had such a great senior year. My teammates were like family, especially some of the seniors because I have played with most of them since grade school."

Warp Speed. Trying to keep Bay's upper hand in the game, senior Brandon Gibbins juggles the ball in order to beat his Firelands' opponent. Contributing to Bay's 7-0 win over Firelands, Gibbins scored two goals. "Because of our reputation last year, this years team was more focused on improving our public image," said Brandon.

United We Stand. Embracing in triumph after their North Olmsted game, the team celebrates. After being down 0-3 senior Brandon Prendes scored two goals. Then with 14 seconds left senior David DiBenedetto scored to tie the game. Although the game ended up a tie, the Rockets had proven themselves because the Eagles would later become Division I State Champions.

Dribbling Midfield. Controlling the game, sophomore Eric Datko dribbles up the field. "Having the chance to play varsity was my favorite part of soccer. The regional semi-final game against Lakeview was the first time that I went in; the score was 2-0 and I was really nervous. We had a negative mentality going into the game, but we showed that we belonged there by winning," commented Datko.

Work It. Although the freshmen boy's soccer team's overall record was 5-8, they continually worked hard throughout the season to improve and learn new skills. One of the captains, freshmen Bryan Eaton, said, "We practiced hard and were able to have fun at the same time which was good. This season was tough for us, but next year we should be able to stay above 500."

Left-Footed Shooter. Beating her opponent to the ball, sophomore Rachel Zapf focuses on the ball. Rachel often played many positions depending on the opposing teams' strengths and weaknesses. Commenting on her most memorable game Zapf said, "When we played Fairview, it was pouring rain, but we went out strong and I managed to score three goals before it was called off because of the weather. At the rescheduled game, Katie Pell scored her first goal of the season after I crossed it to her. Even though the first game was cancelled, I wasn't that disappointed because I was able to help out Katie."

Keep Away. Shutting down the lady demons freshmen Beth Kohring knocks her opponent off of the ball. After the Rockets scored a goal in the first minute of the game they continued to dominated Westlake. Kohring scored the last goal making the final score 3-0. Since a goal was scored in the first ten minutes of the game the next week they were fed pizza and pop after practice as promised from coach Kaufman. Moving from a defender to a forward prior to the start of the season Kohring finished the season tied for the second most goals on the team.

J.V. & Frosh Soccer

Although behind the scenes, aspiring varsity players work hard to try to prove themselves to the coaching staff. Some of them even have a chance to play for varsity during the regular season and post season. The winning tradition of soccer was upheld by the freshmen and J.V. teams. Within the next few years these athletes will play varsity and get a step closer to their state goal.

As one of the boys J.V. co-captains, sophomore T.J. Russell had the opportunity to play up with the varsity for both regular and post-season games. Staying on the soccer field for back-to-back games was a major time commitment for players. "We had a lot of talent on our team, each player contributing to our winning record. I am already looking forward to playing next year," said T.J.

-K. DiBenedetto

As one of the girls team's co-captains, sophomore Jessica O'Brien was expected to help lead the team to victory. Anchoring the defense, O'Brien rarely left the field. "I think our success this year can be contributed to our hard work at practice. Everyone was expected to perform well even the freshmen. As a captain, I tried to help make the season fun and make J.V. soccer an enjoyable experience for all of the players," said O'Brien.

Defensive Standout
Jessica O'Brien

Playing three sports, sophomore Brian Sisto has to dedicate much of his time to practices and games. An offensive player Sisto scored the most goals on the team with a total of eight. "Mr. Dougherty was an addition to the coaching staff this year and I think that all of the players appreciated him. We worked well with him because he knew how to joke around when he wasn't coaching," said Sisto.

"At the start of the season, I was wondering what I could do to help improve the team from last year, so when coach Kaiden asked me if I wanted to be a captain, I was elated. I knew that being a captain would give me more authority on the field, so I tried my hardest during the season to motivate the team," said sophomore Marie Cervay. After the J.V. season was over, Cervay had the privilege of playing with the varsity for the state tournament.

"By practicing with the varsity and J.V. teams, the freshmen team was able to improve. "The hardest part of the season was the summer because we ran a lot and it was really hot. The tough summer workouts were worth it though when our whole team got to play up on J.V. for the last game of the season against Olmsted Falls. Although we were playing up, we still won 5-1," said Mark Prendes.

Varsity & JV Wrestling

With five duel meet wins and their first SWC win in seven years, Bay wrestlers made a comeback. "The team has been through a lot in the past three years. Three years ago we had five wrestlers, today we have two teams," said senior co-captain Dave DiBenedetto. The team ended their season with a record of 1-7 in the SWC and 5-10 overall. They placed four wrestlers in the SWC Championship and two in the sectional finals.

"The Gomoll" Aaron Gomoll

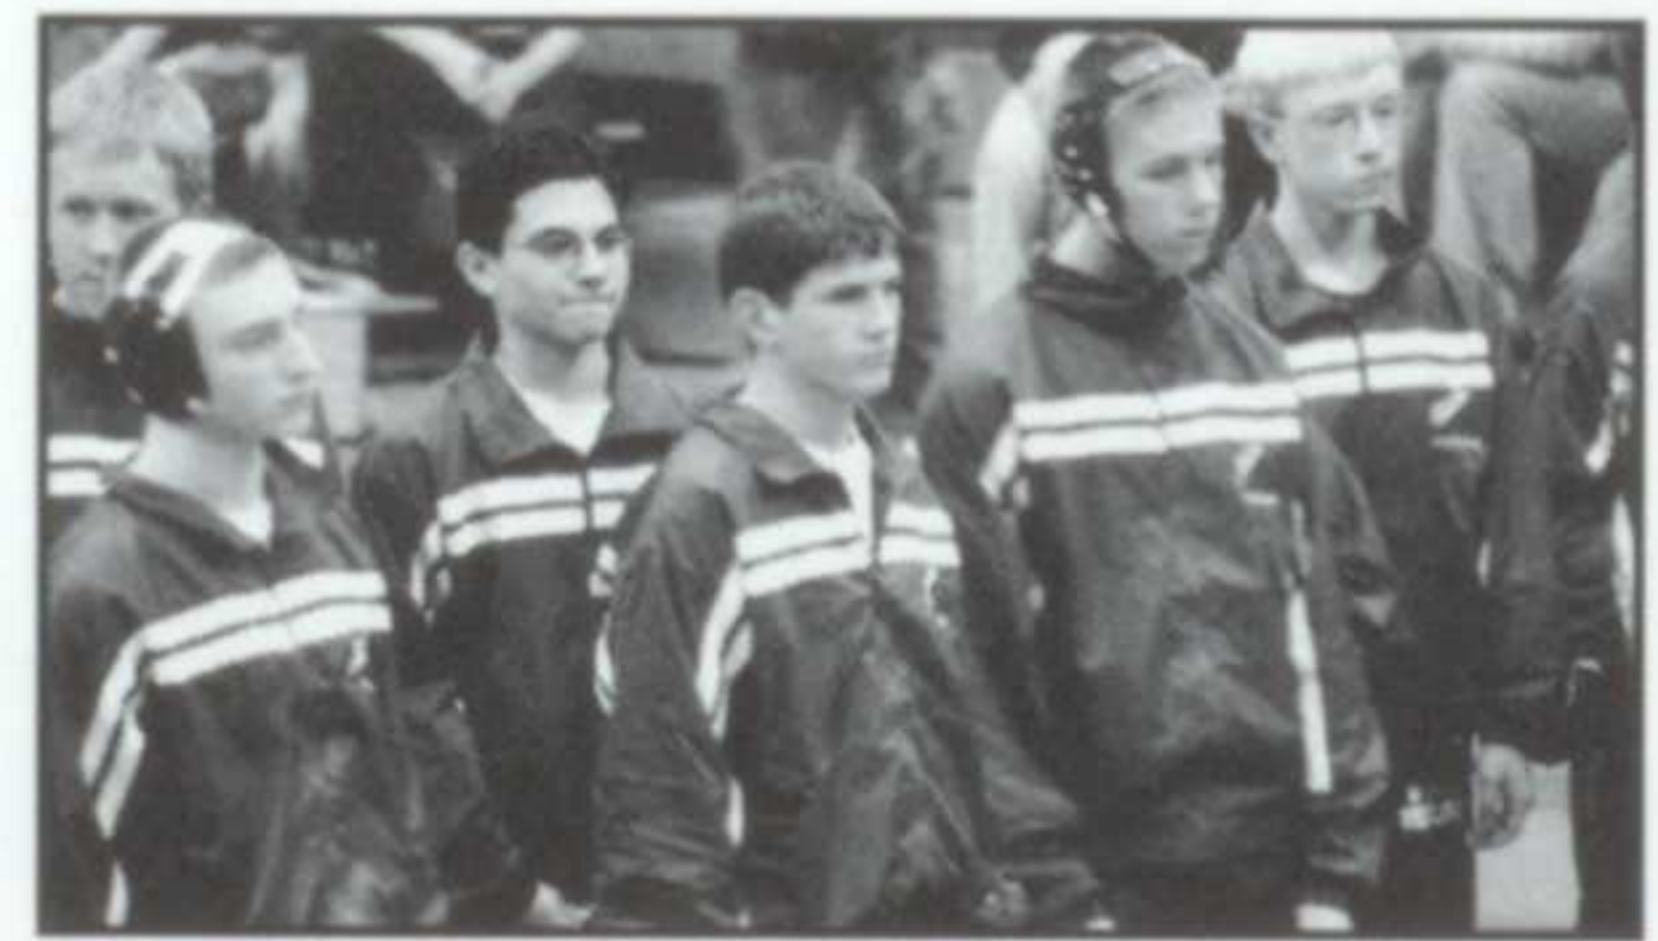

-K. DiBenedetto

Using a unique move that resembles a reverse tilt with his legs around the opponent's head, sophomore Aaron Gomoll (125 lbs.) pins his opponent. Gomoll's move propelled him to a second-place finish in sectional finals. When asked to explain the unique way to pin an opponent, Coach Papouras said to The Cleveland Plain Dealer, "Well, we just call it the Gomoll."

Bigger & Better underclassmen on varsity

As spectators glance over the wrestling line-up, they see an abundance of underclassmen. "Our team is very young with eight wrestling on the varsity level," said sophomore Mike DiBenedetto. Sophomore Kyle Wolfe added, "The team has matured a great deal in the past year. We are looking forward to bigger and better things to happen next year."

-K. DiBenedetto

Up & Over John Glase

-K. DiBenedetto

With total control over his opponent, junior John Glase (103 lbs.) upends his opponent during the Lutheran West Tournament. At this meet, Glase captured first place. Training in the off-season helped to prepare him for the regular season. John ended up third in his weight class in the SWC championship and was 18-13 overall for the season.

Taking Charge Mark Tobik

In a match against Amherst, sophomore Mark Tobik takes the upperhand. Mark wrestled on JV in the 130 pound weight class all season. "Wrestling is fun as well as a good work-out. It is probably the hardest sport the high school offers. It requires a lot of hard work. Next year we will have a stronger team because there will be more upperclassmen," Mark said.

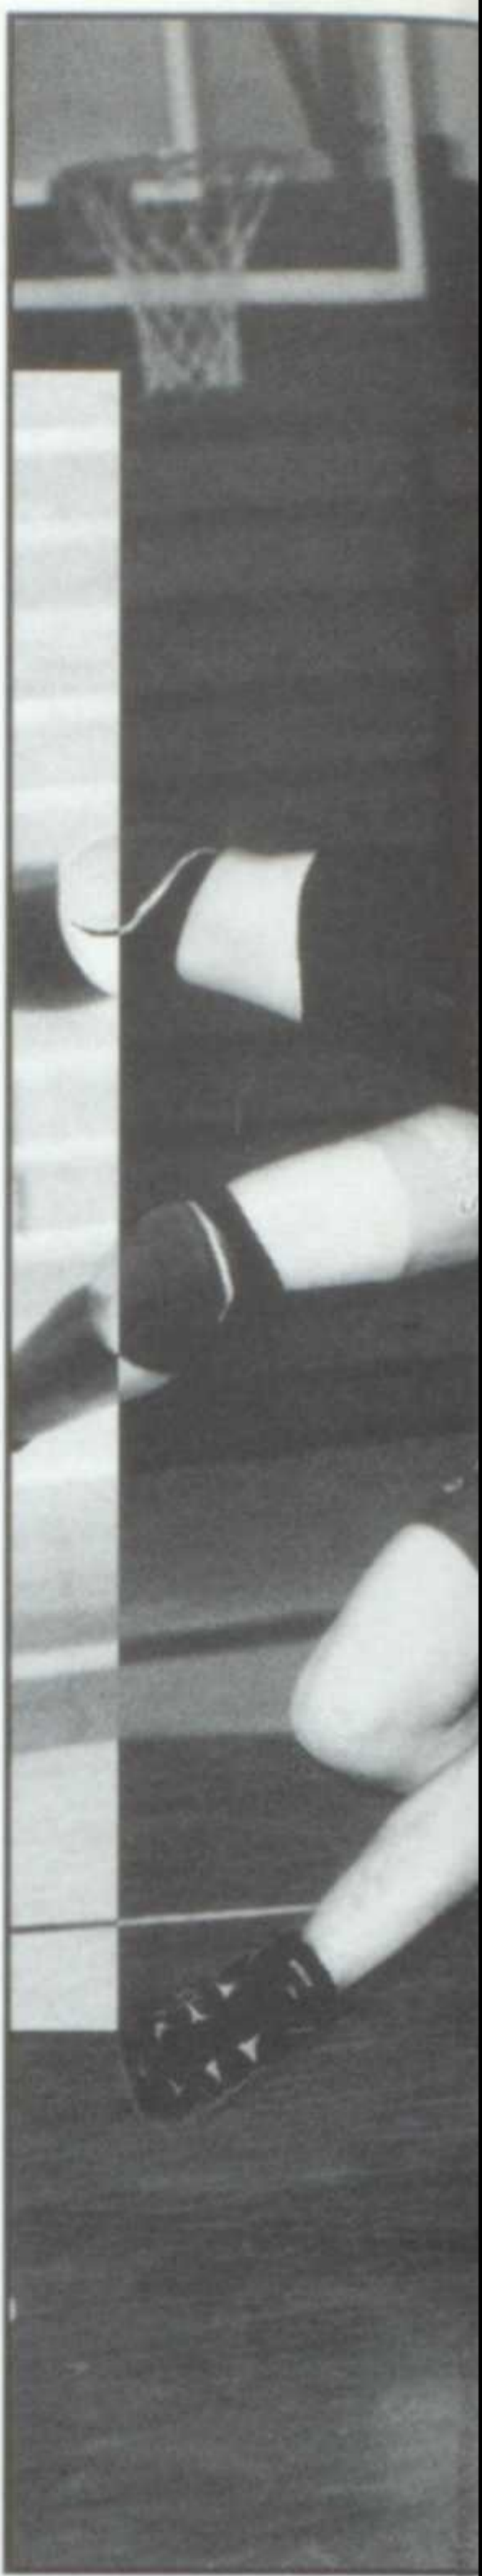

-K. DiBenedetto

Eye to Eye Tim Williams

-K. DiBenedetto

During an SWC duel meet, sophomore Tim Williams (152 lbs.) stares down his Fairview opponent. "The coaches kept us going, but made it fun at the same time," Tim said. He attributed his success to the tough work-outs. Tim took first place in the SWC Junior Varsity Tournament.

No Mercy. With a slam against the mat and an eventual pin, senior Dave DiBenedetto (130 lbs.) mauls his Amherst opponent. Dave, who was a four-year letterman and a three-year captain helped to lead the team with co-captain Aaron Gomoll. Dave took a third in the SWC meet and had an overall record of 21-13.

-K. DiBenedetto

-K. DiBenedetto

Never Back Down. Known for his come-from-behind victories, sophomore Keith Rogers (215 lbs.), takes another one down in the final moments of a match. Keith had been down by as many as 10 points and ended up pinning his opponent. "When you're so far behind, you have nothing to lose. So you never back down and just go for it all," said Keith.

Pins & Needles. Just a few more inches are needed as Jon Stan (112 lbs.) goes for a pin. "It was a slow start, but then things turned around, said Jon. Jon took second place in the SWC Championships, fourth place in sectionals, and had an overall record of 16-11.

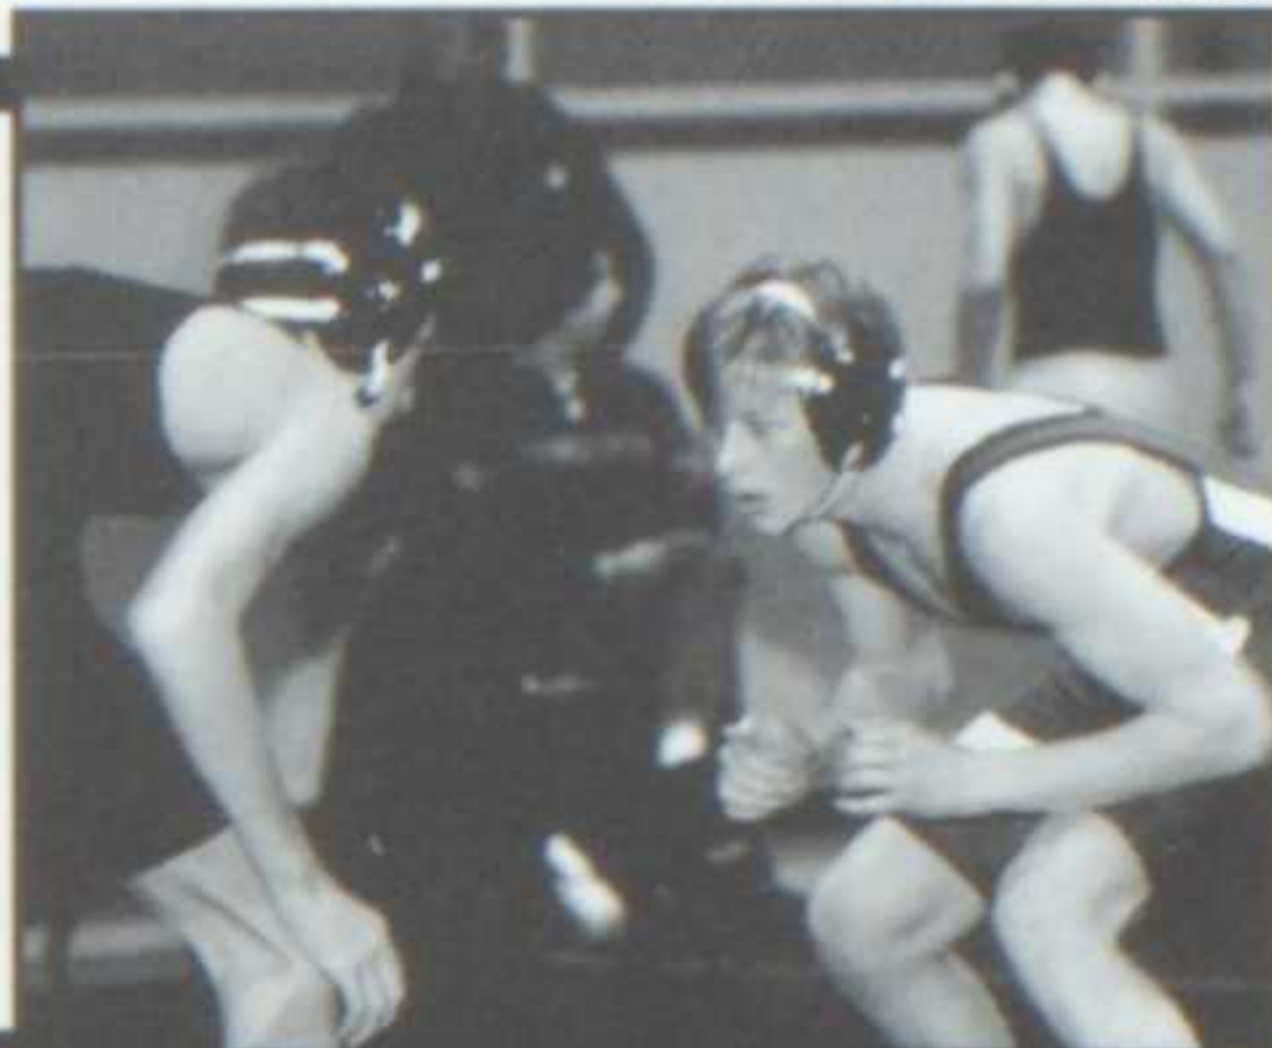

Crushing Power. Demonstrating his unique form, sophomore Aaron Gomoll takes down his opponent. As the team stand-out, Aaron Gomoll entered a number of team tournaments and placed first. His biggest win, however, was a first place at the SWC Championships. He also took a second place in sectionals. His overall record was 25-5. Despite his strong individual success, Aaron reflected on the team as a whole. He said, "Everyone grew with each match and progressively got better."

Key to Winning. The team lines up before a meet. Dave DiBenedetto commented, "The team is more of a team now. Before, it used to be everybody for themselves. Now everyone is learning. Every year since Coach Papouras took over, we have won more. The first year he was here we won one match. The next year we won two or three and this year we won five. Because we ran so much, we were in better shape than most of our opponents and we were able to last longer."

Boys & Girls Tennis

Great girls tennis teams have always been a tradition at Bay High, but for the first time ever, they drew fans. For their home match against Westlake, over 75 people crowded around the fences in support. This spring the boys picked up the slack and also attracted many spectators. There seemed to be a dynasty developing right before our eyes as tennis became a genuine spectator sport.

Boys Tennis • Girls Tennis

First Singles Lara Maurer

-K. DiBenedetto

Dominating play at first singles, Lara was a surprise to everybody except herself. Many times during the year a spectator would walk by and say, "Who is that blonde ripping the cover of the ball?" Lara was a huge hit in the conference and she gave credit to running after matches and playing with her pro three times a week. She was named to the Plain Dealer All Stars, SWC MVP, All-Star team, and the All-Ohio first team.

First Singles Scott Wilson

Scott Wilson's tennis season could be best summed up as a trial by fire. As a sophomore, he competed against mostly seniors. Scott commented, "It was challenging, but at the same time beneficial in the long run. The highlight of my season was beating a nationally ranked player!" He played tough all season long and finished the season fifth in the conference.

-K. DiBenedetto

First Doubles Aaron Gress & Paul Nelson

-K. DiBenedetto

Originally, Mrs. Duckworth started the season with Paul at first singles and Aaron at first doubles with freshmen Neal Sahney. After three straight losses, she paired Aaron and Paul together and 15 straight wins followed. The streak was halted in the third round of sectional play with a close 4-6, 6-2, 4-6 loss to Elyria Catholic. The pair accumulated All-SWC and Plain Dealer Players of the Week honors.

First Doubles Kristina Maurer & Connie Lohmann

At first doubles, Kristina and Connie, both juniors, won the conference championships. From the beginning Kristina said, "I had a hunch the we were going to be good because we both had a lot of experience. When we started the season, communication was a little rough, but by the end of the season she had taught me all the German words I needed to know." Kristina earned the sportsmanship award and together they earned All-SWC honors.

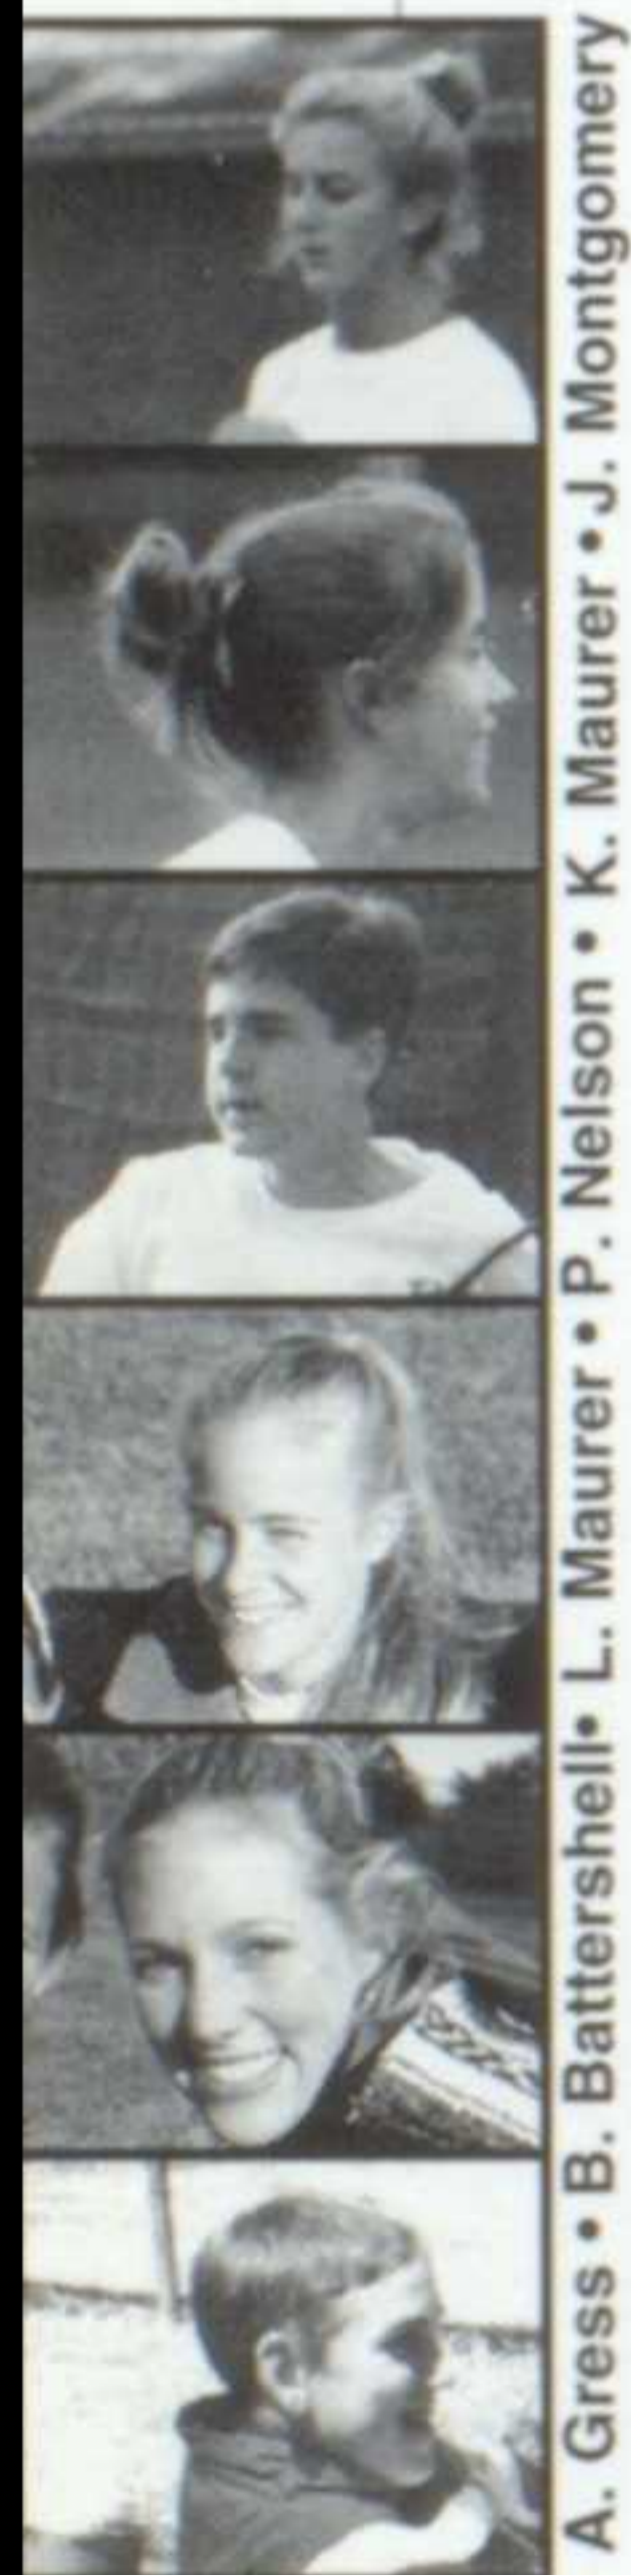

-K. DiBenedetto

Second Singles Julie Montgomery

-K. DiBenedetto

By the skin of her teeth, Julie Montgomery played the entire season with many of her matches coming down to the third set. She competed at second singles for the third straight year, but she said, "It was no big deal, as long as I can help out the team, I would play anywhere." Julie's dedication was awarded with an All-SWC second team award.

Freshmen Phenom. Lara Maurer took the conference by storm. Her biggest weapon was a backhand that she could place anywhere on the court. Lara commented on her first experience of high school tennis by saying, "The whole season was so much fun! Mr. Huntley was a good coach because he was there when I just needed someone to talk to." Her 28-2 record carried her to the State tournament where she placed eighth. Lara said, "I was able to play my best tennis even though my stomach was in a knot."

Bay Bomber. Sophomore Aaron Gress practices his serve. He became known around the SWC for a dominating first serve. As a freshmen playing first doubles with Krag Klages, he accumulated 48 aces. In his sophomore year, he changed his first serve to a kick serve in order to increase his accuracy. He said, "I learned in the off-season that when playing doubles, the more first serves that you make, the more likely you are to win the point."

Catching Up. Connie Lohmann is a foreign exchange student who was hosted by the Maurer family. In Germany Connie played in tournaments with her private tennis club. Comparing that to high school tennis she said, "High school tennis has more team unity which makes it more fun." Connie teamed up with Kristina and they blasted all the way to the district tournament. Connie added, "At first I didn't really know what that meant, but everybody made a big deal about it!" Connie's career at Bay was only one season, but she made a lasting impression.

Last year's varsity baseball team, coach Cook's last after twenty-six successful seasons, struggled for the most of the season. Highlights included consecutive victories over Division I programs John Marshall and Strongsville, as well as a 20-8 victory over SWC rival Fairview. The biggest thrill came on the last day of the year, when the Rockets defeated traditionally strong Olmsted Falls by a score of 7-5. This, Coach Cook's 437th career victory, was truly a great send-off to a coach who gave us so many great moments over his career.

Batters Up. Sophomores T.J. Russell, and Tom Parker run off the field to have their turn at bat. "On and off the field, we always had fun. When we sat on the bench we had sunflower seed spitting contests," said Russell.

Takin' A Breather. Nate Eaton and Bill Sisto sit in the dugout of Jacob's Field waiting to bat. "We had a lot of fun making fun of "Brew Crew" (Coach Brewer)," said Nate Eaton. "I would have to say that most best season I ever played was Coach Cook's last year," said junior Bill Sisto.

Practice Makes Perfect! Practicing with a teammate, senior Pat Sedlak plays catch as a warm-up. "One day Coach Cook called us over for a pep talk, but instead of a pep talk, he showed he acquired a new set of golf clubs. We were all a little confused," said Pat.

Pitchin' Heat. Evan Kauker was one of four seniors who contributed to the Rockets pitchers. "I liked playing for Coach Cook in his last season for Bay. He was a great coach, and he knew a lot about the game. He taught me a lot," said senior Evan Kauker. Evan played all four years and spent three years under Coach Cook's guidance.

Up To Bat. Batting in the tournament, sophomore Bill Kotinsley takes his stance to prepare himself for the pitch. Bill was only the fourth player in Bay history to earn a varsity letter as a freshman.

-K DiBenedetto

Ricky Todd applies ice to his arm, as all pitchers must do after they complete an outing. "Playing for varsity was a new experience, because I was up against guys bigger than me. I was intimidated a little, but I knew I was good enough because they picked me to pitch on varsity. It was definitely a good experience," said sophomore Ricky Todd. The 1999 season was Todd's first year of playing baseball at the high school level.

Standing on the pitchers mound at Jacob's Field, junior Johnathon Komperda pitches. "Knowing that I was playing on the field where some of the greatest baseball players played was awesome. I felt the need to play my best. There was also the realization that I would never play there again that made it strange," said Johnathon Komperda.

"It was an awesome experience to play at Jacob's Field. Not a lot of kids our age get to play in a professional stadium, so that's what made it special. It was also exciting to play on the same field as our heroes," said Taylor Strang. Strang had an eighty percent stolen base percentage which rivaled the Indian's Kenny Lofton's percentage.

Fast Ball. Pitching was limited on the varsity softball team, so senior Beth Wilson stepped up to lead the team. She pitched 128 innings through the course of the season. This was substantially more than any other player on the team. Of the teams for seven wins, Wilson was responsible for six. With 114 strikeouts at the completion of the season, she joined eleven other pitchers in the elite club of those with over 100 strikeouts in one season. In addition, she managed to walk only 14 batters.

Not only did Wilson prove to be a strong pitcher, but she also provided solid offense with her batting by having the highest average on the team. After the season was over, she was honored with the Don Chadwick award for her playing, sportsmanship, and positive influence to the school and community. Commenting on the season Wilson said, "Getting to sectionals showed that we were definitely a playoff team. Everything came together well and we were psyched up for all of the games."

Break Time. Playing in a round robin tournament at Firelands, an exhausted varsity softball team relaxes to eat a provided lunch. The team placed third out of four teams in the one-day tournament. "It was tough playing three games in a row in the heat," said Kelly McLaughlin.

Pre Game Ritual. Before each softball game, the team would congregate on the pitching mound. The infielders would yell, "three up" and the outfielders would in response yell, "three down." This tradition helped pump the players up before the game.

Varsity Softball Team

With an entirely new coaching staff change was inevitable for the whole softball program. Despite losses early in the season, the team worked on basic skills and overcame a mid-season slump to beat teams that Bay had lost to earlier in the season. The end result was an improved final record.

Defensive Standout Chrissie Check

-M. Lunoe

Starting catcher, junior Chrissie Check, had strong defensive skills, committing only two errors while behind the plate. Being honorable mention all conference, Check was also given the team's glove award despite the fact that the new head coach also happened to be her dad. She commented, "It wasn't strange having my dad as a coach. It has been that way ever since I started playing. It just gets annoying when people think that I know everything about softball just because my dad's the coach."

Catching Them All Jodi Schneider

-R. Schneider

"Improving as the season went on, we still had problems playing well, so we found ways to have spirit and fun both on and off the field. We even gave a Beans, Butter, Cake, and Cheese award after each game," said junior Jodi Schneider. Starting as JV catcher, Schneider got to move up to varsity for a tournament in order to gain experience. The second highest batting average on the team and the most hits proved that she was also a strong hitter.

"Only playing fastpitch in the rec league, I was not sure what to expect from high school softball. I ended up being pleasantly surprised by the experience, especially when I got to pitch. Since most of us were already good friends outside of freshmen softball, we were able to work well together and have fun. Our record ended up being a winning one," said sophomore Mary Beth Stark.

Guarding the Line Elissa Wilk

"With eighteen girls on the JV team, we were able to have full scrimmages against each other for practice. On the negative side that also meant less playing time for everyone. We all really wanted to do better than our previous season so we worked hard. Winning our first game helped us gain confidence. As the season progressed, we slumped a bit, but by the end of the season, we were able to pull together and beat teams who we had lost to previously," said junior Elissa Wilk.

Prepare to Get Wet! Diving at the Fairview meet, sophomore Halle Dillon anticipates her first dive attempt. This was Halle's second year diving and she competed at all the meets.

Dripping Wet! Gliding across the water, junior Liza Hollo works on her kicking technique. Liza was one of the two girls who made it to districts individually. She swam in the 50-free style event. "I was very disappointed to miss state qualifications by three tenths of a second, but now I am joining a year round swim club because I am even more determined to go to state my senior year," said Liza.

Boy's Team & Girl's Team

Freshman Jamie Gomoll said, "Determination and a lot of hard work helped us become a stronger and more dedicated team." The boys swim team won two meets this year while the girls won four. Whether they won or lost, the team got together for a potluck after each meet.

Before each swim meet, both teams line up on either side of the pool to sing the national anthem. The team was divided into a girls and boys team. Both the boys and the girls had their meets together at the same place and against the same school. The scores for the teams were not combined; the girls had a separate total score from the boys. The diving scores were added with the different swim scores.

As Chrissie finishes another 200-meter relay, the girls take another first-place finish. The relay was made up of four girls: Liza Hollo, Kerrie Johnson, Emma Lavish, and Chrissie Check. The girls each swam two laps for the 200 and four laps for the 400-meter relay. "This was a great year for our relay team," said junior Chrissie Check, "We worked hard and broke the school record at the district meet."

"Diving is very enjoyable for me because I get to focus on it and forget about all the stress in my life for a couple hours each day," said senior Julie James. Julie dove for four years at Bay High School and practiced for three years at Cleveland State natatorium. While diving, she broke two pool records, one at and the other at Westlake. Her best score was at Midpark when she received a 273.975. In the state meet she placed fifth.

Dry Those Crying Eyes. On June 7, 1999 graduate Khaylen Kingsley secures graduate Megan Rich's cap before graduation. That day marked the official departure of 210 of Bay High's best along with 3 teachers and principal Joe Loomis at the 73rd annual Commencement Ceremony. Brief speeches made by graduates Marah Eakin and Mason Oatey were appreciated by the crowd whose eyes flooded with tears and faces dripped with sweat because of the day's stifling heat. Retiring staff members Ted Siller, Dale Thomas, and Kathleen Sands announced the names of the graduates as they made their way across the stage to accept their diplomas. A short speech was also made by superintendent Denny Woods honoring retiring principal, Joe Loomis.

Splishin' and Splashin'. Flying through the air, junior Paul Ragaller anticipates a cool dunk in the water at Bay Pool. Paul worked as a lifeguard during the summer. In order to get the job, which paid six dollars an hour, a person had to take certification classes. The classes ran for six weeks, four hours a week, and could be taken at the local YMCA or the Westlake Recreation Center. Many students also spent their time during the summer working at Avon Oaks Country Club, either as a hostess, busboy, or lifeguard. "One day Gwen Lindgren wasn't there to show me how to clean the ice cream dispenser so when I tried to do it myself, ice cream went all of the floor and made a huge mess. My manager, Mr. Wingle, got really mad at me," said junior Liza Hollo.

The warm October weather found junior Justin Priest and sophomores Pat Corrigan and Steve McAdams taking creek samples as usual for their fourth block Environmental Science class. On one particular afternoon, however, the three guys stumbled upon an unexpected and seemingly unusual form of wildlife.

The next day the boys returned to the scene, this time equipped with flashlights and a camera to try and find the animal and get proof at their discovery. "We made a huge deal about it in a class, but it turned out to be just a normal carp. I think we actually did get people to believe that we had actually found something cool," said Justin. Even though the discovery turned out to be a hoax, the boys still named the fish Emilious Fortifuss just because it sounded cool.

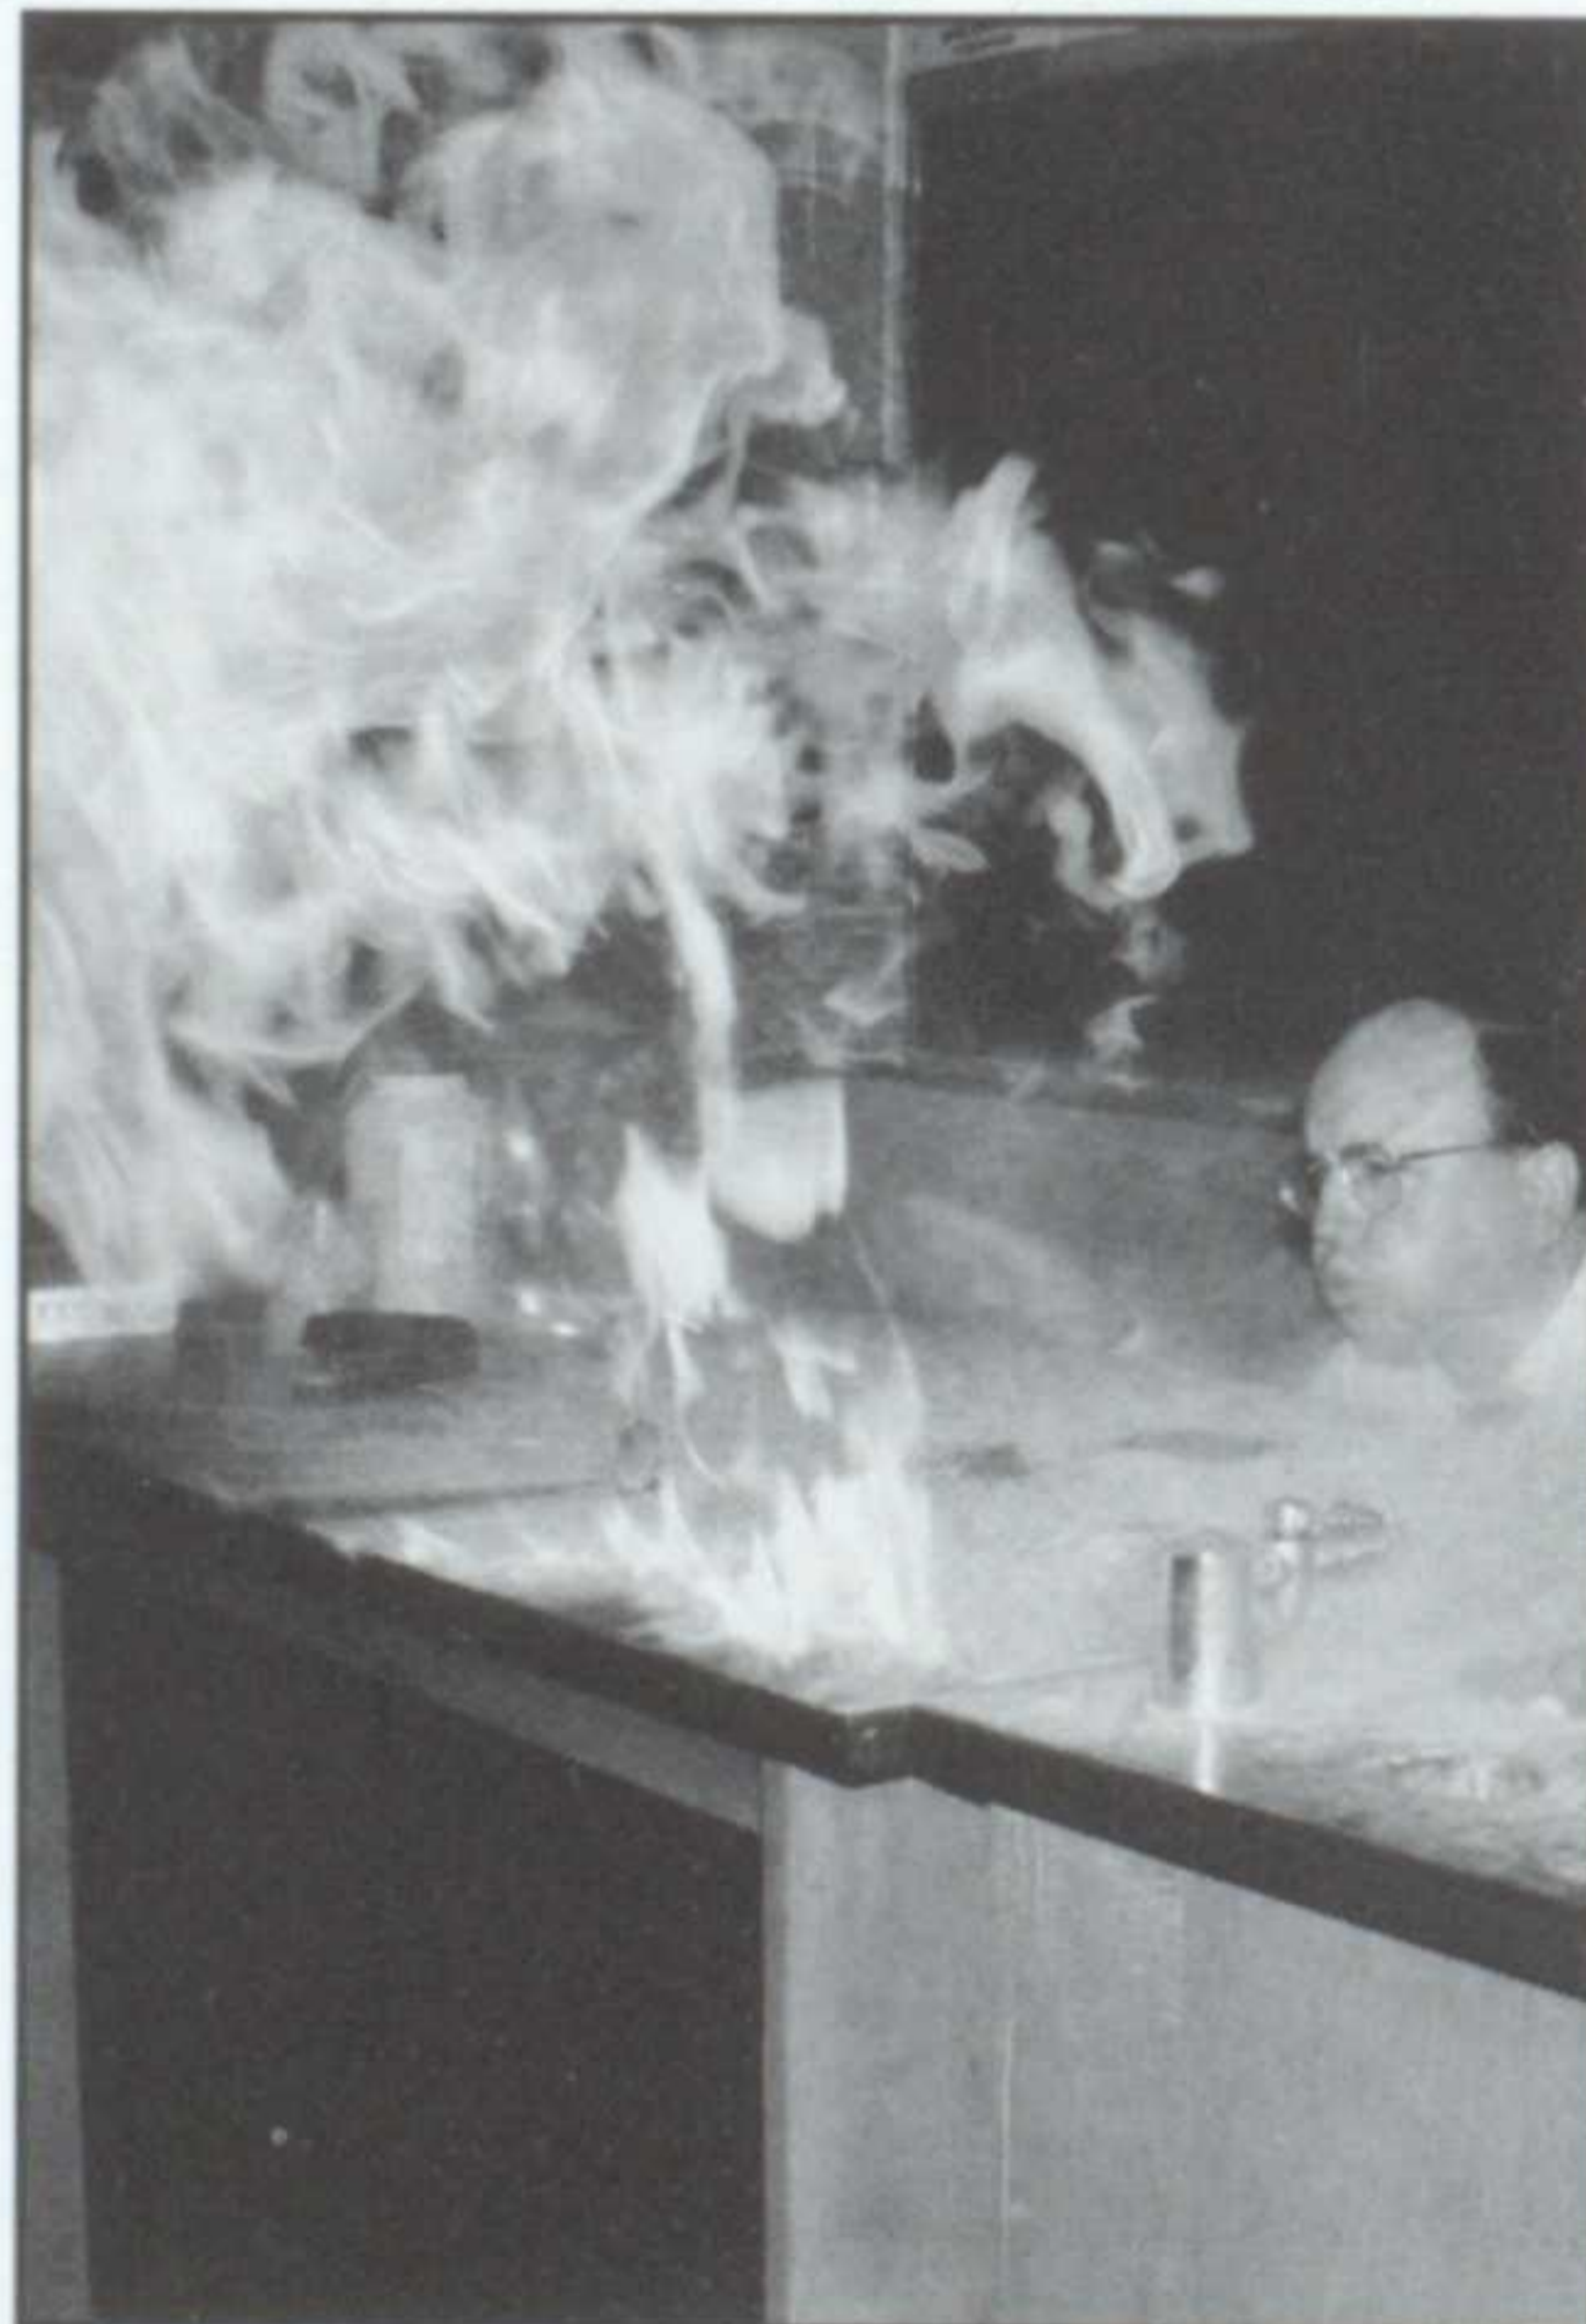

-S. McAdams

At first they believed the animal was a snake of some sort, but when they related their story to the rest of the class, no one believed them. They acted like it was really a dangerous and threatening animal. We all knew there's nothing but little fish down there and we just couldn't believe anything they said," said junior Rennie White.

Get Water to Cool this Heat!

It's like magic. Mr. Ule's surface area demonstration has wowed students in chemistry classes for years. During the demonstration two candles are set up at the end of a table and small amount of spores in powder form are placed behind them. Then, in dramatic tradition, Mr. Ule blows the powder into the candles and an eruption of fire explodes into the air. The demonstration is designed to further enlighten students on the concept of surface area, but often times the demonstration itself has a more lasting impression than the theory behind it. "He told us we were going to have a seance and to concentrate on the candles. All of sudden this huge fire ball went into the air and it was so cool! I was so surprised! I was in the back row and it still feel the heat from it," said sophomore Kristen Consolo.

Medical emergency excites Sports Nutrition class

THE SKY IS FALLING! Actually it's just the volleyball poles, but in the case of Mrs. Bauknecht neither was a good thing.

One Friday afternoon as the 4th period Sports Nutrition II class was preparing to play a game of volleyball and the class became familiar with how accidents do happen sometimes.

"It was a complete accident. A student and I were moving the volleyball pole and it slipped out and fell right on my foot. The kids were great and went to get Mr. Dougherty and a bucket of ice to put my foot in," said Mrs. Bauknecht.

"I was so embarrassed when the ambulance had to come and take me out on the stretcher. It created a huge scene!"

Luckily, Mrs. Bauknecht only had a broken toe and recovered quickly after spending a short amount of time on crutches.

Concerns about sweatiness perplex gym classes

Imagine this. It's second period. You still have half a day of school left and you are asked, actually required, to work out for the benefit of your own personal fitness. Do you a) take advantage of the opportunity and work to your full potential or b) alter your level of performance so you don't sweat and feel uncomfortable the rest of the day?

It was that subtle, but conscious decision which every freshman or sophomore, male or female, had to come to grips with. "I am concerned with how much I sweat even though I have gym near the end of the day. I still don't want to look horrible for fourth period," said sophomore Lauren Shaw.

Interestingly enough, this problem was not limited to just females. Though the percentages were less balanced than those of the females, they did reflect that some guys were concerned with their appearance. "I don't try my hardest but I put in enough effort that I don't usually have to worry about it too much," said sophomore Jim Keberdle.

Survey Results

- 69% of guys DON'T care about sweating in gym
- 31% of guys DO care about sweating
- 53% of girls DON'T care about sweating in gym
- 47% of girls DO care about sweating
- 27% of students are concerned that taking it easy will affect their grade

June, sweaty. July, sweatier. August, SWEATIEST. No one would know better than the 110 band members and 51 Rockettes who spent three full weeks, eight hours a day on the Bay Middle School practice field working to become a musical marching band machine by the time football season rolled around. In addition, for three days, August 9, 10, & 11, the Rockettes traveled back to the high school to teach routines and play games with the 80 little girls between grades one and seven who later performed one routine during pre-game at a football game.

Talent abounds at the fall and Christmas choir concerts

-K. Hitesman

How Lovely Are Your Branches. The Treble Ensemble sings on the Christmas tree at their holiday Concert. "I've been on the tree every year since I was a sophomore; it's really hot," senior Emily Sebald said. The Treble Ensemble stands on the tree while the other choirs stand as "bushes" on the stage. Junior Marcy Conklin described the situation: "Being on the tree was kind of scary and painful because my heels were so high and I had to stand the whole time. But the candles we hold are always fun."

-E. Forthofer

Sing It To Me, Baby. At the Holiday Concert on Dec. 14, the Freshman Choir performs. "We had to sing all the bad songs because the good ones had been taken by the older choirs on the tree; that was upsetting," complained freshman Kristen Peterson. "We meet every day during 2B," freshman Andrew Ibrahim remarked. "Now that Mrs. Dwyer is married, we chant 'Mrs. Dwyer teaches choir' and everyone cracks up."

-L. Sisto

All Dressed Up With Somewhere to Go. Choraleers perform at their Christmas Concert in the auditorium. "It's great to get out there and represent your school," said junior Meredith Richardson. Jenny Sommer, senior, also enjoyed being in choir. "I'm really glad to be in Choraleers because I sing all the time anyway; Lauren Russell calls me a nerd," she commented. "We got our red dresses for free because the people we got them from messed up. We called them a week before our first gig and they hadn't even started them yet, so we didn't have to pay when they finally arrived."

-E. Forthofer

"Tiny Little Baby..." With dramatic gestures, senior Jon Witmer brings down the house at the school Christmas Assembly with his interpretation of Jamaican Noel. "I thoroughly enjoyed my experience in choir. I would recommend anyone joining, even if they can't sing. During my solo, I just went with the music and I didn't really think about what other people were thinking. I was just trying to enjoy myself; fortunately, others enjoyed my performance as well," he said.

Sing It, Sister. Junior Bridget Gibbons sings Let It Snow with the jazz band at their Christmas Concert. She also performed the next morning for the school at a holiday assembly featuring the music department. "I was really nervous on Thursday night because my family was there," she said. "On Friday I was calm because I had already done it once and I knew I could do it. When I got up to perform, I was scared, but I used the skills I have gained from acting to help me appear calm and professional," said Bridget.

"O, Bay, We Sing Thy Praises." Dressed up for the Homecoming Assembly, seniors in A Capella sing the Alma Mater. "They didn't tell us we were going to have to sing until the day of the assembly, so we were all kind of unprepared, but we did it last year, too, so I guess we should have expected it," remarked senior Adam Dietrich.

Inspired by the marriage of their choir teacher, Mrs. Elaine Dwyer, the Show Choir searches for husbands in their skit at the fall concert. "We write our own skits," senior Rachel Moore commented. "No one ever has a specific role, we just try to add humor to the concert."

"L" Is For the Way You Look at Me

Before the fall choral concert, juniors Kate Helbig and Jeff Schill wait offstage with the rest of the Choraleers. "I wasn't really nervous," said Kate. "Participating in concerts is the best part of Choraleers. Even though we have to be to school at 7 o'clock every day to practice, the performances make it worth it."

-K. Hitesman

Humming His Own Tune. At the Holiday Concert, junior Jim Colombo solos in the song Jamaican Noel with A Capella. "It wasn't my first solo but I still felt nervous," Jim commented. "To calm down, I try to think of something that makes me happy." Other soloists included seniors Mike Loufman, Betsy Parr, Jenny Sommer, Jon Witmer, Colleen O'Patry, and junior Jeff Schill.

Tickling the Ivories

Senior Kacky Alvarez spent the entire day, from nine to five, at Solo & Ensemble Contest on February 5 at North Ridgeville High School. Not only did she play a flute solo, piano solo, and she was in a flute quartet, but she accompanied nine soloists on the piano. Why? "I really think it was worth all the effort and preparation," Kacky reflected. "I love playing the piano and I consider it a big accomplishment to have participated so much on one day."

Here We Come A Caroling. On the last day of school before Christmas break, Choraleers traveled to the elementary schools and the board office caroling. Awaiting their cue, junior Meredith Richardson and seniors Seamus O'Hara, Mike Harvey and Evan Wilhelms prepare to sing for Ms. Coolidge's AP English class. "Caroling season is the best time of the year for the choir because we get to hang out together a lot and perform for a variety of different groups. During December, we did about 20 caroling gigs," said junior Alex Leslie.

-K. DiBenedetto

Ho Hum. Before the beginning of the Christmas Concert that they performed for the school, the A Capella Choir waits together in the choir room for the student body to be seated in the auditorium. "It was a little nerve-wracking to sing for the entire school," said senior George Zapf, "but we didn't mess up or anything."

Take It From the Top. In preparation for the Solo & Ensemble Contest, juniors Meagan Manas and Jeff Schill practice for Jeff's solo of the song Lasciatemi Morire. Sing It Loud. At the Christmas Concert, the Treble Choir sings. "There are 62 of us and we're very loud and obnoxious. We meet right before lunch so everyone's all really hungry and we talk about a lot of girl stuff like boys and clothes," explained junior Lizzie Mayher. "We didn't really learn the songs very well, but it all came together in time because all we sang was Christmas carols and everyone knew them already."

Choir In Demand. Waiting to sing the National Anthem, seniors Sarah Groff and Amy Laing sit with junior Stephanie Radis on the auditorium stage with the rest of the A Capella Choir. Just like at the assembly celebrating the varsity girls soccer team's state championship, A Capella was on call to sing at many assemblies with little notice.

Humming Along With the Crowd. Singing at the Holiday Concert, freshman Dan Pell found all aspects of choir enjoyable. "I have a lot of fun in choir," he said. "It's a relaxing part of my day. It's a little weird that there are so few guys in the choir, but it's an easy A, and I really like that." Other freshmen, Kyle Lawrence, Bryan Eaton and Brett Peeper watch the director, Mrs. Dwyer. Freshman Choir was the only class that met 2B. It was the only choir freshman were allowed to be in.

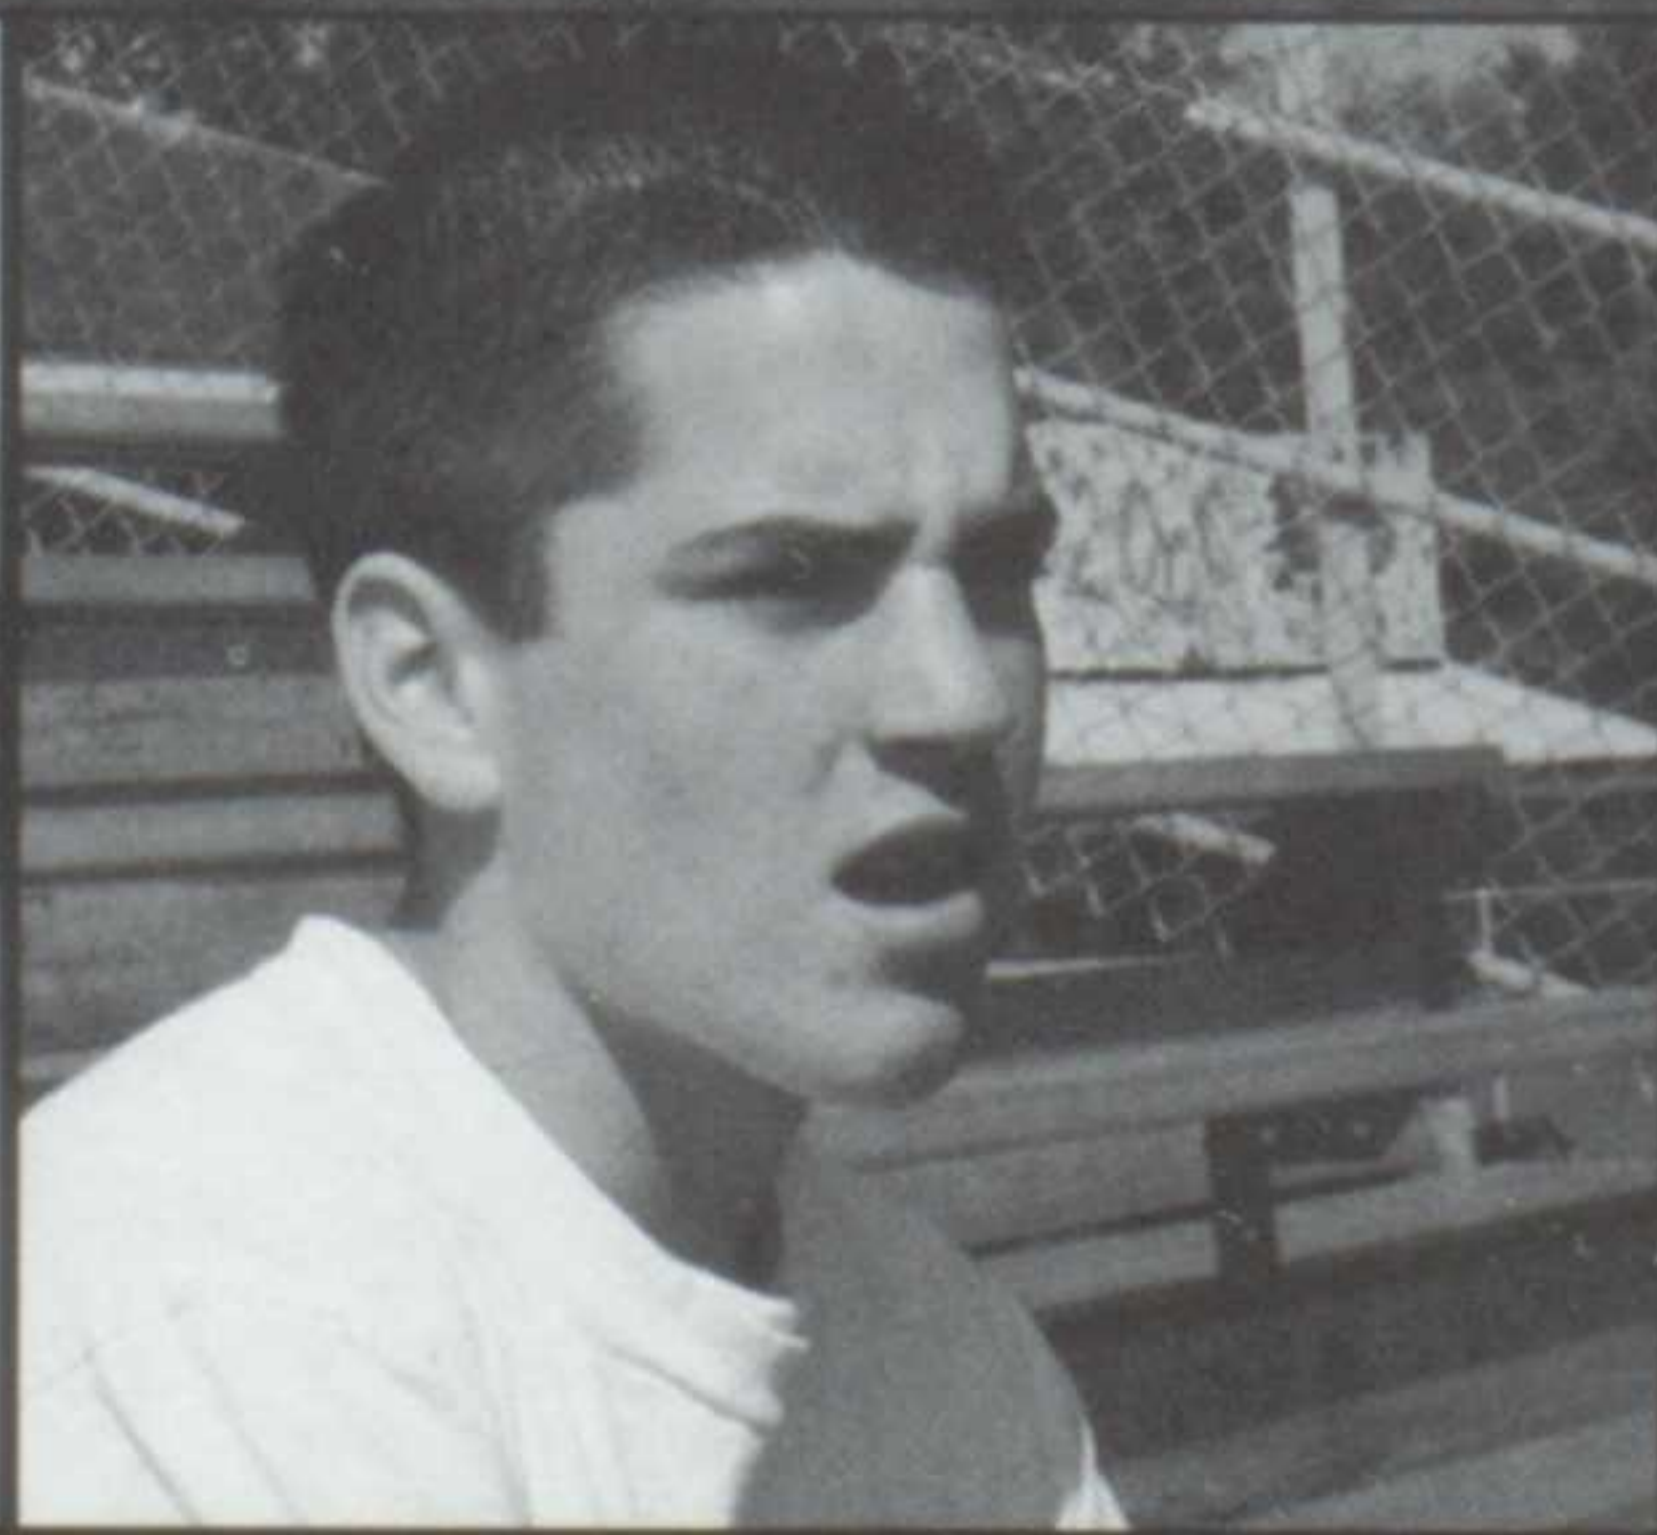

Toys On Parade. At the Christmas Concert, the Ladies Show Choir dressed up as toys under a Christmas tree and performed a special skit they wrote themselves. "That concert was the best one of the entire year because we all put our ideas in together and we all contributed to the skit," sophomore Rachel Madden said. "I was G. I. Jane. It was a ton of fun."

Shout it Out! In mid jump, senior Helene Thoman cheers for the varsity basketball team. "I think the cheerleaders really help to get the crowd pumped up during the basketball games. The fan support is really important," said Helene. The varsity boys team finished with a winning season and more fan support than they have had in years.

No Way! While working at yearbook one Saturday morning, junior Aaron Gress takes a break to call his mom on the pay phone. "My mom had just told me that she had received my report card in the mail, so I was kind of excited. I was expecting the grades I got, so I was a little relieved!" said Aaron. The yearbook staff met every Saturday and Sunday and after school during the week until the book was finished in early March.

Check it out! Looking at the wallies in surprise, juniors Dani Owad and Lindsey Elliott read the comments written by students to motivate the fall athletes and marching units. "We tried to dress up every Friday at school for Rockettes to create spirit for the football games. That particular day, we were told to dress up like farmers and wear bandanas and overalls," said Dani. The cheerleaders also wore special outfits to school to contribute to the festivities.

SCREAM 3

Back with a vengeance, the Feb. 4th opening of the last Scream feature provoked mixed reviews. "I thought the movie was really fake and I had to keep reminding Tara that it was only a movie, and not real," said sophomore Kristen Consolo.

On the other hand, sophomore Tara Hawkins was completely freaked out. "I could barely keep my eyes open the whole time, I was so scared!" said Tara.

SCARY CAR RIDES

Being in the car with senior Jennine Schurra was definitely not a relaxing time, according to some. "I admit it, my driving skills could use a little improvement. But all I have to say is that both the parked car at Bob Evans and the pole in the gas station hit me!" said Jennine.

Senior Amanda Saccany commented, "I think Jennine is a perfectly good driver. She's had her incidents, but then again, haven't we all?!"

GIVING BLOOD

The school's annual blood drive definitely caused many mixed feelings. "When the assistant was taking my blood, I couldn't stop shaking. I was so scared!" said senior Summer Darst.

On the other hand, Emily Forthofer really didn't mind. "Whenever the opportunity comes up, I would definitely volunteer to give blood. I think it is important to help out others in need," said Emily.

Long hours in the publications room were always a scream as yearbook editors invented ways to relieve deadline tension

That Tickers! During the Snoball dance on Feb. 26, junior Candice Evanko and senior Eric Haggett decide to take a break outside. The record-breaking 70 plus temperatures made the cafeteria too hot. "Since Eric and I

The word on the street was that the fall play Rumors was a success. Not surprising considering the murder mystery was full of bizarre characters played by diverse actors and actresses

It's a Miracle! Mr. Ken Gorman played by Alex Leslie suddenly regains his hearing. A gunshot during the play caused Mr. Gorman to lose his hearing. The sudden cry of Alison Blotzer's character, Mrs. Cooper, stimulated his once silent ears. Ken fell to his knees in pain, shocked by the noise surrounding him. With his hearing restored, Mr. Gorman was able to detect conversations all throughout the house.

Even or Odd, What Will It Be? In a game of chance where the stakes were high, the men played the game of Even or Odd to determine who would act as the host of the party. Evan Wilhelms' character, Mr. Lenny Ganz, was singled out and given the responsibility of creating a false persona. His performance was convincing enough to fool the police and clear the host of false accusations.

senior

In order to play Lenny Ganz, Evan Wilhelms had to learn a three-page monologue. Evan's character was an angry and impersonal tax accountant married to Bridget Gibbons' character, Clair.

Bridget Gibbons
junior

As Lenny's wife Clair Ganz, Bridget Gibbons' played a raging alcoholic who initiated fights with her husband. Bridget's sarcastic character often avoided taking responsibility for her actions.

Jessica Talbott
senior

"Recovering smoker," Mrs. Gorman was played by Jessica Talbott. Throughout the play, Jessica constantly craved a cigarette. To avoid the grips of addiction, Mrs. Gorman settled for smoking a Q-Tip.

Lee Strock
sophomore

Politician Glen Cooper, played by Lee Strock, led the audience to believe that he was having a scandalous affair. His wife played by Alison Blotzer was suspicious but never discovered the truth.

Jeff Schill
junior

Despite his masculine stature, Jeff Schill played Officer Pudney, a man constantly dominated by his female counterpart Officer Welch, Katie Synek.

Kleenex Please! Politician Glen Cooper (sophomore Lee Strock) plugs up his nose after a smash in his face from his wife played by junior Alison Blotzer. According to Lee, "Memorizing lines is all about genetics, you can either do it or you can't."

Fess Up! Characters Burnie and Cookie during an interrogation by Officer Welsh (freshman Katie Synek). "I liked being the only freshman in the play, I had a lot of lines to learn but it was easier than I thought because I learned them in parts," Katie said.

Who Me? Burnie, played by junior Dan Weick denies all questions asked by the police. "What I liked about Burnie was that he would go from happy to mad really fast," said Dan.

Rumor has it!

Oh My Gosh! Junior Alison Blotzer startles senior Evan Wilhelms by jumping onto his lap. "This was a revengeful attempt to make her character's husband jealous." Evan said, "My character enjoyed the seduction knowing that his wife was in the room."

Gather Round.(center) The plot thickens when Mr. Ganz (Evan Wilhelms) must hide his true identity from the police. "Evan's character was pretending to be someone else so my character had to be his. It was pretty hairy," said Alex Leslie.

Rats! Mrs. Gorman (Jessica Talbott)reaches for a cigarette. "One of my favorite parts about my character were her crazy antics," said Jessica.

Chug! Alcoholic Claire Ganz (Bridget Gibbons) takes another swig to wash away her pain. "She liked Grandpa's cough medicine," joked Bridget.

Think Quick. Working with Mrs. Maretka, Pam McVicker meets with her fellow members of Academic Challenge. Despite the intense meets, Pam said, "It's really no big deal; other schools are a lot more serious than we are."

Don't Mess Up. To analyze strategies, Christy Lambe, Pam McVicker, Mrs. Maretka, and the rest of the Academic Challenge crew discuss the answers for "Knowledge Masters." Every fall and spring, they complete this 100 question computer test without studying! "Actually, we pride ourselves on not studying," says Christy.

Concentrate! While waiting for a question, junior Jessica Obergas looks intently at her notes. At an all-day meet, Jessica and her fellow Academic Challenge friends picked their brains to answer some difficult questions. "Academic Challenge is great because I get to use all of the information I've learned at school and use it in other situations. We all meet awesome kids from different schools which is really interesting also," Jessica commented.

The sound of coffee steaming at Bob Evans, the clandestine gossip circulating in study hall, the persistent murmurs of discussion during Academic Challenge meets & Pair & Share classes keep students talking & listening

Down On The Farm. At Bob Evans, a cultural landmark for students throughout the years, Amanda Saccany and Erich Diedrich eat some famous biscuits and load up on coffee. In addition, sports teams made it a tradition to go to Bob Evans for old-fashioned team bonding. It was hard for anyone to walk into Bob Evans and not see someone from the high school. Freshman Erich Diedrich noted, "I don't go to Bob Evans a lot, but when I do I always see my friends and people I know from school. That place is sweet." Bob Evans was the gathering place of choice for many.

To Be, or Not to Be... Freshman Beth Kohning works on her Shakespeare plays for the final along with the rest of her classmates in acting class. The class was divided into groups that were given various plays written by William Shakespeare. Mrs. Ostrica taught the students by having them work together. "My play was Midsummer's Night Dream. It was a lot of fun, but I had a hard time learning how to not be embarrassed performing in front of the class," remembered Beth.

Gotcha! Senior Taylor Strang sits and eats in the cafeteria when he's really supposed to be in study hall. Taylor always seemed to somehow escape the bondage of study hall. "No comment," replied Taylor.

What a kidder. Sophomore Josh Brown laughs with his friends during another incredibly entertaining study hall. "The only interesting thing to do in study hall is to watch John Ponyicky and Chris Brown get into verbal fights. Other than that we just talk in groups," said Josh.

Yo Homey. Junior Ray Krull dishes out the phat raps to his fellow students during 3B study hall. "I usually write songs and share them with the crazy kids in my study hall. Tim Lavelle is one of my biggest fans," said Rapmaster Ray.

Ha! Ha! Ha! Senior Beth Battershell responds to a tale of Tim Lavelle's weekend. "Tim always had some interesting story about what he did for the weekend. It wasn't always cool, but at least it was entertaining," Beth says.

Working together in Study Hall & in Pair & Share groups give students legitimate reasons to talk Quiet Down! Trying to think of a diversion, sophomore Mark Whistle risks being disciplined in 3B study hall. Mark explained, "I get so bored in study hall, I do anything to create a little entertainment." Mark frequently participated in chaotic antics.

The Jokes on You. To pass the time, freshman Adam Horvath cracks jokes to entertain his fellow classmates. "The kids call me the 'Jokester' because I'm always making people laugh. It's a tough job, but someone's got to do it," said Horvath. When Adam is not crackin' people up, he spent his time reading the latest sports magazines.

Listen Carefully. Freshman Jay Maratta waits for a pass for the LIC during study hall. Students were allowed to quietly converse with their friends in the library. "The librarians are really cool. They let us talk without getting too mad," commented Jay.

Let's Be Partners! Mr. Schroeder's Algebra 1 class works together to solve some interesting math problems. A lot of teachers comment, "I really like group work because I feel that students can sometimes help other students on work better than I can. The older the kids get, the more I let them help each other. I think it's very beneficial."

What is the best concert to go to?

Bay Promotion Presents

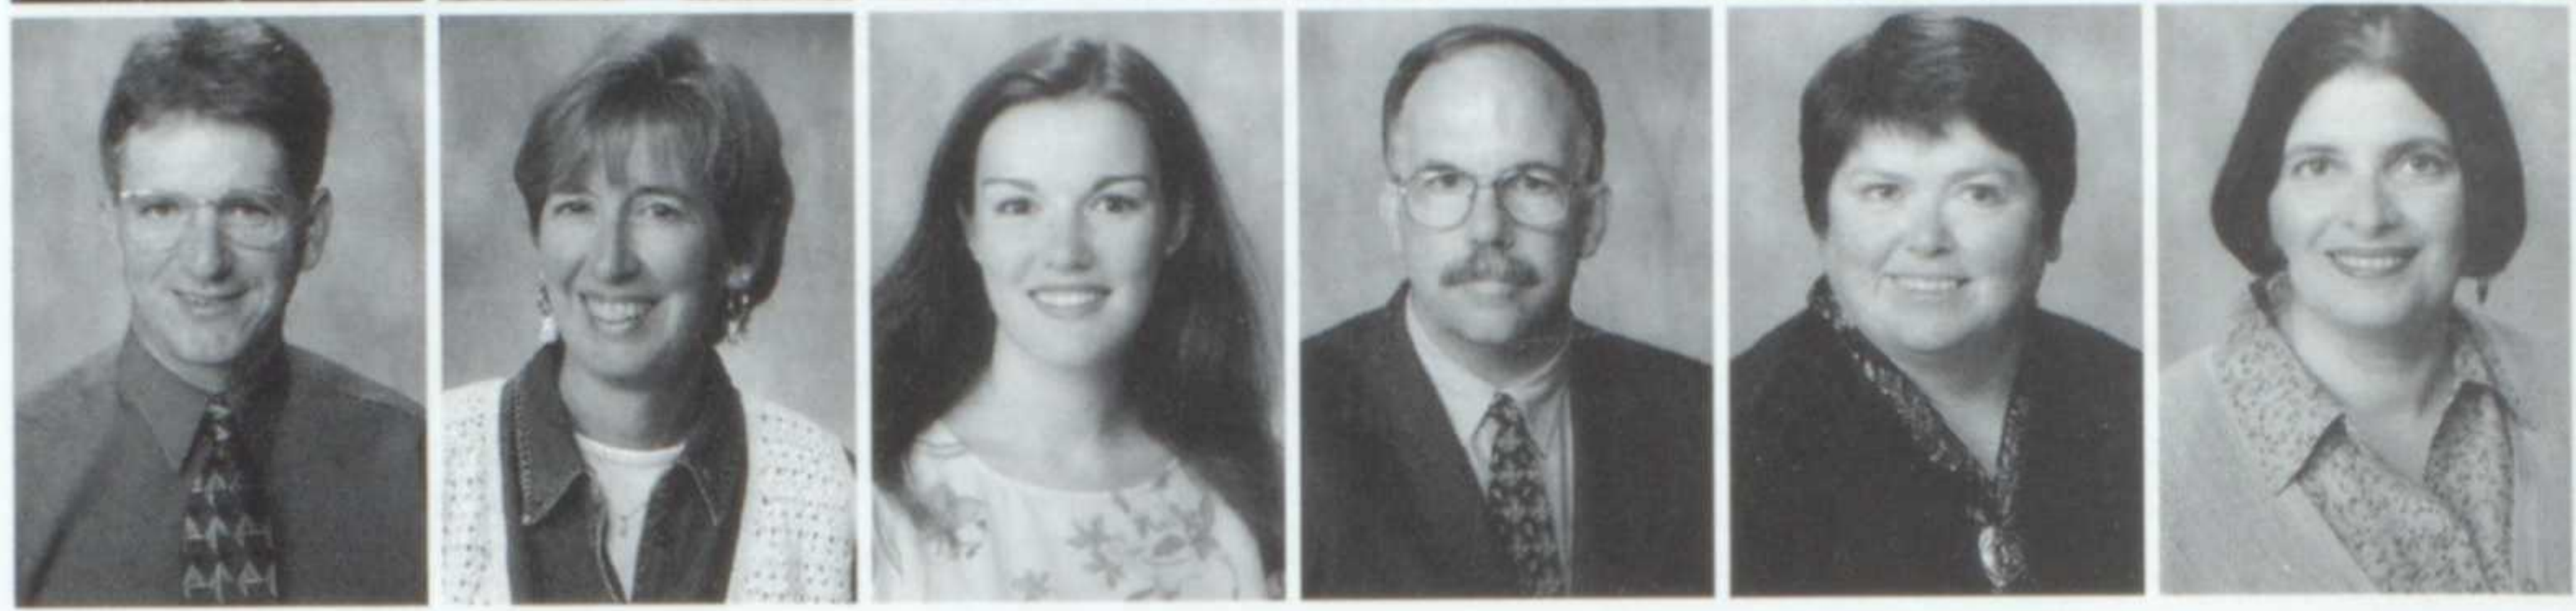

"Dave Matthews Band without a doubt is the best band to see. I like them so much because of their unique style; the fact that it is not that techno mumbo jumbo is definitely a plus."

Students and faculty share their most embarrassing moments.

Students

"I had, well still have, a crush on a freshman. For my birthday, my lunchtable dragged my little boy over to me, made him sing happy birthday to me and give me a hug. I was so embarrassed."
-Erin Ballentine, 11

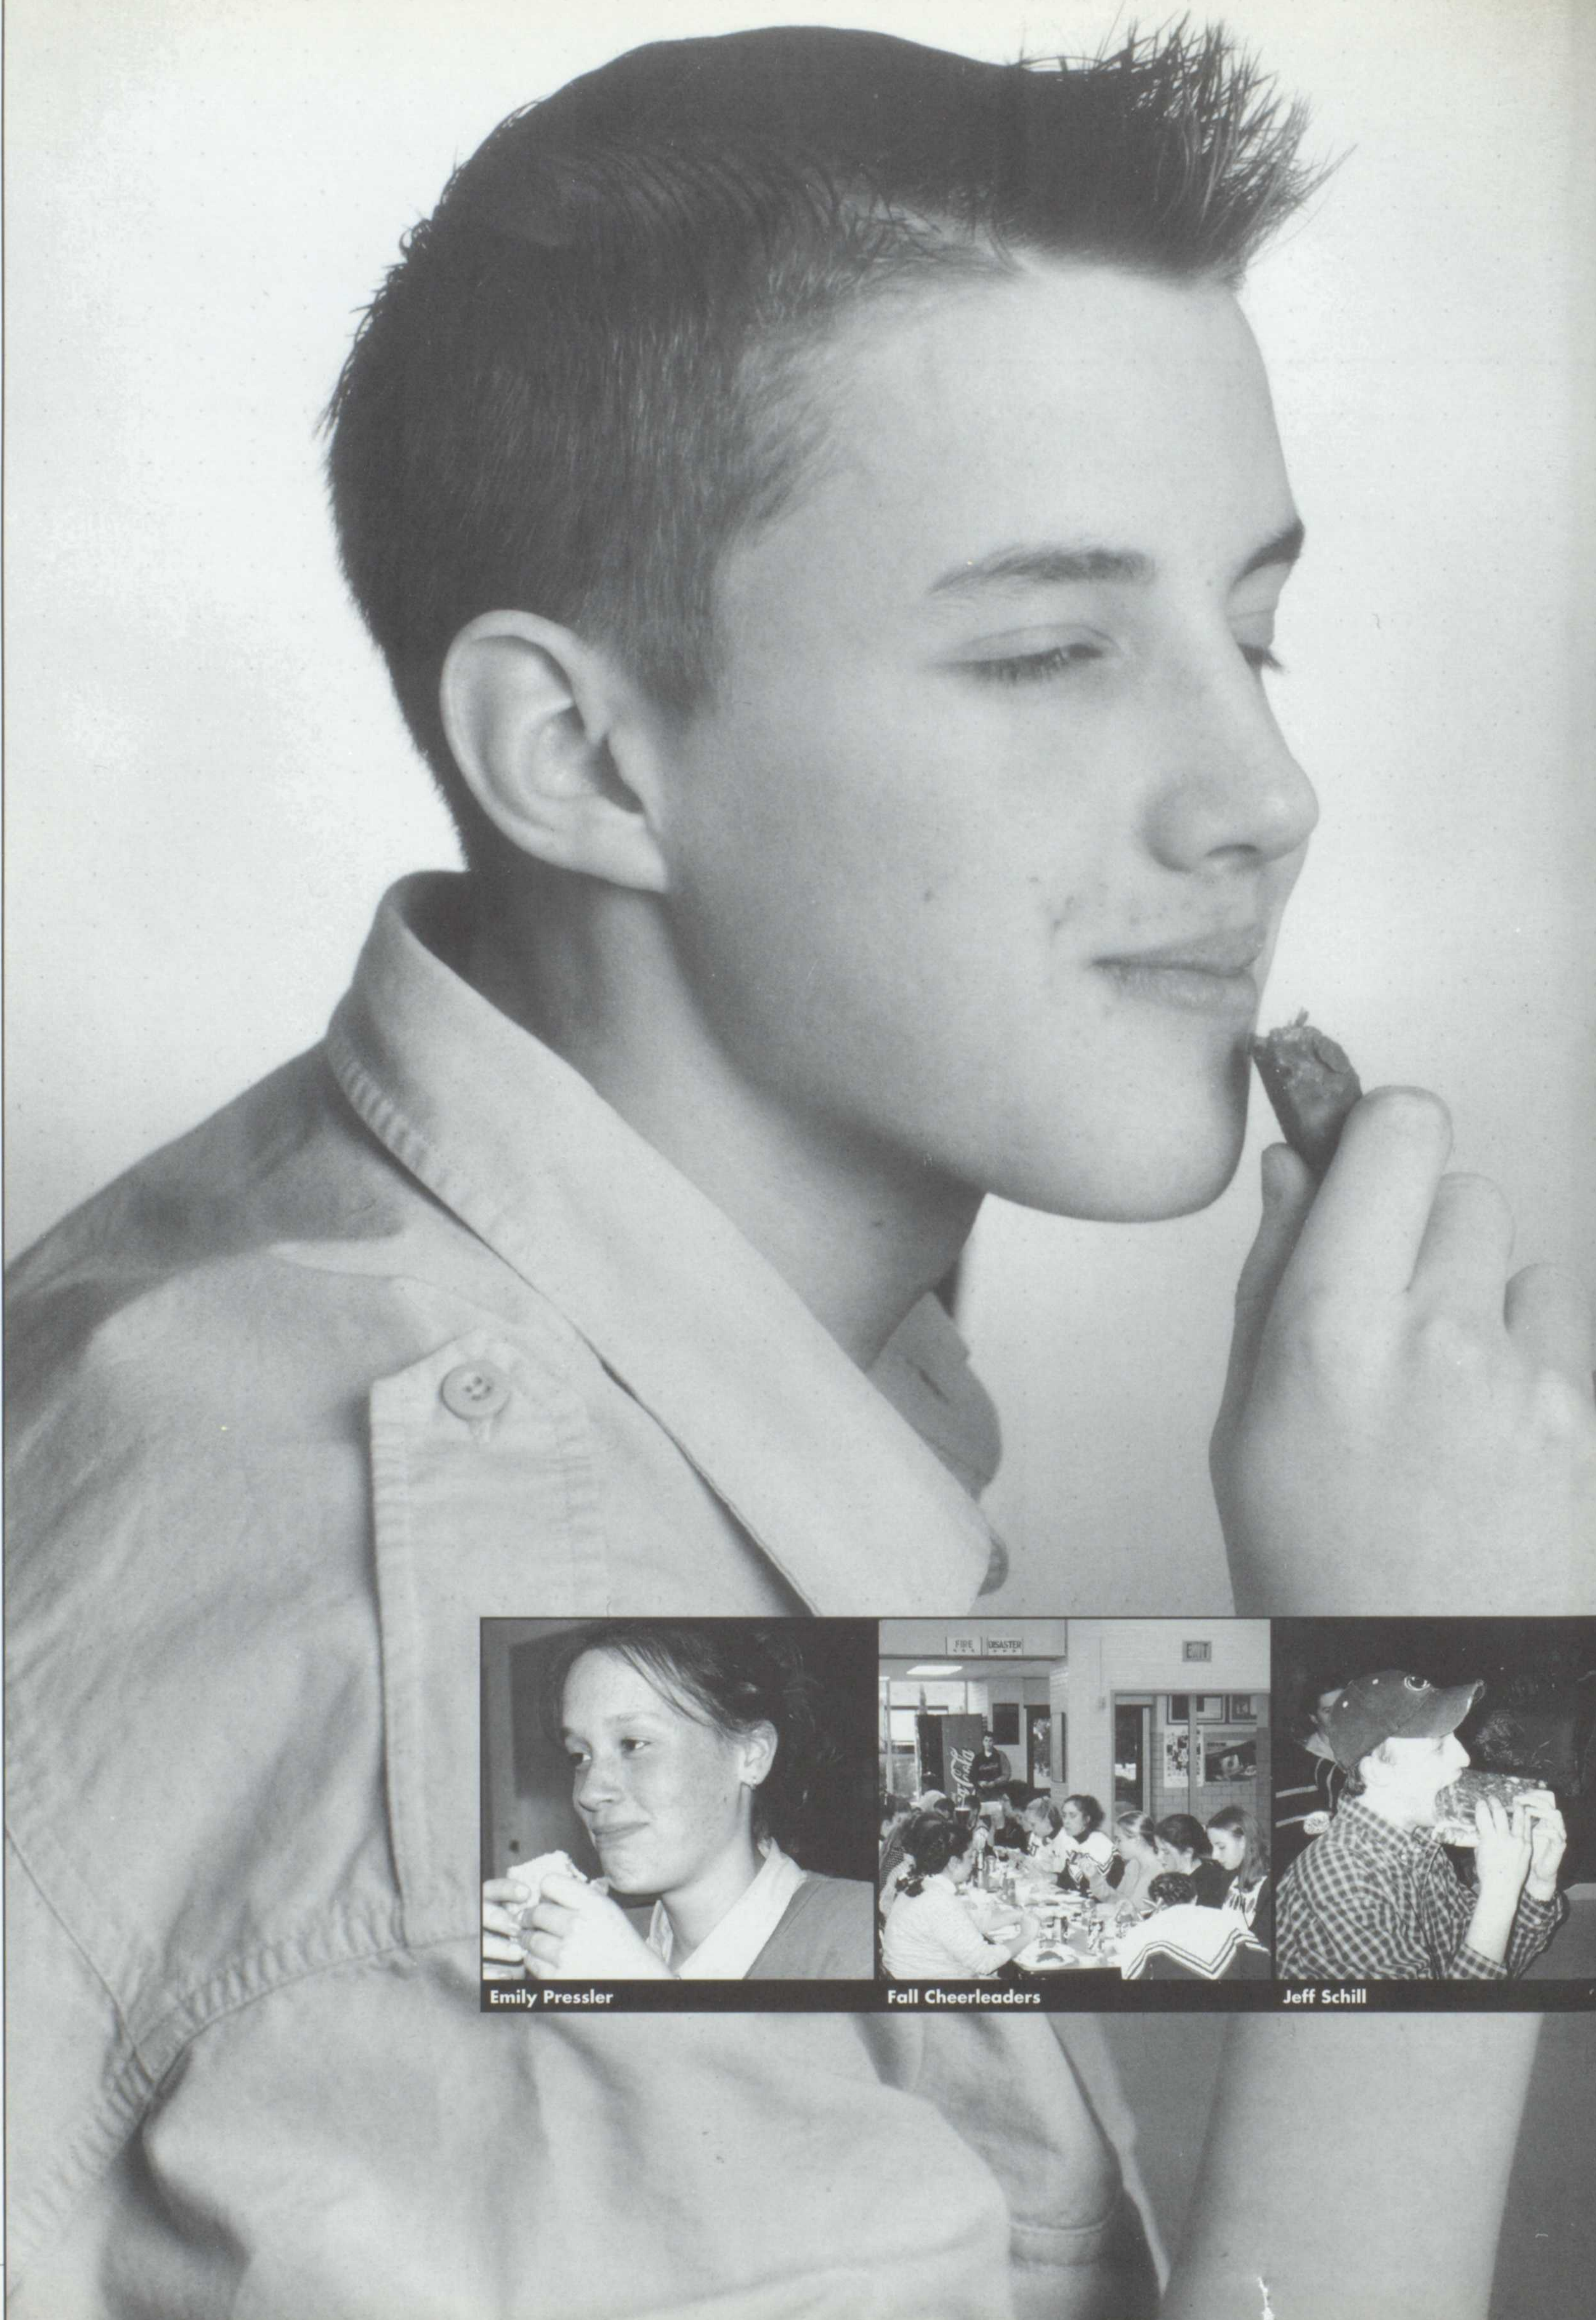

"A long time ago, actually yesterday, in math, I fell off the stair. Mrs. Abu-Saleh was teaching in LH2 and I was scooting forward and fell down. It was really loud."
-Henry Glover, 9

Faculty

"At my wedding, I went to put the ring on my wife, and she kept pulling her hand away. By the time I figured out that I was trying to put it on the wrong hand, the whole congregation was laughing at me!"
-Mr. Dougherty

"The first week of the first year I taught here, I walked all the way from the bathroom, through the cafeteria to the teacher's cafeteria before Mrs. Harmon told me my dress was tucked into my nylons!"
-Ms. Hufford

academic grind*

Crunch and Munch During 3B lunch, Freshmen Liz Jelep, Alli Welch and Chrissie Remein laugh together. They ate together because they were all in orchestra or band during 3A. They always ate together at the beginning of the year because they did not know anyone else since they were freshmen. As they got to know upperclassmen through their music classes, the girls changed tables.

Dress up. Chow Down. Sophomores Meghan Ferguson and Lauren Nigro enjoy their reward after spending the night trick-or-treating for IDD. The three went out with other costumed members of the Key Club to collect money from members of the community two days before Halloween. The community donations they collected was donated to UNICEF, an organization that supports I.D.D.

Queens of Pop. During a girls' basketball game, seniors Sarah Alexander and Sarah Arterburn Preparing popcorn for patron purchase at the concession stand. The early January game was the first of two the duo was scheduled to sell during in an effort to raise money for National Honor Society. NHS wasn't the only club to share in the concession stands money making ventures, other dates were taken by the Literary Magazine, Class Officers, and Key Club.

-J. Laurence

Wining and Dining Sophomore Lee Stock pours his "sweetheart," sophomore Nicole Zimmer, a glass of non-alcoholic wine during Mr. Scott's fourth block Health class. Each student was paired with a member of the opposite sex and sent on a pretend date. It began with the boys asking Mr. Dougherty, who was playing the role of the girls' father, if they could take his daughter out. Then the period progressed into eating and socializing in the East Gym. The date was a prime time for students to put their newly-learned dating and dancing skills to work. Despite the fact that Lee did not participate in gym class, he was the hit of the dance. He wowed the class with his swing-dance and tap dancing skills.

Me So Hungry. Juniors Allison Blotzer and Kate Madden take a bite out of the sour jelly stars that the junior class officers were selling. "They're so good that we even eat the wrappers. It's a form of recycling," said Allison. Allison, a junior class officer, had to sell the stars to raise money for their senior prom. Kate was not an officer, but she still supported her class by purchasing candy everyday from her best friend, Allison.

Pour Me A Drink Taking a breather during their day of caroling, juniors Paul Rallager, B.J. Wischmeier, and senior Alision Kocar stop in Mr. Ule's Chemistry class. They students were having a party, and invited the members of "Sax on the Beach" to stay and have something to eat.

-B. Thomas

Sweet Tooth In Mrs. Harmon's Spanish 3 class, sophomores Sara Pedersen and Amy Brynson add cinnamon sugar to their deserts. The girls were making food as part of their Christmas party celebrations in their class.

Eat-a-thon. After participating with Key Club in the "Walk for the Cure," freshman Al Schneider, sophomore Lauren Nigro, sophomore Meghan Ferguson, freshman Jacklyn Rankin, and sophomore Emma Lavish take time to eat. The walk was organized to help raise money for breast cancer research. Key Club treasury paid for all participants' entry fees but raising additional money through pledges was left up to the students.

Sweet Rewards. At the spring blood drive, senior Rachel Donofrio arranges the post-donation snacks. She helped the Red Cross because of her involvement in Student Council. Rachel substituted donating time for donating blood because she was "too afraid of passing out." Despite her fears, Rachel planned on giving blood during one of the two Student Council blood drives in 1999 and 2000.

Snack Attack. Before an away volleyball game, sophomores Rachel Madden, Tara Hawkins, Lauren Krause and Sarah Selong take time out for a snack before leaving. Pregame munching was not only a tradition for the JV team, but for the varsity as well. For example, a bag of candy and cereal was eaten by the varsity during every JV game.

Down the Hatch

Dinner for One. Intent on the total Spanish experience, sophomore Andrew Loufman enjoys his meal at Mi Pueblo. Spanish 2 classes went to the restaurant as a final field trip at the end of the 1999 school year. The students were informed about the trip at the start of the semester and the anticipation increased as the days slipped by. Sophomore Mark Tobik said, "I didn't eat for like three days before the trip because I was so excited." Mark ended up spending near $50 on his meal.

After soccer practice, senior Steve Begala snacks on a doughnut and a bottle of water.

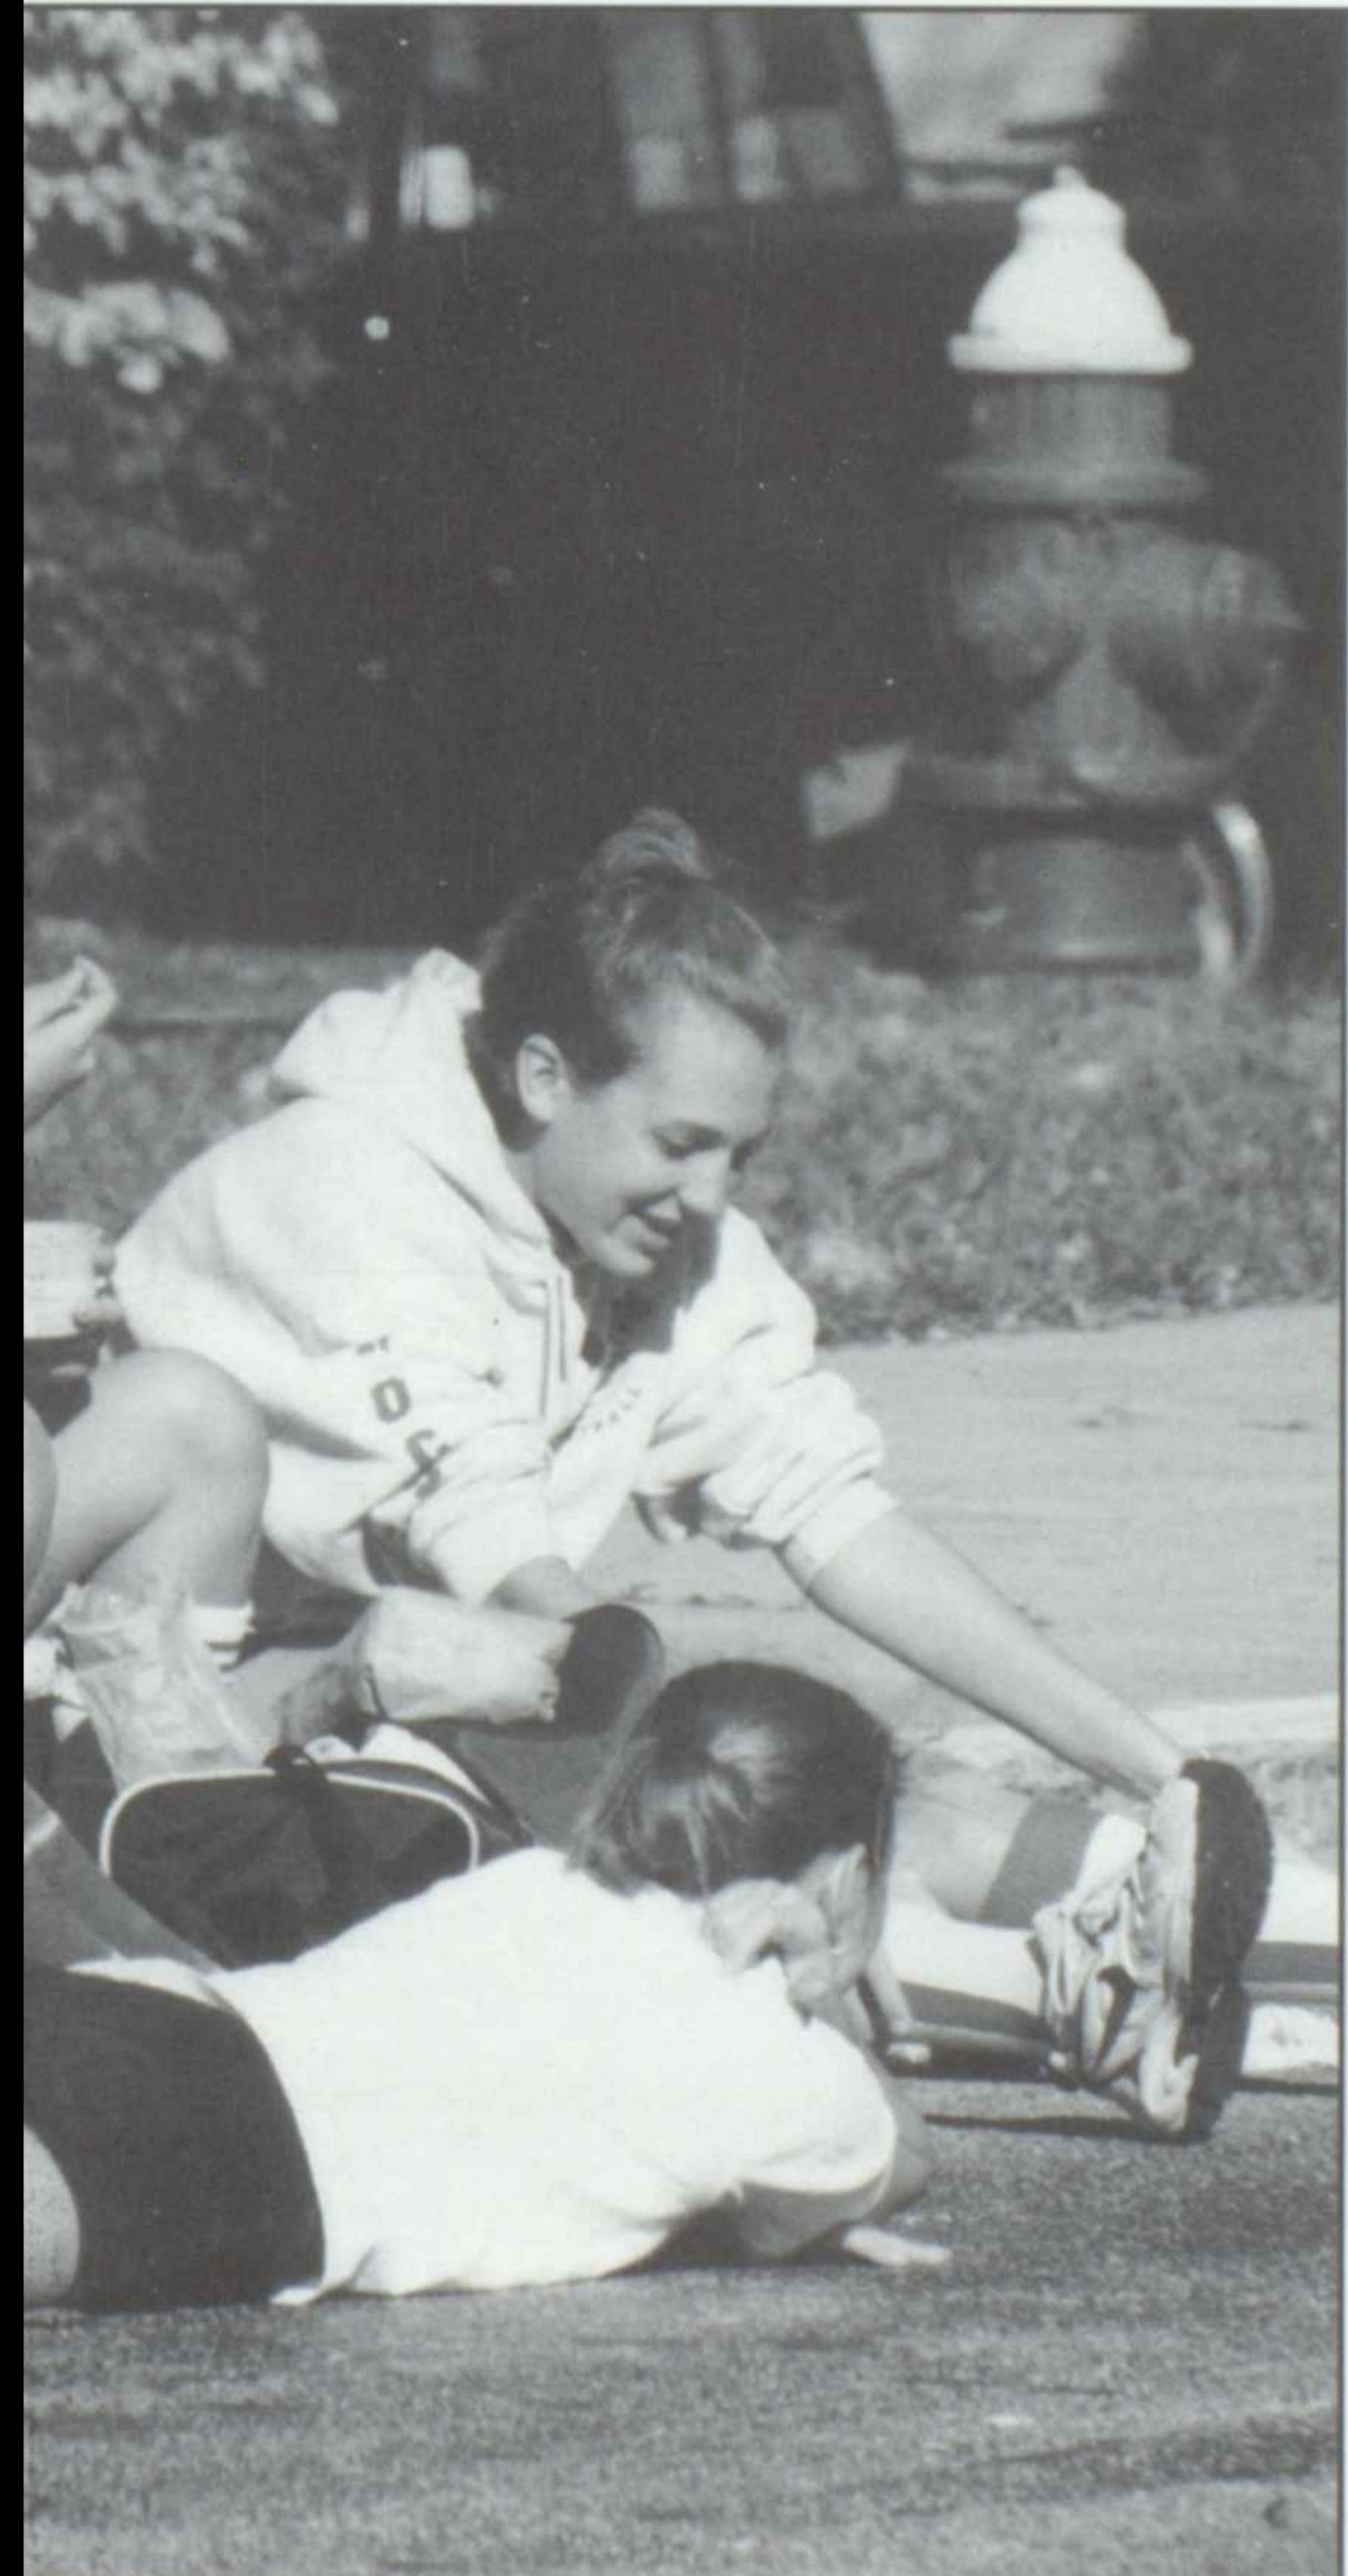

-J. Laurence

The football players leisurely enjoy a summer picnic after their first scrimmage of the season. The football/cheerleader event featured hot dogs, hamburgers and an assortment of pop.

-L. Warren

Popping popcorn (into her mouth), Junior Rennie White snacks during a brief break at yearbook. Running to the Lance machine was common practice for Rennie who, in an effort to waste time, threw popcorn into the air and deftly caught it.

Cake-Eater. At a September 13th Rockette practice, junior Kate LaBatte blows the candles out on her birthday cake. Kate's 16th birthday fell on a night that included practicing instead of partying. Kate said, "I was mad all day that I had to practice on my birthday." Luckily her friends surprised her with a makeshift party complete with a cake and a balloon from Heinen's. Rockettes practiced Monday and Wednesday nights in order to perfect their routines for the Friday night football games. They continued their practices into November to prepare themselves for the Jingle Elf parade in Chicago on Thanksgiving.

"Everyday..."

It's bells and whistles that wake you up, send you to class, make you jump higher, and drill you for distaster.

"No, way."

It's the pitter-patter of footsteps in the hallway accompanied by the dull roar of casual conversation.

"Yes, way."

It's words of advice and annoyance, respectively.

"You don't say!"

It's four years of jammin' deejays, choir concerts, slamming lockers, and rowdy student sections.

"Oh, yes. IT SOUNDS LIKE BAY."

Without ever opening their mouths to talk, some individuals make statements through body art and vanity plates.

"Do I really need to explain my license plate? I like it because it does all the talking for me, the ladies can't resist it," said Dan Lunoe.

After taking a vote in government class to see if anyone was in favor of lip piercings Michelle Marconi said, "Despite the negative comments, I decided to stick what I think looks good."

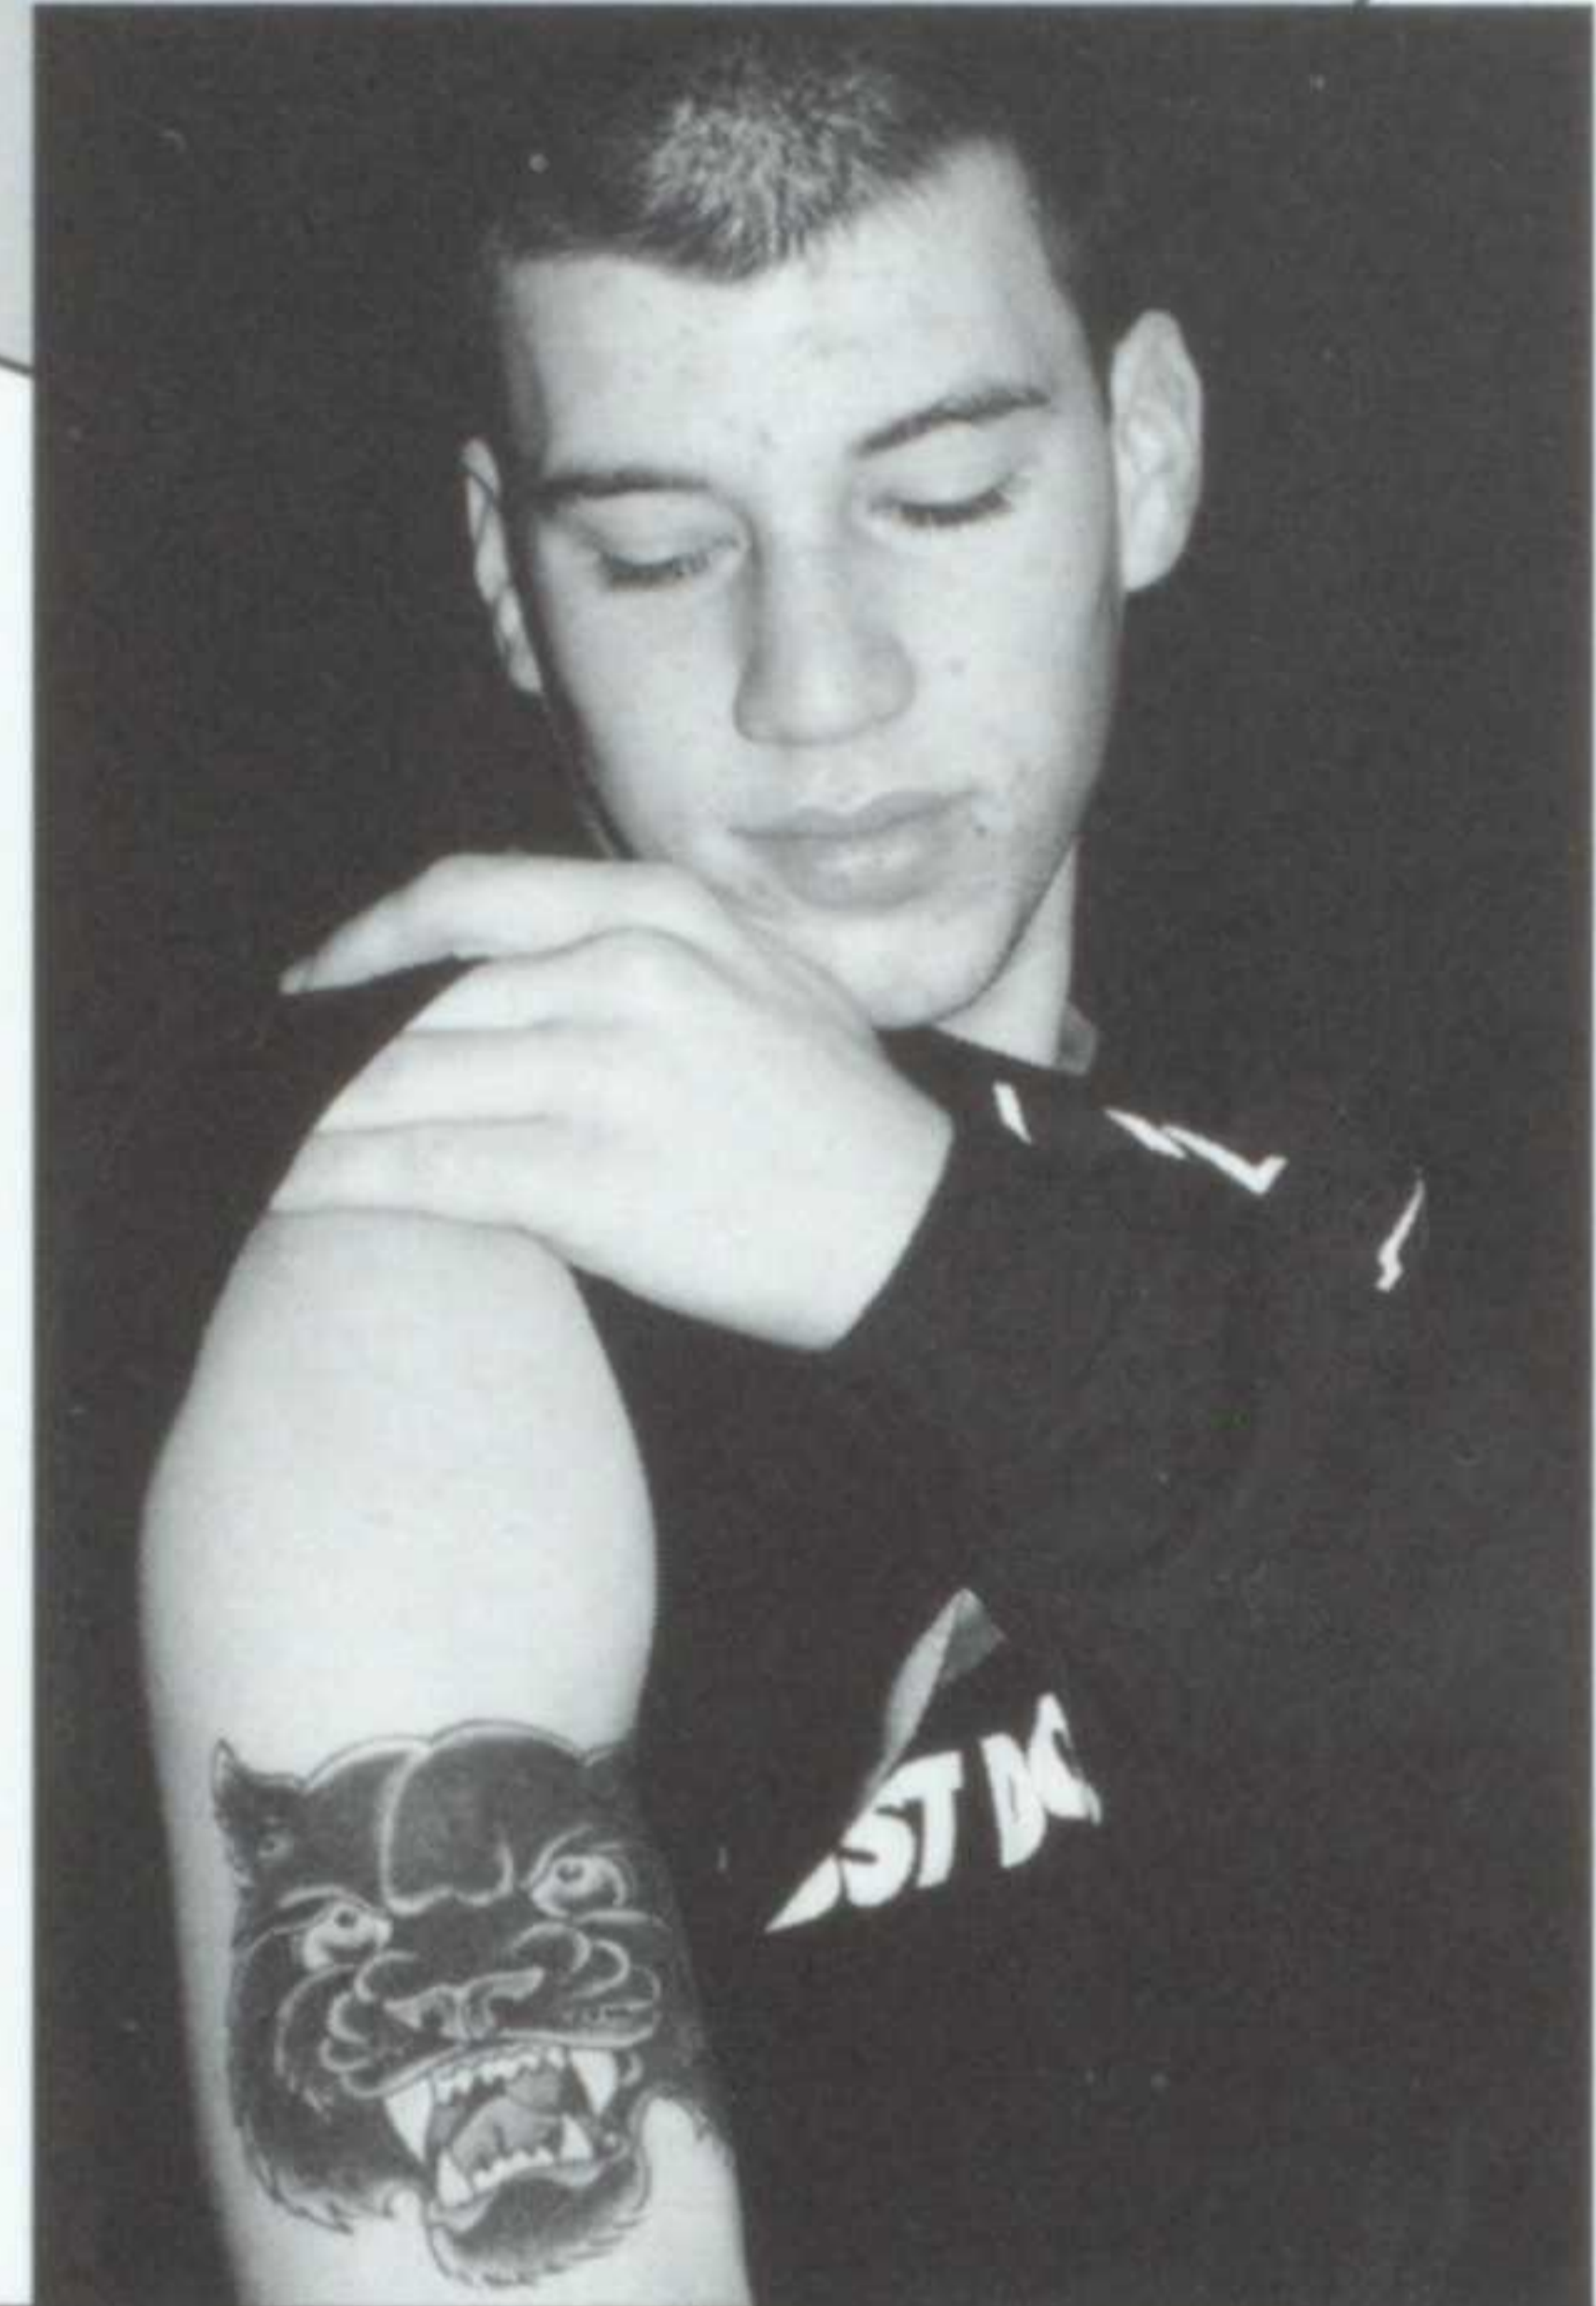

I paid for my tattoo with Christmas money. One way or another I was going to have to cover up the first one I got on my arm. Never get 'Thug Life' written permanently on your body; you will regret it," said Anthony Rosson.

Fall pep assemblies brought spirited cheering sections together. The seniors made the most noise when cheering for the sports teams.

ROCKETTE DANCE. "Football season ends, but the Rockettes don't stop. In addition to joining the band in parades, they performed at basketball games, the talent show & a boys soccer game. "Long weeknight practices would have been torture had it not been for the camaraderie of the girls on the squad, especially the seniors," said Amanda Saccany

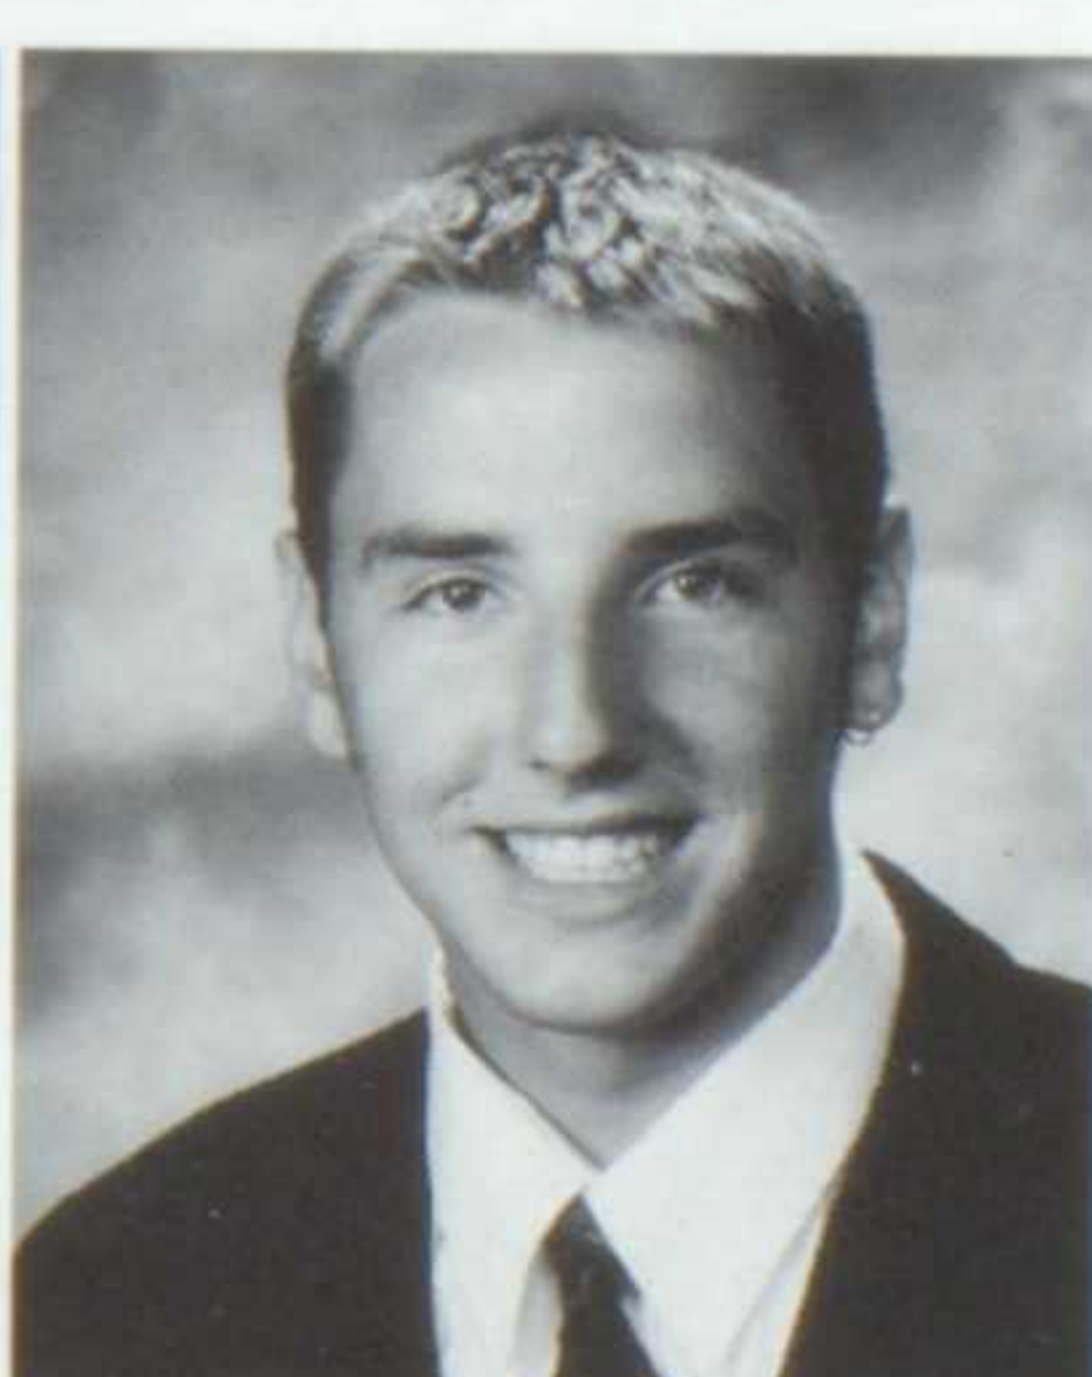

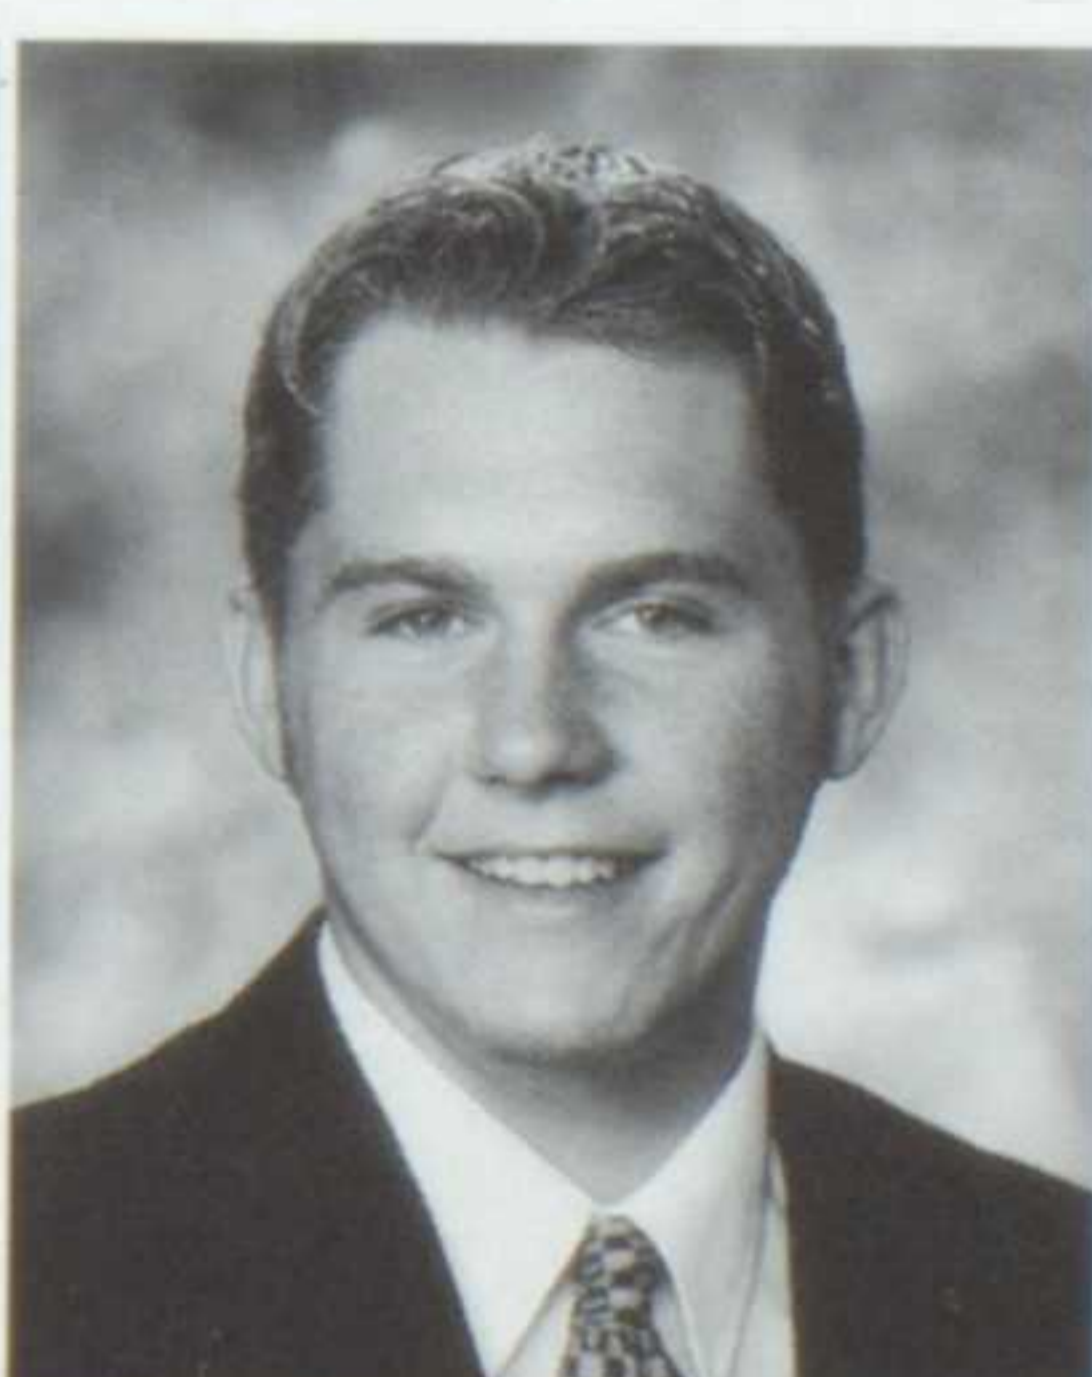

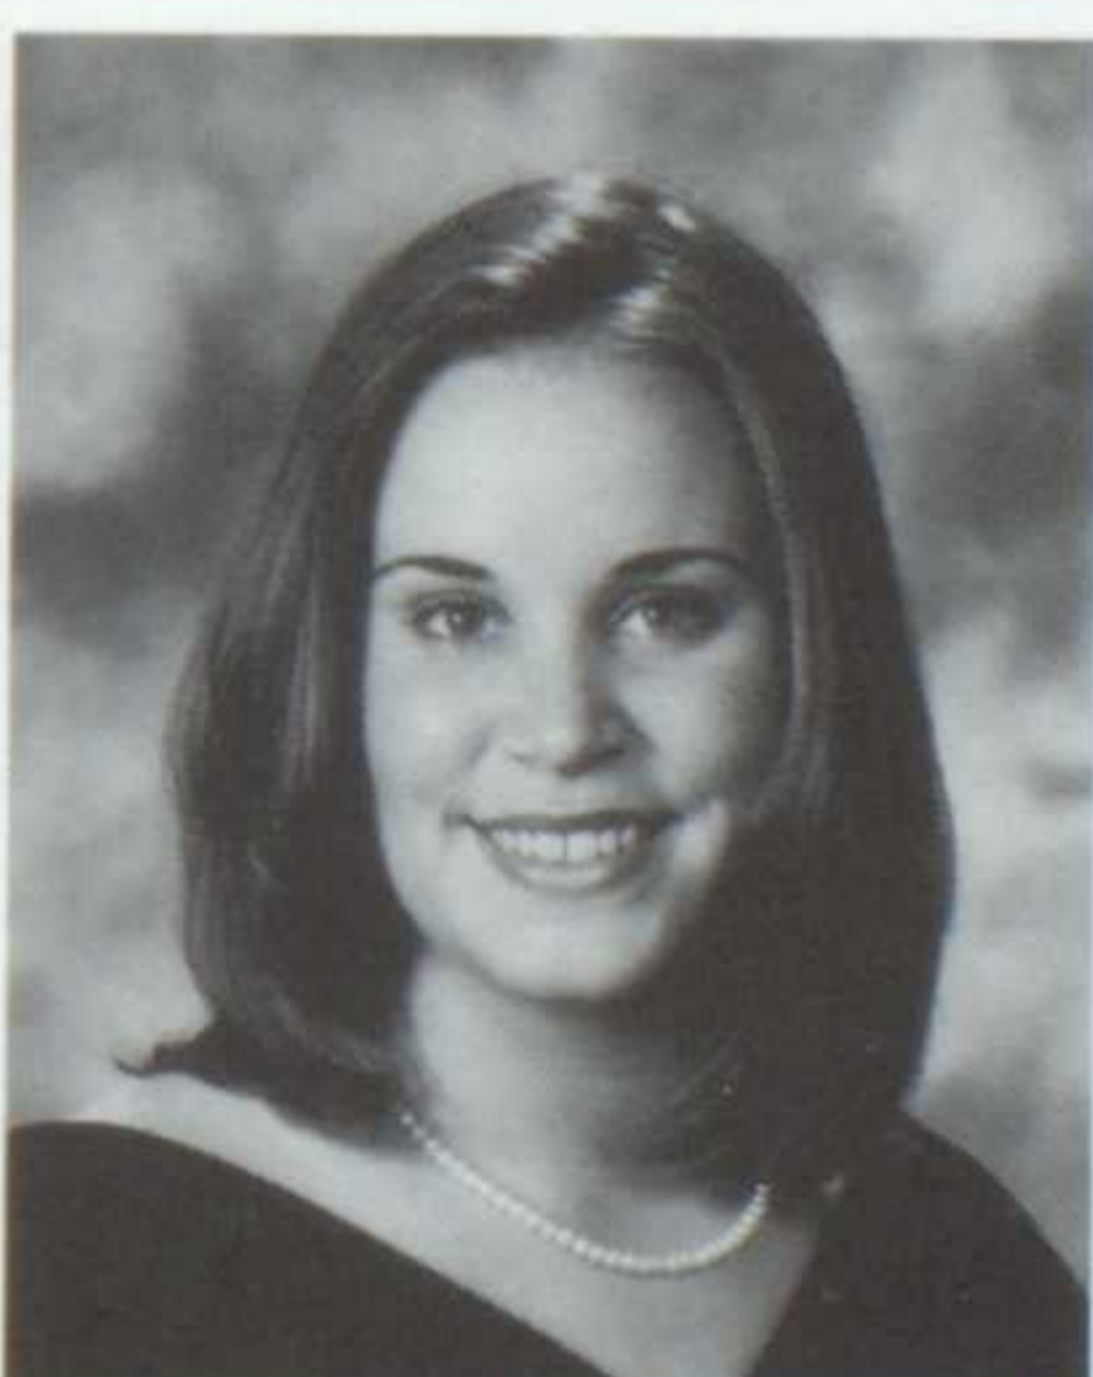

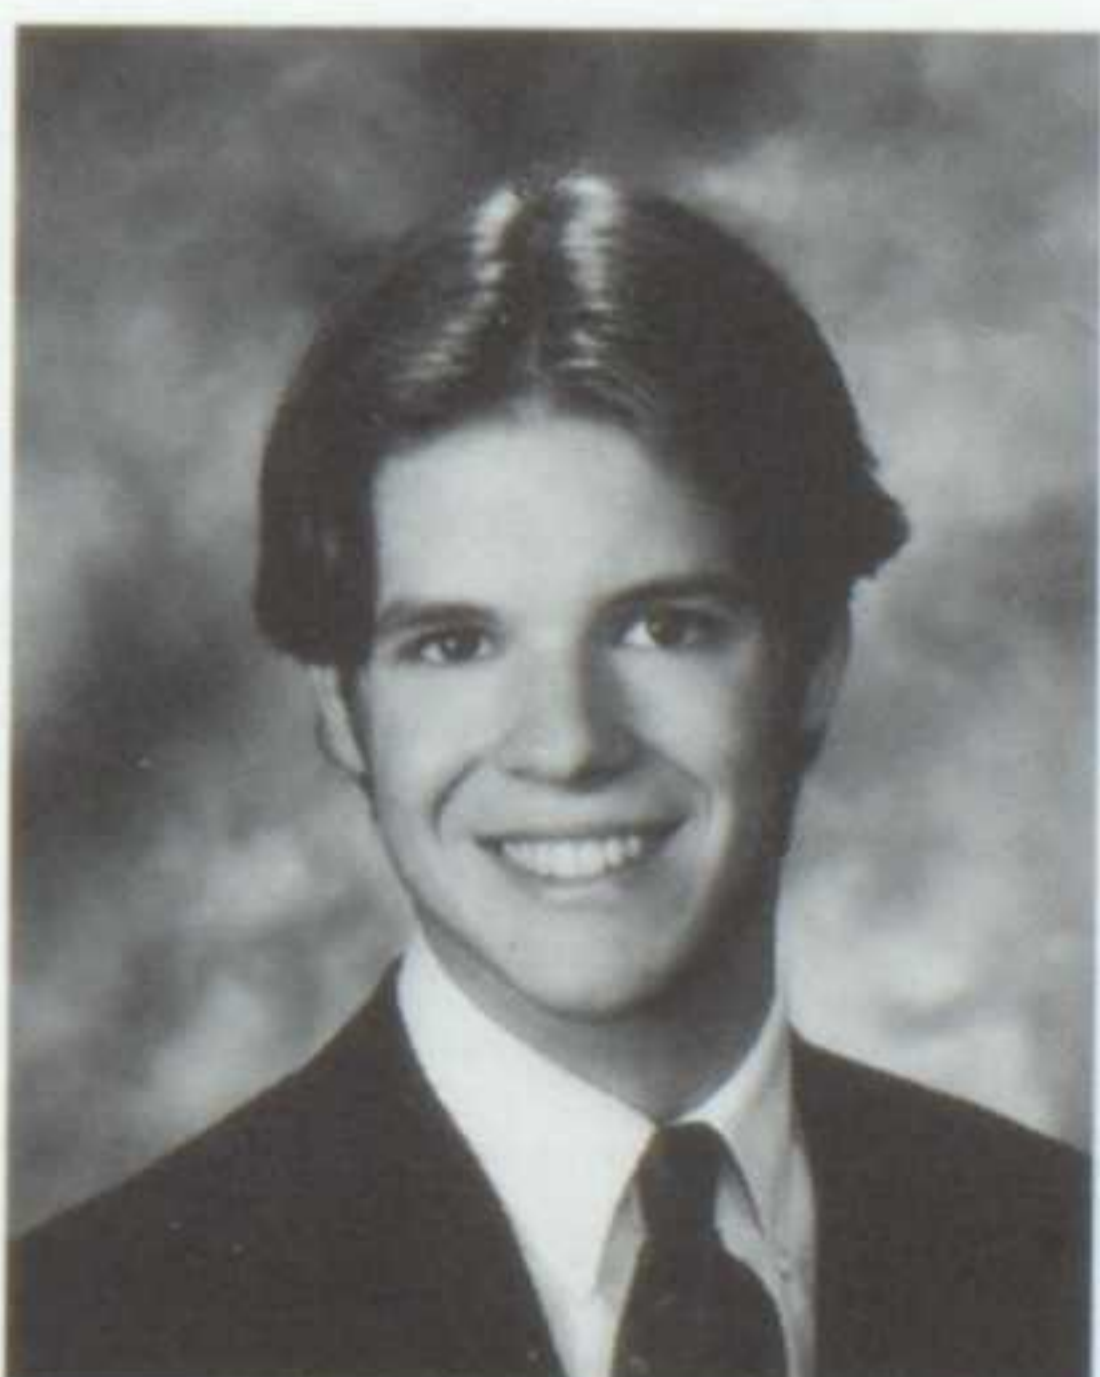

CHEERS. "Now it is time for the perfect cheer," said Susie Cleary. The fall cheerleaders had a dance to Vanilla Ice, Ice, Ice, Baby that they called the 'perfect cheer' based on the infamous skit done on Saturday Night Live by Ariana & Ted. It fit in whenever they couldn't think of any other cheer to do.

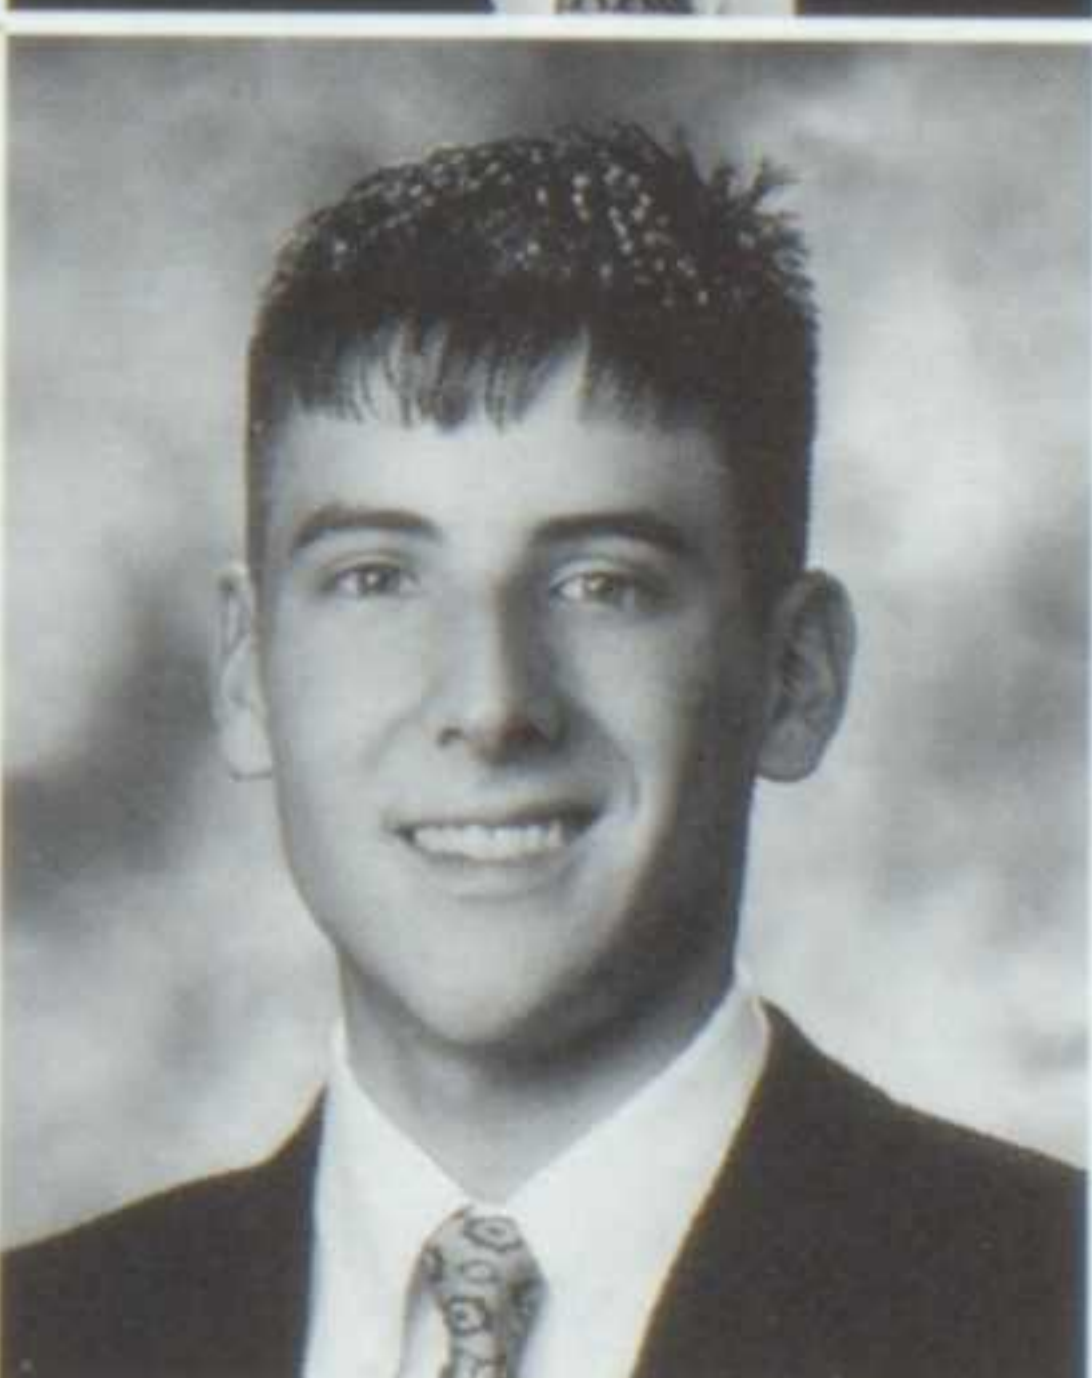

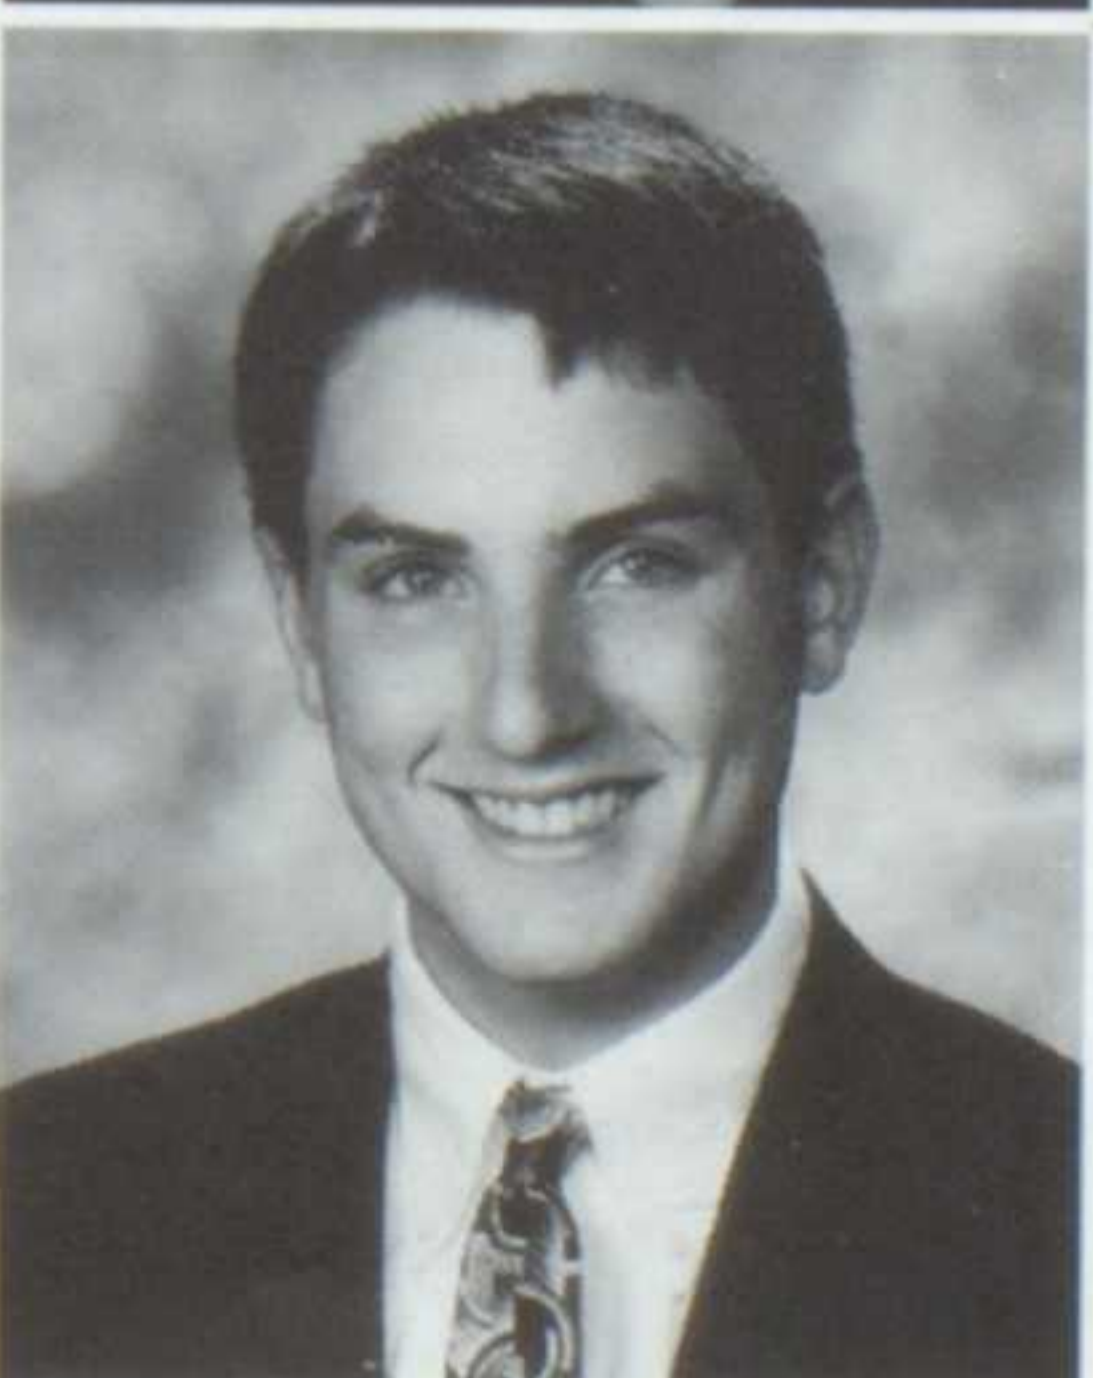

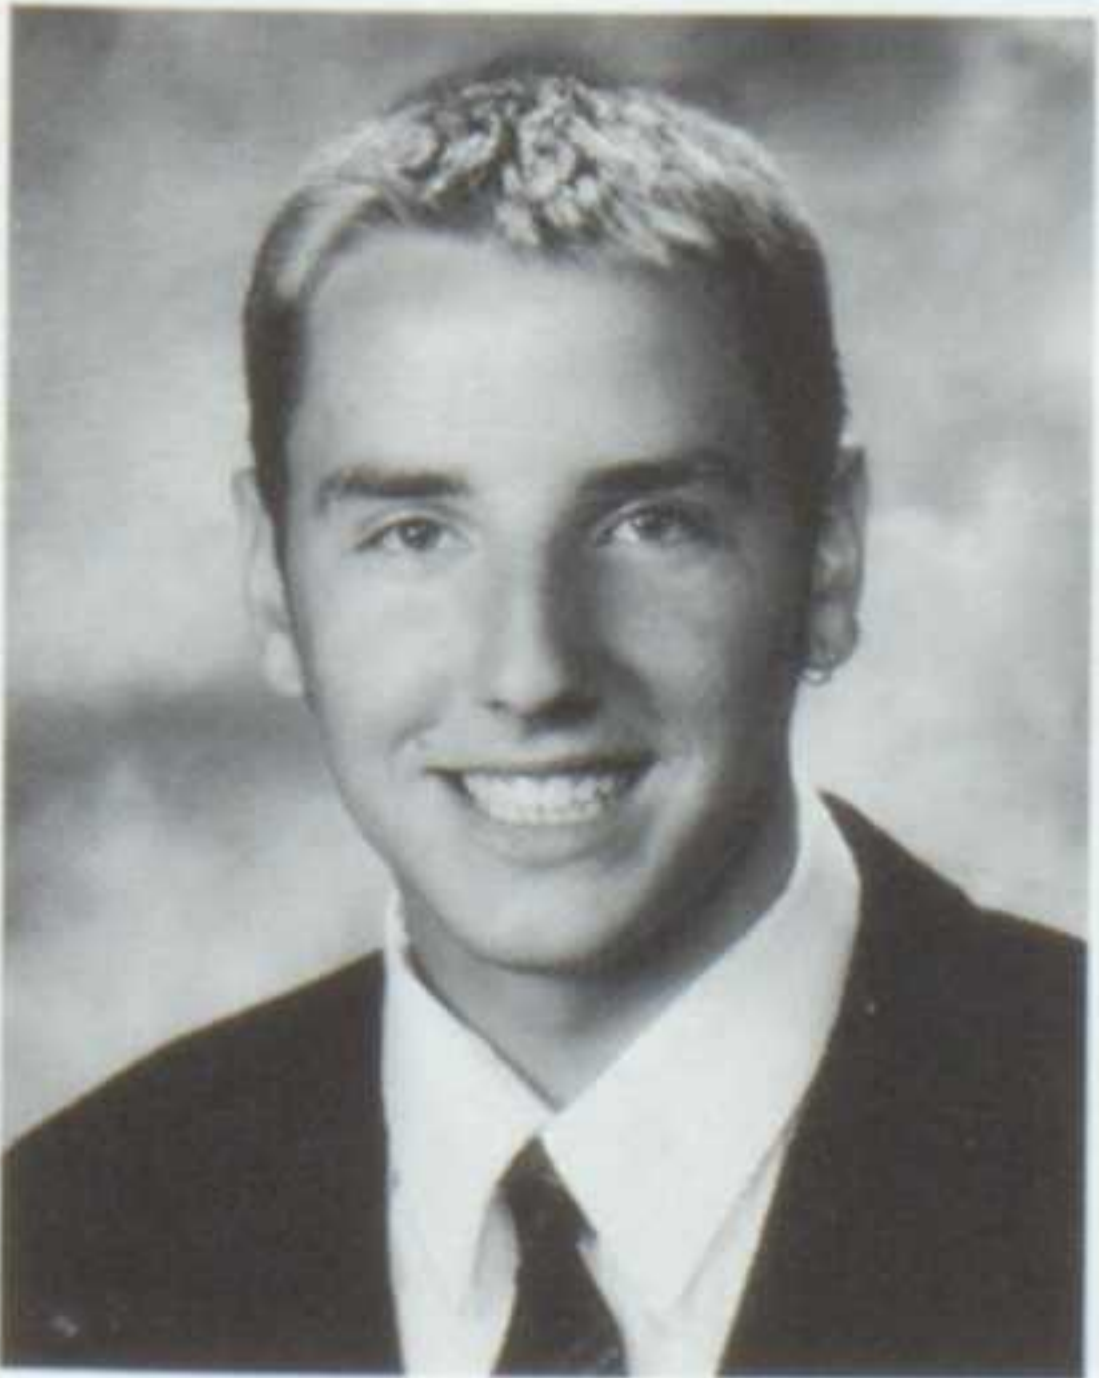

"I get my motivation from the Beach Boys singing a little song called "Be True to your School." It changed my life," said Jon Witmer.

• "My voice cracks; I could never speak in public as a job. Sometimes I even have to go to the bathroom. On that note, I've set the record for going to the bathroom in high school -every period, every day," Evan Kauker.

• "How does 'Kelly's Pub' sound? I want to own my own bar because I enjoy a social atmosphere. Can you blame me? I'm Irish," Bridget Kelly.

Listen Up.

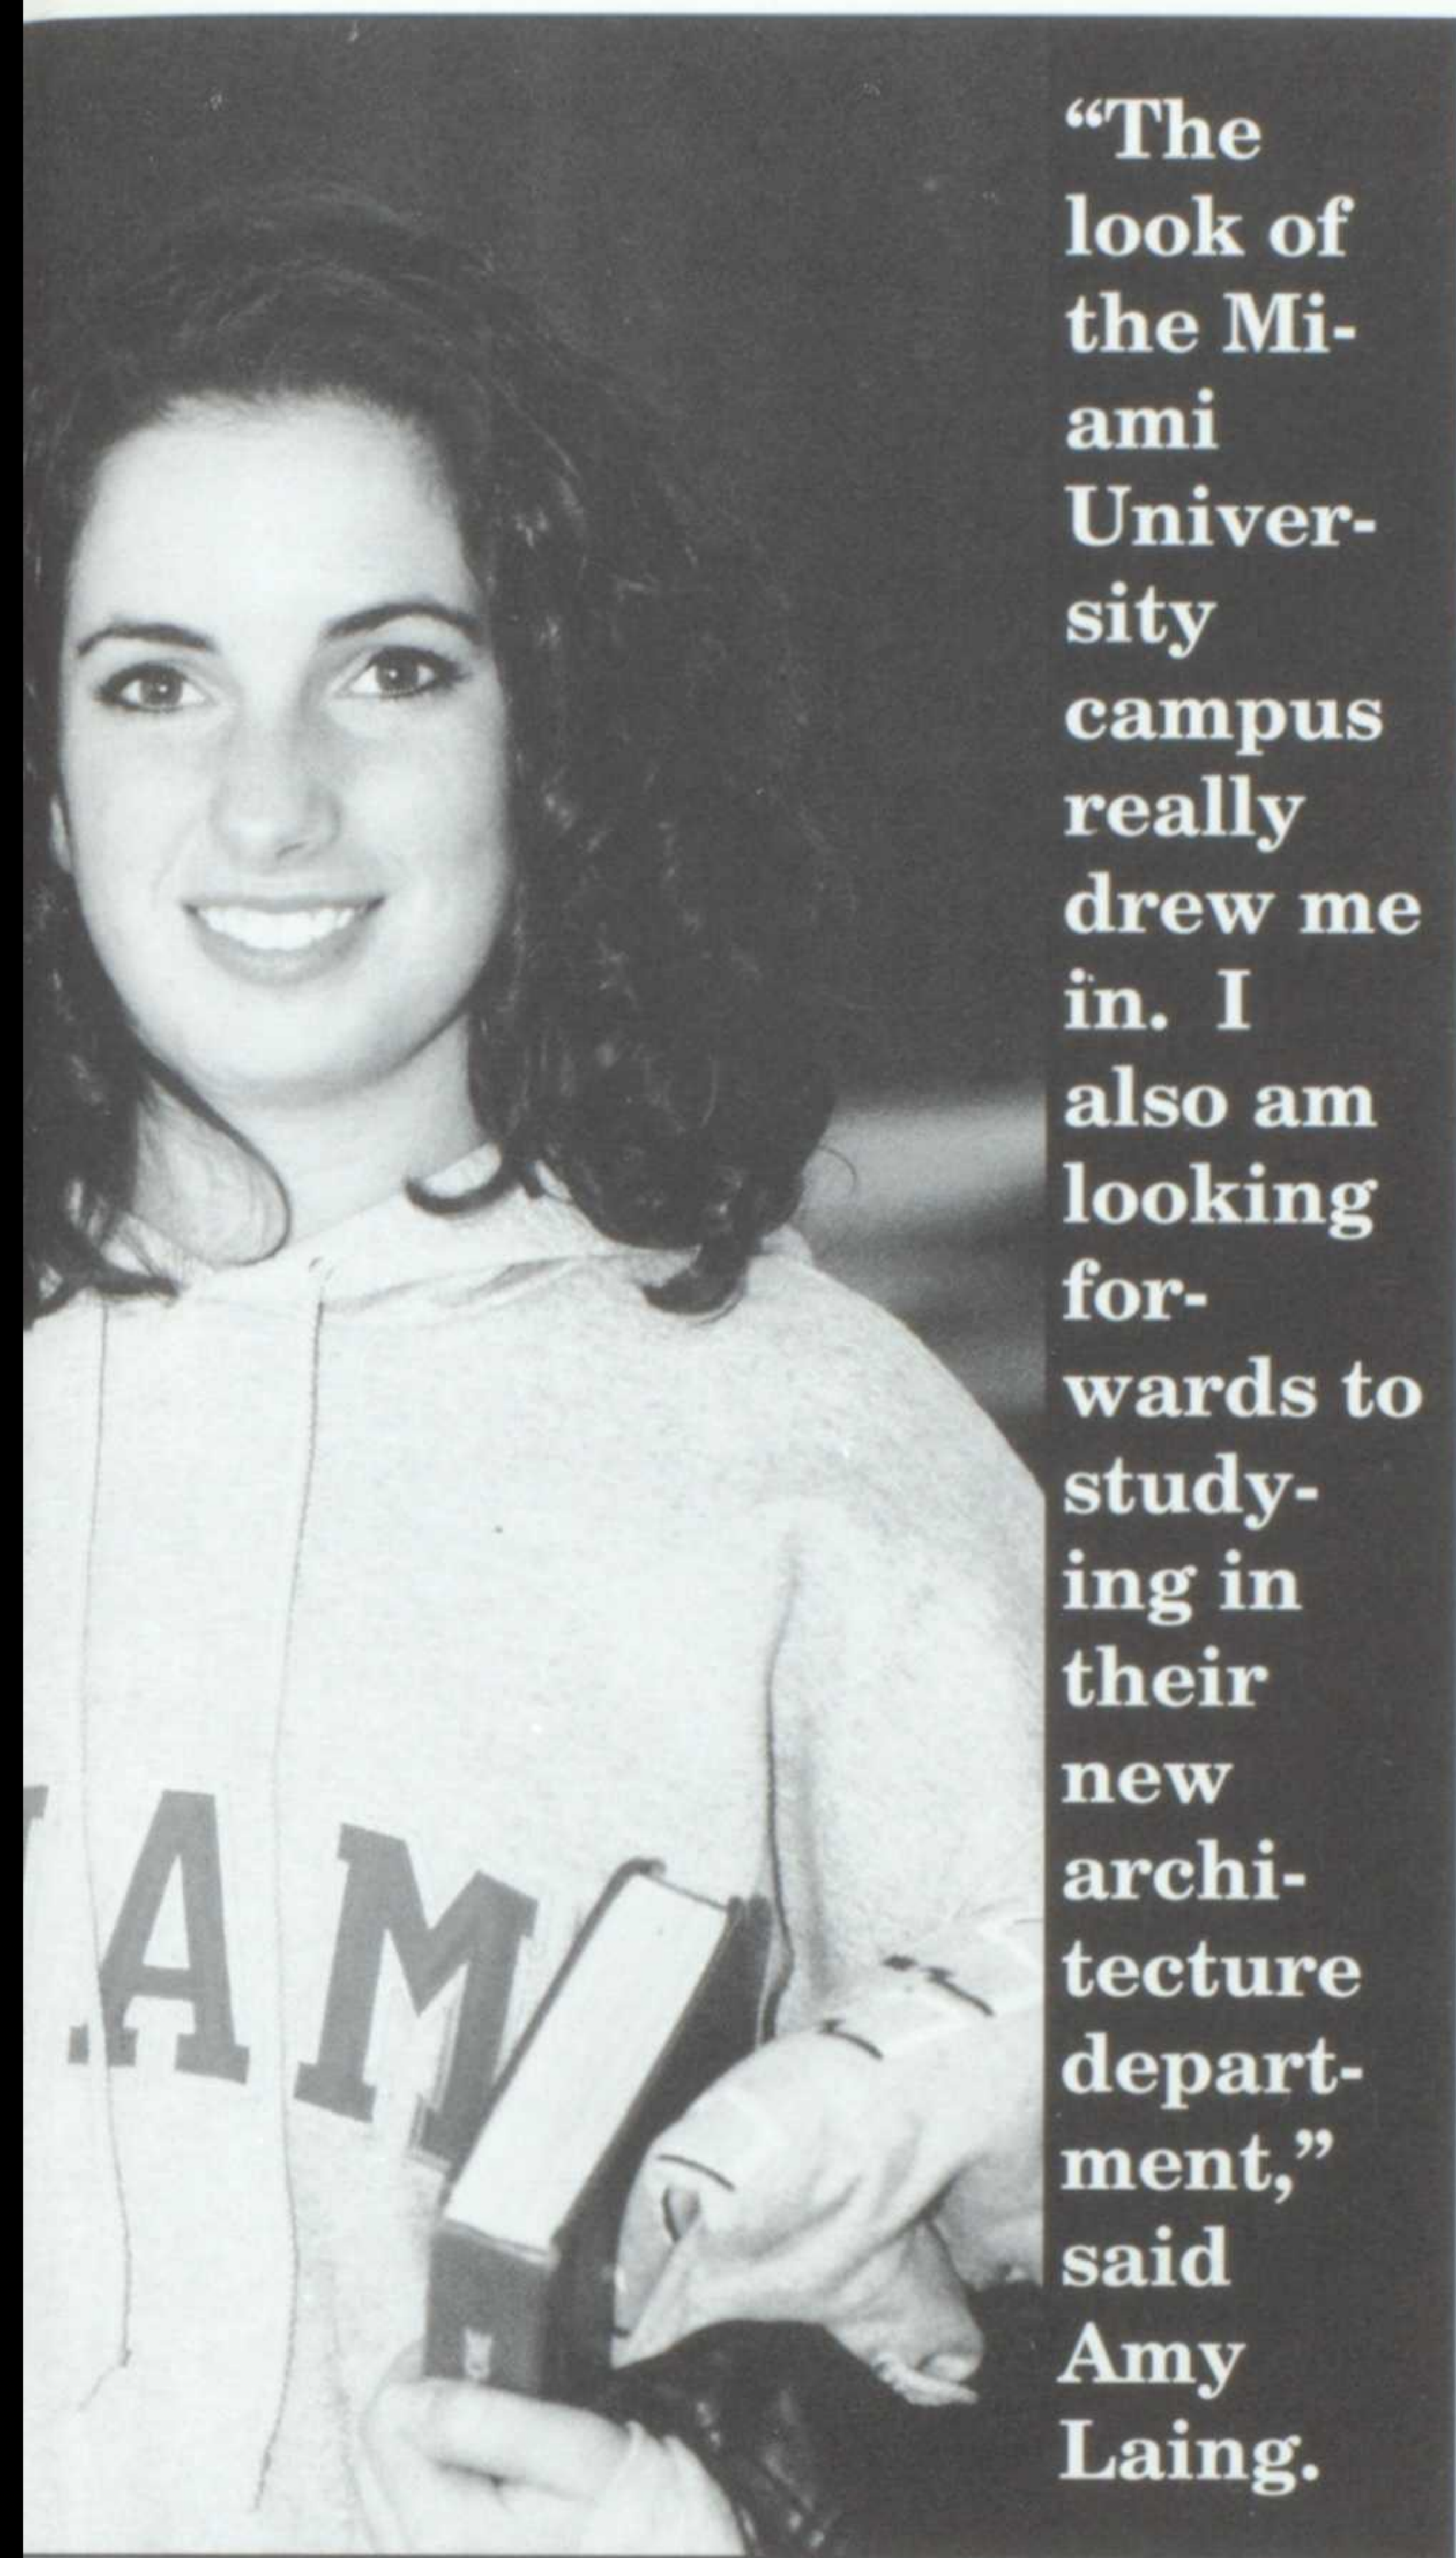

"It seems to me that most seniors are leaving high school in a lifelong pursuit of a non-guaranteed freedom that lies in an amassed wealth of capital or influence, while a minority already have a life long freedom through religion, speech, or happiness. It is the former that will acquire an empty wealth or collapse under circumstance, & the latter who will use freedom as a tool to tame circumstance or a tool to share itself. It is the latter who won't need capital or influence because they have an enduring freedom. It is the meek who shall inherit the earth."

Senior year has been a blast!

It's been great sharing our lives with each other, in good times and bad times. But it's not over yet. No matter where we go in life, we will always be together forever! Whether we visit each other during college breaks, exchange e-mails and letters, or just remember the memories between us, we will never grow apart. We have made each other who we are today. We will continue to grow with each other forever and ever.

It's eighteen years, give or take,
Since this man came to stay.
His fiery wit and gentle charm
Would brighten many a day.

Sympathetic soul, agile mind,
These traits made him friend to many.
Athlete's skills, a batter's eye,
Something quite uncanny.

Maybe not the teacher's pet,
But nonetheless a scholar.
A giant eagle would spread its wings
So this man could earn a dollar.

And if this man should cross your path,
Take time to return his smile.
For us older folks can assure you,
Eighteen years is much too short a while.

Looking back on all of it,
This man's goals weren't always clear.
But his sights in life came into focus
With each passing year.

As time goes on, this man will know
How much he can achieve.
His dream is just beginning,
And from us he must take his leave.

If there's any advice that we could give,
Perhaps a word, just one:
It would be to trust yourself,
And to be proud of the man you've Become.

You have earned our deepest respect,
Evan, and you will always have our love.

making a rap label!"

-Rennie White, 11

become a bum. The rest of the money I would donate to charity and finding the cure for cancer. I wouldn't keep it for myself because money is the root of all evil."

Betsy-

It'll be weird not having you around everyday. Whose clothes will we borrow? Who will give me crazy speech topics? Who's going to beat me up? I've always respected you, your art, originality, and leadership. Thanks for everything.

Love you always, Katie cha-CHING - What is your favorite thing to do that doesn't cost any money?

"I can never find anything to do when I don't have any money, so I borrow from people. I don't score very high on the creative scale."

-Adam Dietrich, 12

"I like to go online at night. It's a lot of fun because you can talk to your friends that you see at school, and also keep in touch with your long distance friendships."

Peter,

Although the times we have shared have not been long, they are filled with wonderful memories; from snowbanks to dances and aimless drives to lazy nights.
I will always remember your smiling face and continuous laughter.
I look forward to the times to come and I wish you the best of luck in all you do. Good luck, have fun and watch-out for snowbanks!

What is something you bought for a lot of money that you later regret purchasing?

"I bought this electronic planner for sixty two dollars with my first paycheck. I never use it at all because it was so tedious to enter things. It was a big waste."

-Lauren Grissom, 11

"On an impulse, I bought a BMX bike without even trying it out. After a while, I realized I wasted my money because the bike wasn't what I expected."

-Matt Huddle, 11

Well, girls, what can I say? These past years have been the best of my life. I value our friendship immensely, and will treasure it forever. We've had so many memories, yet so many more to come. Good luck in all you do, I'll always be here to support you. I Love You Guys!

You may think we're just accountants, but we're actually pretty cool.

In a lot of ways we're a lot like the students at Bay High. We get up in the morning, we go to work. We have our own set of rivals. They may look a bit different in their suits instead of a football uniform, but it's all the same -- we're still competing.

At Ernst & Young, our business is helping other businesses get better. You may even know some of our clients -- The Rock & Roll Hall of Fame, the NHL, The Coca-Cola Company, McDonald's, Gap Inc. and Reebok International.

The headlines for each sound were created by graphic designer April Murphy from Houston, Texas. Senior artist Paul Skoch designed all headlines for the senior section. (Thanks Pablo. -Betsy)

All group shots and portraits were taken by Thomas & Thomas Studio. The remaining candid photos were taken by the photography staff advised by Karen DiBenedetto. Photographers included: Kerry McGinty, Brittany Reilly, Michelle Teti, & Rachel Zapf. Special thanks to Lori Sisto for help with the sports pictures.

Thanks to Laura Schaub, a box of Lucky Charms to Casey Nichols, a pair of muzzy new shoes for Martha Akers, & ♥ ♡ yearbook to the guy who puts Shania Twain to shame, John Cutzinger for their ideas & support.

Thank-You

Thank you to "The Boop," Erick Coolidge-Bielefeld for sharing his mom-time & toys while entertaining the staff, Marie Bielefeld for bringing Coolidge her coffee and running our errands, & Ida Coolidge for watching the girls & taking care of things at home. Thank you to Cassie for keeping us company. And to Kaia, weekends at the Pub will never be the same without you.

A SPECIAL THANKS TO KEVIN LIPTRAP FOR BRINGING US FOOD AND CHECKING ON OUR GENERAL WELL-BEING, JIM CAHOON FOR BEING UNDERSTANDING OF OUR ABSURD HOURS, SHEILA BENEDETTUM & THE LIBRARY STAFF FOR THEIR TREMENDOUS HELP WITH FINDING INFORMATION FOR THE GATEFOLD, RON FLOWERS AND THE CUSTODIAL STAFF FOR HELPING TO KEEP THE GARBAGE IN THE ROOM AT A MINIMUM, DAVE PETERS FOR CHECKING IN WHEN HE ARRIVED AND LEFT ON SUNDAYS, & THE ENGLISH DEPARTMENT FOR LETTING US "BORROW" THEIR COMPUTER.

Coverage: Content focuses on coverage which will meet the wants and needs of the majority of the target audience, the students and staff of Bay High School, so long as those wants and needs are not contradictory to the principles of scholastic journalism. The staff encourages and requests constructive criticism of any part of the book, both before and after publication. The book is, however, as fair and accurate, complete and honest as possible. The final authority rests with the yearbook staff, its editors and advisers. No material which is libelous, irresponsible and/or an advocate of illegal activities will be published. No material the editors or advisers deem in poor taste will be printed. Photography: All students and school personnel must have their portraits taken by the official photographer (Thomas & Thomas West Shore Studio) to be included in the book. Senior portraits taken after December 1 may not appear in the book because of deadlines with the yearbook printer.

Purchase of the book does not guarantee the purchaser's photo will appear in the book. Although the staff makes every effort for accuracy, we are not responsible for students or faculty left out of the book.

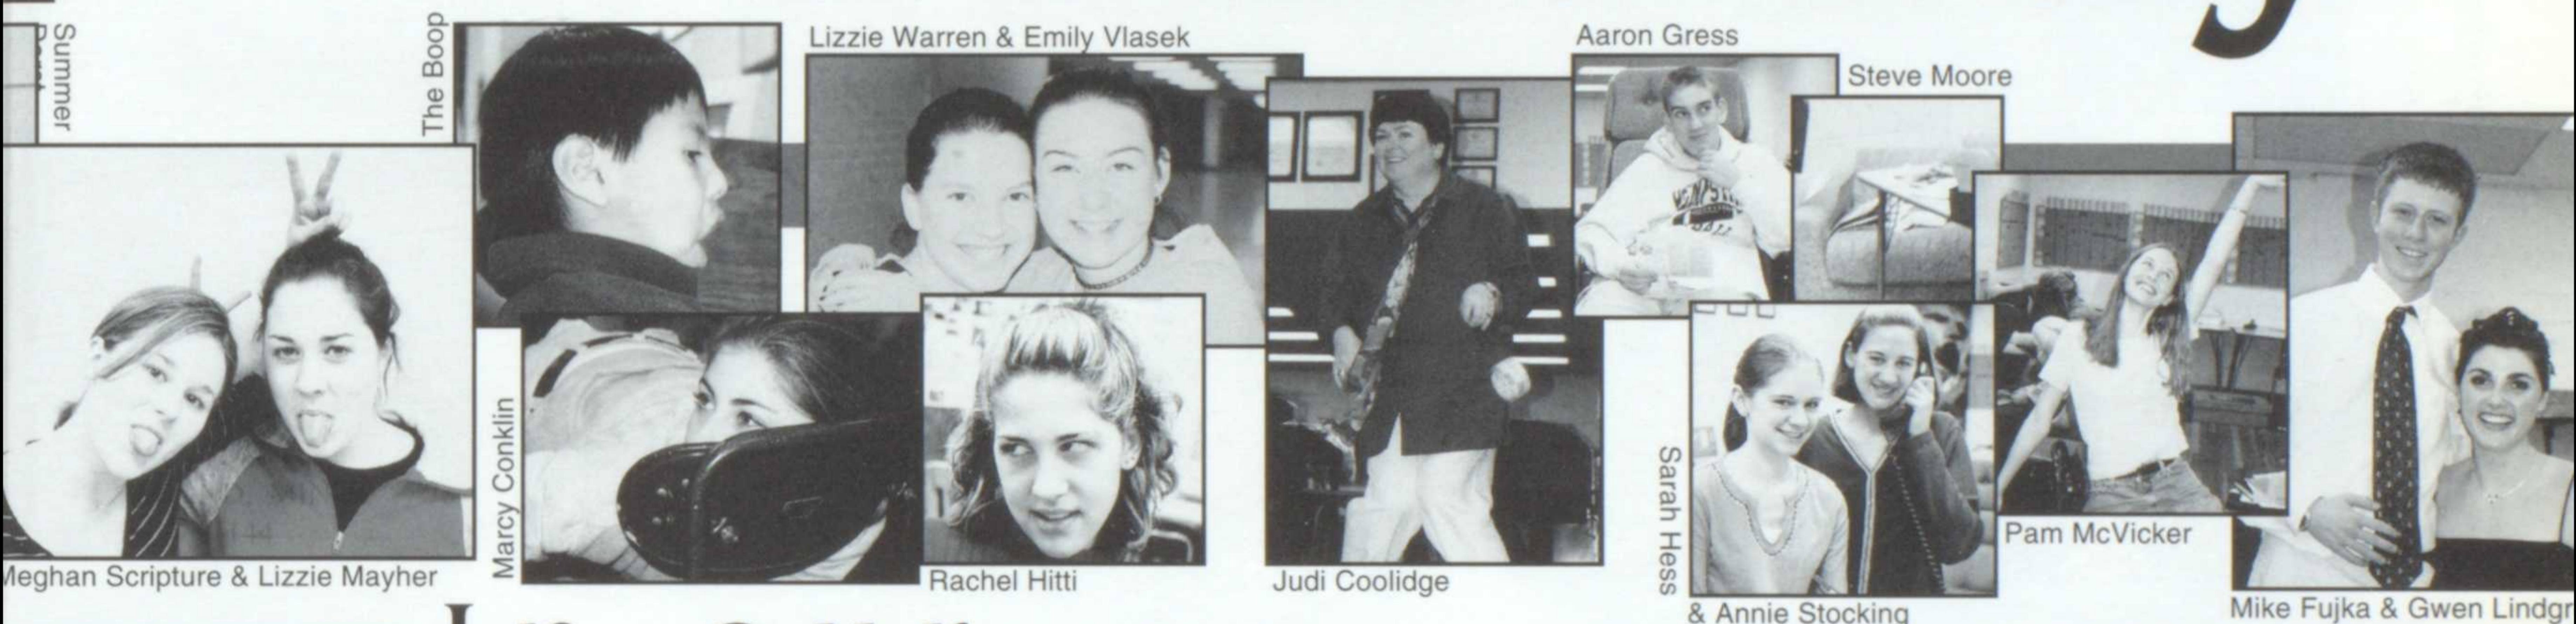

Advertising: All advertising accepted by the staff must follow the same editorial guidelines. Acceptance of advertisements does not constitute endorsement by the yearbook staff, or any affiliate of the Bay Village City School District. Because of liability, no encrypted, coded, or abbreviated messages will be printed. They will be returned to the advertiser.

THIS YEARBOOK IS A MEMBER OF THE NATIONAL SCHOLASTIC PRESS ASSOCIATION, THE COLUMBIA SCHOLASTIC PRESS ASSOCIATION, AND THE GREAT LAKES INTERSCHOLASTIC PRESS ASSOCIATION. THE 70TH VOLUME RECEIVED A FOUR-STAR ALL-AMERICAN RATING FROM NSPA. THE BOOK, EDITED BY LIESL BROWN AND TERESA PAULUS, RECEIVED A GOLD MEDALIST & SILVER CROWN FROM CSPA & ALSO WON A BUCKEYE AWARD FROM THE GLIPA.

Sounds Like Bay was published in Vasalia, California by the Jostens Printing Plant. The staff completed the 208 page volume on March 4, 2000. Sounds Like Bay covers from March 1, 1999 to March 1, 2000. The paper is 100 pound and 712 copies were printed.

Sounds Like Bay

Helpers
THE BOOK WAS COMPLETED WITH THE HELP OF OUR IN-PLANT CONSULTANT LORI NYGARD-HALL, & THE ABSOLUTELY AMAZING, ELVIS-LOVING JUDY K. ALLEN. SOUNDS LIKE BAY WAS ADVISED BY THE BRILLIANT YEARBOOK GURU, JUDI COOLIDGE; OUR ASSISTANT ADVISER WAS SHARON SAUER.

In our ninth year using Yeartech software, Sounds like Bay was produced with Adobe Pagemaker 5.0, and Yeartech Last Name First 1.2. Sounds Like Bay was created on 12 Power Macintoshes, and backed up on 12 Iomega ZipDrives. Seventy-five percent layouts were printed on an Apple Laserwriter 4/600PS and a Hewlett Packard Laserjet 6MP.

Personal Notes
FROM GWEN: I WOULD LIKE TO THANK MY FAMILY FOR KEEPING ME SANE, MY SISTER FOR MAKING ME SMILE, MY FRIENDS FOR BRINGING ME SLUSHIES, ROO FOR LIKING ME EVEN WHEN I WAS STRESSED, THE STAFF FOR WORKING HARD AND PUTTING UP WITH MY LAME MUSIC, MIKE FOR KEEPING ME IN LINE :-), & COOLIDGE FOR MAKING EVERY DAY IN THE PUB AN ADVENTURE

From Mike: I want to thank everyone on the staff for working so hard to get the book done and putting up with my power-trips. The people that get a special thank you are Stephanie for listening, Gwen for being one of my best friends, Cool for helping me deal with stress, my family for supporting me, all my running friends and coaches for keeping me in line, and all the Allens for talking on the phone at odd hours and sending us candy. This wouldn't be possible without your help and understanding.
